BERLIN ENVOYS REACH LONDON ON DEBTS PLEA

Bruening and Curtius to Talk Reductions With Britons.

MACDONALD RECEIVES GERMANS IN HIS HOME

Fatherland's Ministers Say Problem Must Be Solved by Nations' Aid.

London, June 5 (A.P.).—Two German envoys, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, arrived in England today to explain Germany's economic condition as what is seen as a preliminary to requesting reduction of the "postponable" portions of the Young's plan for payment of reparations.

Tonight the visitors were elaborately entertained at the foreign office before proceeding to Chequers, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's country home, tomorrow for the conferences. A number of cabinet ministers and members of parliament, as well as the German Ambassador, attended tonight's entertainment.

Addressing London newspapermen in English after his arrival from Southampton, Bruening outlined the plight of German finances. "In the Young plan (against the Dawes plan) there was a reduction of 700,000,000 marks (about $168,000,000)," he said. "Everybody believed this would enable Germany to lower taxes. Instead we have been forced to raise taxes and reduce expenditures in the last 14 months by $2,500,000,000 marks (about $600,000,000)."

Reception Pleases Envoys.

Bruening expressed appreciation for the manner in which he and Curtius had been received in England by MacDonald, Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, and others.

The German chancellor said they planned to talk about "many difficulties, which are felt all over the world, and which are a great danger, especially to agriculture and the working classes." He outlined efforts of the government and municipalities to lower taxes and to produce a sound financial policy, adding that a heavy burden had been placed on all classes in Germny.

"Political difficulties in Germany are very urgent," he said. "Radicalism is growing there. Yet we know the solution of these problems is not possible among ourselves alone. Such problems are common to all countries. The present German government is convinced that the only possible way to solve them is by frank cooperation of all nations of the world."

Equal to Heavy Task.

Prime Minister MacDonald, Arthur Henderson, secretary of state for foreign affairs; Heinrich Bruening and Julius Curtius, the German envoys, are all of studious natures and have keen analytical minds.

Although of different political and religious affiliation, Bruening and Curtius have long worked together with a common aim, the well-being of their fatherland.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who will be host to the visitors at his country estate at Chequers, is a skilled diplomat and long experienced in dealing with knotty problems. His favorite method of handling international questions is to sit down calmly with other statesmen and quietly discuss the matter in hand, as he did when he talked of disarmament with President Hoover not long ago on the banks of Rapidan, in Virginia.

Henderson Is Able Aid.

Henderson, who has worked smoothly with him for years, is also a veteran statesman. He rose to his present position from an apprentice iron moulder. He has attended a number of recent important international conferences and has won the confidence of many of his countrymen. He was born in Glasgow and was the first Laborite to join the Asquith government. Since then he has held various cabinet posts.

In Germany Chancellor Bruening has had a prominent part in guiding the political destiny of the republic. He is a keen observer, hard worker, and is considered an authority on financial and economic matters. He enjoys "heavy" reading, his recreation including perusal of government and business reports. He finds little time for sports or social activities, and says he has always been too busy to marry. Simplicity is the keynote of his life.

Somewhat different is his colleague and coworker, Dr. Curtius. He is essentially a "family man," being devoted to his four daughters and two sons. He is always courteous and is a fashionable dresser.

Curtius Is Orator.

An impressive and persuasive orator, Curtius is also studious and fond of reading. He is thoroughly conversed in international affairs and studies his problems from the point of view of a trained lawyer.

After returning to their apartment in the Carlton Hotel this evening, the German statesmen said that their first evening in London was "eminently satisfactory." They added that their English hosts were doing everything to make them feel that England considers herself Germany's friend.

There were no speeches at the dinner, they said, but MacDonald proposed toasts to King George of England and President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany. The Germans chatted a long time with the German Ambassador after reaching the hotel, and did not retire until after midnight.

Robbins Is Appointed U. S. Protocol Chief

Minister to El Salvador to Plan Ceremonials for Government.

WARREN DELANO ROBBINS.

The delicate tasks of arranging White House ceremonials and official dinners, of meeting and escorting visiting dignitaries, of guarding the immunity of diplomats and their liquor—these and other duties have been entrusted to a seasoned young diplomat of 46, Warren Delano Robbins, now the Minister to El Salvador.

Minister Robbins' new title, Secretary of State Stimson said yesterday, will be chief of the Division of Protocol of the State Department. He will assume this title and his new duties as soon as his 60 days' leave are up.

Up until now, there has been a division known as the Division of International Conferences and Protocol.

In this announcement yesterday, Secretary Stimson explained that the work of the division had increased so greatly that it was decided to create two divisions, these to be known as the Division of International Conferences and the Division of Protocol.

The Division of International Conferences, as was announced a week or more ago, will be headed by James Clement Dunn. Henceforth Mr. Dunn will concern himself primarily with making arrangements for international conferences or gatherings in which the United States is a participant.

In the last year, the United States participated in 82 international con-

POPE SPURNS OFFER MADE BY MUSSOLINI

Compromise Plan to Reopen Some Catholic Clubs Is Rejected.

Rome, June 5 (A.P.).—New efforts to reach a solution of the present controversy between the Italian government and the Vatican were fruitless today, despite what was interpreted as a compromise offer by Premier Mussolini which failed to satisfy Pope Pius.

The pontiff, so far as could be learned, is insistent on the principles which he feels are involved.

It was stated in responsible quarters that the Pope refused to consider the Duce's offer to permit reopening of Catholic clubs for women and girls, replying in effect that all or none of the Catholic clubs recently dissolved must be restored to good standing.

Premier Mussolini's offer was regarded as the first definite result of secret conversations which Marchese Pacelli, papal emissary, has had with Mussolini, supposedly at the latter's home.

Pope Pius himself was understood to have written a brief editorial in Osservatore Romano which demands that the Fascists present proofs, if they have them, that the Catholic clubs were political. This editorial accepts as a fact that the Fascist attitude remains unchanged and speaks with scorn for the Fascist party's "respect" for the church and the Pope.

In Vatican circles the pontiff is represented as holding that Mussolini must enforce the Lateran treaty, which declares that the "person of the supreme pontiff is sacred and inviolable" and that public offenses committed on Italian territory against the person of the pontiff by speeches and acts are punishable in the same manner as against the King of Italy.

The concordat, it was stated, sanctions Catholic Action and until there is proof that it is political, the Vatican contends it is inviolate.

In line with this reasoning, the Vatican already has demanded reparation and the arrest and punishment of those guilty of excesses against the church and is awaiting a reply from the government.

The Vatican has received hundreds of messages of sympathy and encouragement to Pope Pius, many of them from persons in the United States.

1931 WORKER LOSS SET AT 2½ BILLIONS

Labor Federation Head Lays Blame on Wage Cuts and Unemployment.

(Associated Press.)

An estimate that a combination of wage cuts, part-time employment and unemployment has cost workers more than $2,500,000,000 in wages to date in 1931 was announced last night by the American Federation of Labor.

Both President Green, of the federation, and Secretary of Labor Doak said separately yesterday, however, that the losses due to wage cuts—known to have effected more than 125,000 workers in factories alone—had not been caused by large employers of labor.

"The wage standard has been holding up well," Doak said, "and I believe the larger firms should be congratulated. Although nearly 200 establishments employing nearly 23,000 workers cut wages in April, this is a small percentage compared to the total number of firms and workers throughout the country. The wage sniping appears to be of a local nature."

Agreeing that large employers "are in general maintaining wage rates and intend to continue," Green nevertheless reiterated a recent statement that workers should organize to combat any cut—striking if necessary.

"Organized workers everywhere," the labor chief said, "have developed a wonderful morale. They apparently are determined to resist any reduction of wages to the fullest extent."

Both Green and Doak attributed the general upholding of wage stand-

Passenger on Ship Kills 2, Wounds 29

Filipino Runs Amuck With Knife on Pacific Liner; Seized by Crew.

Tokyo, June 5 (A.P.).—A Filipino steerage passenger stabbed two persons to death and wounded 29 others today on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, bound from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Yokohama.

The Filipino, Granciano Bilas, 42, ran amuck with a knife, stabbing indiscriminately. He killed Chan Ching, Chinese boy, and Chan Yui, Chinese carpenter, members of the crew. Officers of the ship, armed with pistols, cornered the killer and placed him in irons for trial at Hong Kong. For half an hour the Filipino had eluded pursuers as he dashed about the steamship, throwing it into an uproar.

Mrs. Stillman, 51, Divorced, Weds Fowler McCormick, 32

MRS. FOWLER M'CORMICK

Groom Helped to Reconcile Banker and Wife After Sensational Fight.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Mrs Anne Urquhart Stillman obtained a divorce yesterday from James A. Stillman and was immediately married to Fowler McCormick, of the wealthy and socially eminent Chicago family.

The divorce—and the wedding—were accomplished with utmost secrecy, in contrast to precedents in Stillman marital matters. Their original divorce action, started in 1920, was in the courts six years. The attending publicity, involvng such matters as Mr. Stillman's charge that an Indian guide, instead of himself, was the father of Guy Stillman, and Mrs. Stillman's counter-charge that her husband had been living with Flo Leeds, chorus girl, was so sensa-

G. O. P. CLAIMS RASKOB STILL IS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

ADVANCES $40,000 MORE FOR PARTY USE

Report of Treasurer Gerard, Filed Yesterday, Is Hit by Hatfield.

The Republicans still regard John J. Raskob and his millions as a political issue. This was made manifest late yesterday when the Republican national committee issued a statement saying that the chairman of the Democratic national committee was strengthening his "mortgage" on the "once proud party of Jefferson and Jackson."

The statement, given out under the name of Senator Henry D. Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, was issued after James W. Gerard, wartime Ambassador to Germany, now the treasurer of the Democratic national committee, had filed a financial statement with William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives.

This showed that Cairman Raskob had loaned $40,000 more to the Democratic national committee.

Commenting on this, Senator Hatfield said:

"Execution of the elaborate program for financing the Democratic national committee in the sum of $6,000,000, adopted by the Democratic national committee at its March meeting in Washington, appears to have encountered some difficulties.

"Anyhow Mr. John J. Raskob, chairman of the committee, found himself still financing practically all of the committee's activities during the quarter which ended on May 31 last.

"The report of the treasurer of the committee to the clerk of the House of Representatives, as reported in the press, shows total receipts of $41,721 for that three-month period of which $40,000 is listed as 'loans' from Mr. Raskob. These advances, made in four $10,000 lots increased the total that the committee owes Mr. Raskob to $295,250, and advanced to $707,054 the grand sum in which the Democratic committee is 'in the red.' Besides the hug esum owed to Mr. Raskob, the committee still is indebted to the County Trust Co. of New York for $402,250 on account of the principal of loans, plus $9,554 of accrued interest still unpaid.

Steadily Increasing Mortgage.

"Thus it is seen that Mr. Raskob is steadily increasing the size of the mortgage which he holds upon the once proud party of Jefferson and Jackson.

In the presidential campaign of 1928, Chairman Raskob was denounced almost as frequently as was Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee for President. Especially was this true in the South, where Mr. Raskob's religion was stressed by the anti-Smith orators.

In the congressional campaign of 1930, Chairman Raskob again was denounced by Republican orators. Why

MAN LEAPS 150 FEET TO DEATH AS SIGHT FAILS

Jack C. Peter, 71, Member of Prominent Family, Commits Suicide.

HITS JAGGED ROCKS AT CABIN JOHN RUN

Ends Life on His Birthday; Feared He Would Become Burden to Relatives.

Poising for a moment on the railing to wave gaily at two would-be rescuers who were running toward him, Jack C. Peter, 71 years old, of Bethesda, Md., member of a prominent Montgomery County family, yesterday jumped from Cabin John Bridge to his death on the rocks 150 feet below. Yesterday was his birthday.

Mr. Peter is believed to have been despondent because of ill health. For several months his eyes had been failing him and he feared he would become a burden to his relatives, police of the Bethesda substation, Montgomery County police, learned. He had been seen around the bridge for several days and is believed to have been planning the leap for some time.

Inquest Not Decided.

Montgomery County Policemen Theodore Voliten and Windsor C. Poole responded to the emergency call sent in by the two witnesses. They summoned Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda, who pronounced the man dead. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of W. Reuben Pumphrey, in Rockville. State's Attorney Stedman Prescott will decide whether or not an inquest is necessary today after police conclude their investigation.

According to John H. Brightenburg, 5726 Conduit road, and Marshall Billmeyer, of Cabin John, Md., who were walking on the road near the bridge, they saw the elderly man climbing onto the railing on the east side of the bridge and both attempted to reach him in time to pull him back. Just before he leaped, he turned to them and waved and then jumped into space.

Fell on Jagged Rocks.

The bottom of Cabin John Run, which flows beneath the bridge, is covered with jagged rocks which are only partially covered by the two or three feet of water.

Mr. Peter was born on the old Peter farm which is now occupied by the Town and Country Club, on Rockville Pike. He was a cousin of Judge Robert B. Peter, of the Circuit Court at Rockville and of the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, chancellor of the Washington Cathedral. His family has been prominent in the county since its early history.

He was a widower, his wife having died about two years ago. He had no children. He resided with a brother-in-law, Fred R. Reid, a scientist at the Department of Agriculture, in Bethesda.

Haynes Found Guilty Of Frauds in Banking

HARRY V. HAYNES.

A jury yesterday voted Harry V. Haynes, former president of the Farmers & Mechanics Bank, in Georgetown, guilty of each of fourteen counts in an indictment returned against him last July. The maximum penalty is five years and a $5,000 fine for each count.

The jury deliberated one hour and 50 minutes. It returned with its verdict at 1 o'clock, and at 5 minutes past that hour Haynes was incarcerated in the cell room in the basement of the courthouse. His wife, who has been in constant attendance at the four-week trial, and his daughter were permitted to enter the room to say good-by.

A motion by defense attorney H. Winship Wheatley to free Haynes on bail pending an appeal was denied by Justice Peyton Gordon with the words, "Let him be committed." The former bank head asked that his hat be brought to him and he then started to walk toward his wife, seated in the courtroom. A deputy United States marshal touched him on the shoulder, guided him to the prisoner's elevator and soon had him in the detention cell.

A few minutes after Haynes had bade good-by to his friends, attorney and others he was placed in an automobile and taken to the District Jail. There the routine reception accorded all prisoners was given him and last night he spent his first night in custody.

Unless a motion by his attorneys delays the procedure, Haynes will be brought before Justice Gordon next Friday for sentence.

The jury took fourteen ballots, one on each count in the indictment. The foreman, John C. Hall, president of the Master Guides of America, told newspapermen that the members were unanimous in every ballot; that at no time did any member of the jury vote "not guilty."

Haynes was apparently unmoved by the verdict. His ruddy complexion did not change, and his step was firm. His eyes shifted about the court room, picking out his friends and acquaintances. Among those who heard the verdict was Mrs. Louise T. Chambers, a former depositor in the bank, who has a suit now pending against Haynes.

Haynes blamed most of his troubles on his attempts to extricate Mrs. Chambers from financial difficulties. His oft-repeated statement during his presence on the witness stand, was to the effect that "I did it to help Mrs. Chambers."

The first four counts in the indictment charged Haynes with false en-

Al Capone Indicted; Posts $50,000 Bond

Curious Gather to See Gangster Surrender on Tax Charge.

AL CAPONE.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Scarface Al Capone, the head man of Chicago's underworld, was indicted by a Federal grand jury today for evading the taxes on a six-year income of $1,038,634.84. Three hours later he surrendered, posted $50,000 bond and was released.

As on his other recent appearances in public, the heavyset gangster was besieged by hundreds of curious persons. He slipped into the Federal building and into the district court clerk's office almost unnoticed, but when he left after having his bond approved by Federal Judge John Barnes, he had to run a gauntlet of photographers and elude a crowd of reporters.

Since Capone surrendered on a bench warrant, no date set for his arraignment. It will depend upon the condition of Judge Barnes' docket and will be set by the court. No intimation of the probable date was given.

The charges against the notorious gang leader included two indictments and 23 counts. They are the result of a two-year investigation that led to the far corners of the country, the climax of the drive against gangster tax dodgers captained by United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson.

The indictments establish a Government claim of $215,080.48 against

COUZENS QUESTIONS ETHICS OF MITCHELL

Attorney General Is Accused of Failure to Press Hill Tax Case.

(United Press.)

Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, said yesterday a "serious question of official ethics" has been raised against Attorney-General William D. Mitchell, growing out of the Government's failure to seek a Supreme Court determination on an estate tax levy of $1,130,616.08 on the estate of the late Mrs. James J. Hill, widow of the railroad magnate.

Mr. Mitchell was attorney for Mrs. Hill before he became solicitor of the Department of Justice, a position from which he was promoted to Attorney-General by President Hoover.

Senator Couzens said he is primarily interested in the case because he sees in it an argument in favor of a Federal gift tax which he advocates. He says the Hill case "is only one of many instances" where Federal estate taxes have been evaded by gifts made in contemplation of death, with the "resultant loss of many millions of tax revenue."

Correspondence between Couzens and Mitchell was made public by the senator after Mr. Mitchell, according to Senator Couzens, first refused to answer questions about the case, and then ignored a second letter sent about two months ago.

The facts of the case, as related in a memorandum prepared for Couzens by an official of the Bureau of Internal Revenue are as follows:

Mitchell as attorney for Mrs. Hill drew up trust agreements transferring $16,000,000 to relatives at a time when she was seriously ill. She died within two years after the agreements were executed, whereupon the Treasury held the transfers were made in anticipation of death and levied an additional estate tax of $1,130,616.08. The Minnesota Federal District Court sustained the Treasury, and the Administrator of the Hill estate appealed.

Before the circuit court of appeals, while Mr. Mitchell was solicitor general of the United States, the Government pressed no oral argument and the Government lost. C. M. Charest, general counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and Lafayette

BOWLES IS BEATEN IN DAMAGE ACTION

Jury Awards Woman $2,500 for Verbal Assault; Appeal Planned.

In the first case in Virginia legal history where a verdict was returned on a basis of verbal assault, Mrs. Mae B. May, of Falls Church, was awarded $2,500 damages against B. Agee Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank, of Georgetown, last night in Fairfax County Circuit Court.

The jurors returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff after more than five hours' deliberation. They once reported they could not reach a decision, but were sent back for further consideration.

Immediately after the verdict was returned by Jury Foreman Arthur M. Bowling, attorneys for Bowles entered a motion asking that the verdict be set aside on the ground that the jury was without evidence to support it. Judge Walter T. McCarthy overruled the motion, and acted similarly on a motion for a new trial on the defense contention that the verdict was contrary to law and the evidence in the case.

He held that while the verdict might have differed from one he would have returned, he believed the jury could have rendered its verdict from the evidence.

The defense then asked for a suspension of the verdict so that it might perfect an appeal to the Virginia Court of Appeals. Judge McCarthy granted a 120-day suspension and fixed bond at $3,000.

The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon after five days of testimony. Mrs. May's suit asked for $20,000 damages, allegedly incurred when she suffered a paralytic stroke after two visits Bowles made to her home in February, when he is said to have accused her of "spreading criminally libelous stories" about him. He also allegedly threatened to have her "put in jail."

The stories Bowles accused Mrs. May of spreading concerned his friendship for Mrs. Ray P. Mills, of Falls Church. On the stand Mrs. May and her husband stated that they had received their information about the banker's friendship with Mrs. Mills from the woman's 13-year-old daughter.

$1,000 Grand Prize Winner In Ad Test to Be Announced

All Washington Waiting for Revelation to Be Made in The Post Tomorrow; Judges Will Complete Work of Selection Today.

All Washington is waiting for tomorrow's Post in which will be published the name of the winner of the $1,000 grand prize in the Post-Zain Amateur Ad Writing Contest, which has been conducted during the last eight weeks.

Together with the announcement of the $1,000 prize winner there will be published the list of special prize winners who have earned the right to a number of valuable prizes offered by some of the firms in the contest for the best advertisements about their own companies.

The winner of the grand prize will be an amateur ad writer who wrote at least one ad about every one of the 35 firms participating in the contest and who had one particular ad which was adjudged the best of the thousands submitted.

When the contest closed at midnight last Saturday, the Zain offices at The Post were flooded with ads written by men, women and children all seeking the $1,000 prize or some of the special prizes offered by the firms.

So great was the response to the contest for the grand prize that the last week's flood of ads surpassed the grand total for the previous seven weeks of the contest. The judges were faced with an extremely difficult task in selecting a winner from this enormous pile of advertise-

Playmate Sees Craft Sink With Boys in Canal 50 Feet Wide.

TWO LADS ARE SAVED BY REFUSALS TO RIDE

Hundreds Flock to Scene as Boats and Swimmers Fill Watre.

Two boys were drowned late yesterday in the Washington Canal when the rowboat with which they had absconded to play "sailors" capsized.

They were Bryan Shifflet, 12, of 4557 Conduit road northwest, and Stanley King, 11, of 4549 Conduit road northwest. Several hours later their bodies were found about 25 feet from where the boat overturned.

Bryan, Stanley, George Becroft, 13, and Edward Abell, 13, had been playing on the north shore, opposite the 4500 block of Canal road, when they discovered the boat, an old rickety craft which is believed to have been abandoned by its owner. The two youngest boys suggested that they all take a ride across the canal.

First Crossing Made Safely.

It was getting dark and young Abell demurred, but George agreed and the three playmates climbed inside and shoved off. The dissenter returned to his home at 4582 Conduit road.

The trio reached the opposite bank safely. There the Becroft youth got out. Bryan and Stanley swung the boat about and rowed once more for the shore from which they had started.

They were in the middle of the canal, which is about 50 feet wide at this point, when the boat suddenly capsized, young Becroft said later, and sank almost immediately after throwing its two occupants into the water.

Boy Plunges to Rescue.

Edward, meanwhile, had returned to the canal and saw the boat overturn from the opposite bank.

"Get Stanley! Get Stanley!" he screamed to George, pointing wildly to the youngest member of their number who was floundering helplessly, gasping for breath. The Shifflet boy already had gone down.

Stripping off his shirt and shoes, George swam toward his companion, but the swift current prevented him from reaching Stanley's side. Feeling his strength waning and convinced that he could do nothing to save his friend, the defeated rescuer swam to the shore whence they had set out and ran to his home at 4639 Brewer place to tell his mother the news.

Hundreds Rush to Scene.

Mrs. Becroft notified police and it was only a few minutes until headquarters had precinct radio cars, motorcycle policemen, the Fire Rescue Squad and hundreds of neighborhood residents and cottagers were at the scene.

Lieut. J. J. Burke, 53-year-old police officer attached to the Seventh Precinct, ran from the patrol car as it pulled up, tore off his entire uniform and dived into the chilly waters. Disregarding warnings that the plunge might have serious consequences, he chose to remain in the canal, directing the police boats and diving time after time in the hope of reaching the bodies.

Dozens of campers who had retreated to their summer cottages along the banks for relief from the heat, joined in the search, some donning swimming suits and others setting out in boats. Before the hunt

Candidates Are Named To Succeed Longworth

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 5 (A.P.).—John B. Hollister, wealthy attorney, was unanimously indorsed late today by the Hamilton County Republican executive committee as their candidate for Congress from the First Ohio District to succeed the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth.

Earlier today State Senator David Lorbach was unanimously endorsed as a candidate by the Hamilton County Democratic executive committee. Lorbach is an attorney.

he should have been was something that Republican leaders had some difficulty in explaining, although they were quick to deny that his religion had anything to do with it.

Quick Retort Expected.

The statement of Senator Hatfield yesterday, however, is expected to bring a quick retort from the Democratic national committee.

It is not so long ago that Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, and Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, were each quarreling over Chairman Raskob, and each accuring the other of trying to raise the religious issue.

1931 WORKER LOSS SET AT 2½ BILLIONS

ards by the larger firms at least in part to President Hoover's conference in December, 1929, with prominent industrialists and labor leaders. At that time the former agreed to hold wages steady and the latter to refrain from seeking increases.

In a monthly survey of business the labor federation said yesterday, "small employers are cutting, and more cuts are expected." It added that "wage cuts to enable manufacturers to sell below costs add one economic crime to another."

"The decline of nearly $3,000,000,000 in workers' incomes means that in the first quarter this year the stores lost over 20 per cent of their entire business," the federation said. "Their total loss was even greater than this, for workers have been holding billions of dollars in reserve and spending only for the barest necessities, because they fear unemployment and wage cutting."

The federation contended that nearly 1,500 retail store failures during April were attributable in large part to these conditions and that if wages were further reduced there would be more failures. It warned also that the improvement of employment during the spring was "little more than half the normal" and that steps should be taken to provide relief for next winter.

tries in the bank's books; the fifth count was a false entry to the Comptroller of the Treasury; seven counts charged misapplication of funds totaling $114,000, and the last two counts charged abstraction of oil stock certificates valued at $30,000.

High praise for the work of E. J. Armbruster, special agent of the Department of Justice, and an accountant, who worked up the evidence against Haynes, was given by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who, with his assistant, John J. Wilson, prosecuted the case. The agent had worked incessantly on the bank books for months, getting documentary evidence together for presentation to the jury. He had a complete index of over 150 items, and was often called upon during the course of the trial to produce exhibits that ordinarily would have been lost in a maze of such pieces of paper.

Mr. Rover refused to comment on the case. H. Winship Wheatley, Mr. Haynes' attorney, indicated that an appeal would be noted. Beyond that he did not comment on the outcome.

Dr. William A. White Taken Ill in Toronto

Toronto, June 5 (A.P.).—Dr. William A. White, psychiatrist of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., was taken seriously ill here tonight. He came to Toronto to attend the convention of the American Psychiatry Association, but owing to illness had not been able to participate in the deliberations.

His condition became aggravated tonight and specialists were consulted. They will decide definitely tomorrow if an operation is necessary.

Old Cannon Ball Found.

HOOVER, AIDS REACH RAPIDAN FOR PARLEY

Find Hearth Fire Comfort at Camp; Economies in Navy Will Be Discussed.

Orange, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—President and Mrs. Hoover arrived tonight at their Blue Ridge Mountain fishing camp and, in contrast with the humid weather they had left behind in Washington, found an open hearth fire a distinct comfort.

Reaching the camp shortly after 8 o'clock, the Chief Executive and his party grouped themselves about a large open fireplace for a chat before retiring.

In the morning Mr. Hoover plans to work on three forthcoming speeches —at Indianapolis, Marion, Ohio, and Springfield, Ill.

With Secretary Adams and other officials of the Navy Department arriving during the day, conferences on economies in that branch of the Government were planned for the afternoon.

The trip from Washington was broken by a picnic supper in a grove near Warrenton, Va.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover left early last night for his Rapidan fishing camp to spend the week-end conferring with Navy officials on how to reduce expenditures in that department.

The President, who decided suddenly to leave yesterday, instead of today, was accompanied in his automobile by Ambassador Hugh Gibson and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Naval Operations.

Mrs. Hoover and the wives of other officials in the party accompanied the President.

Those with whom Mr. Hoover will discuss Navy expenses include Secretary Adams, Assistant Secretary Jahncke, Assistant Secretary Ingalls, Admiral Pratt, Rear Admiral Parsons (in charge of Yards and Docks) and Rear Admiral McLean (Navy budget officer).

Secretary Adams will make the trip in an autogiro tomorrow. It will be flown by Assistant Secretary Ingalls.

The conference will be the fifth by the President with heads of the Government departments intended to cut expenditures to a minimum.

Previous conferences have been held with officials of the War, Interior, Postoffice and Agricultural Departments.

Secretary Adams is prepared to tell Mr. Hoover a $7,000,000 cut has been effected this year and that a similar amount probably could be saved next year through rigid economy and the abandonment of obsolescent shore stations.

Culpeper Man to Wed Westhampton Alumna

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., June 5.—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Reynolds have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Nancy Elizabeth, to Mr. William Adelbert Smith, of Culpeper. The ceremony will take place the evening of June 16 at 8:30 o'clock at the Orange Baptist Church. The Rev. Frank C. Riley, of South Boston, will officiate.

The bride is a graduate of Orange High School and of Westhampton College, having been president of her class at Westhampton.

"Canned" Prayer Calls Proposed for Cairo

Cairo, June 5 (A.P.).—Loud speakers to replace the picturesque and traditional muezzin, or Mahommedan caller to prayer, are suggested by an Arabic newspaper here.

Many innovations have replaced old customs of the country, but the Moslem religious authorities were rather more than startled by the proposal that loud-speakers be placed in the minarets of mosques to call the faithful to prayer five times daily.

Hollowed-Out Book Leaves Hid Morphine

Miami, Fla., June 5 (U.P.).—Federal authorities arrested Marcellus Benscoter and charged him with sending 800 grains of morphine through the mails, concealing it in the hollowed-out leaves of a book.

The book was entitled "Guilt." With it was another volume, "You Can't Win."

Horse Still Holds Own.

Topeka, Kans., June 5 (U.P.).—The tractor has not displaced the horse on the farms of Shawnee County, a recent census revealed. Assessors found 6,172 horses, but there were only 325 tractors in the county, which is one of the richest in the State.

Madariaga to Sail July 20.

Madrid, June 5 (A.P.).—Ambassador Madariaga, new representative of the Spanish Republic to the United States, will sail for New York on July 20.

WILL CARRY OFFICIALS TO CAMP

Here is the Navy's first autogiro, skirting the tip of the Washington Monument. David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, today will pilot the windmill craft to President Hoover's Rapidan camp, with Secretary Adams as a passenger.

U. S. Controversy Stirred By Advice to Reduce Meat

White House, Agriculture Department and Public Health Service Involved in Protest by Packers Over Admonition in Hot Weather Diet.

(Associated Press.)

Telegrams, letters and telephone calls passed back and forth between the White House, the Agriculture Department and the Public Health Service yesterday on the subject of whether less meat should be eaten during the summer months.

More than a dozen protests have been received from livestock dealers and packing houses against advice given by the Public Health Service on June 1 in a list of "do's and don'ts" for hot weather.

The Health Service said:

"Meat is an active heat producing food as shown by the fact that natives of the far North live entirely on animal products; and therefore, the amount of meat eaten during the hot season should be less than that eaten during the colder months."

Chicago and Kansas City live stock men wired and wrote President Hoover and Secretary Hyde the advice not only came at a time when their industry was in a "precarious condition" but that they questioned the value of it. All urged that steps be taken to prevent further issuance of similar statements.

The protests were turned over to the Health Service for answer. In reply, it said the advice against eating too much meat was contained in four lines of a five-page radio broadcast, and added:

"The statement regarding the eating of meat is very moderate and can in no way be considered as urging people to abstain from the eating of meat during the summer months. The sugestion is that merely that meat as well as other heat producing foods should be used in moderation during hot weather."

The Health Service said it had made this suggestion each summer for years and that it had no intention of retracting it.

Secretary Hyde requested a copy of the broadcast and then replied to those who had urged him to those who had urged him to counteract the statement.

His reply was not made public here, but it was said he planned to take no official action.

COUZENS QUESTIONS ETHICS OF MITCHELL IN TAX CASE

French, jr., district attorney at St. Paul, recommended an appeal to the Supreme Court, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, then Assistant Attorney General, issued orders to prepare for the appeal. On June 8, 1928, Attorney General Sargent, without assigning reasons, signed an order directing that the case be not appealed.

In the memoranda prepared for Mr. Couzens there were nine questions relating to the propriety of the Government's conduct, including the following:

"Should not the fact that Solicitor General Mitchell had been counsel in the case make him all the more careful to see that the Supreme Court should settle the question?"

When Mr. Couzens sent Mr. Mitchell the memorandum with a request for answers to the questions, Mr. Mitchell replied that the question quoted was a part of the publicity directed against him by Senator Thomas D. Schall (Republican) Minnesota, who was incensed because Mr. Mitchell turned down the Minnesota senator's candidate for a Federal judgeship. Mr. Mitchell said he would take no notice of Senator Schall's attacks.

Senator Couzens then wrote a second letter saying he was not particularly interested in the question to which Mr. Mitchell objected, but requested an answer to two other questions:

"Why was the Government not represented orally by counsel when the case was heard before the circuit court of appeals?

"Why was the request of District Attorney French and the general counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for an appeal to the Supreme Court rejected?"

The second letter was sent April 8, and Senator Couzens said yesterday it has not been answered.

"Since the Attorney General has not seen fit to answer even the two questions as to Government policy which I addressed to him, I feel it is my duty to present the facts to the public so that they may judge for themselves as to the propriety of the Government's action," Senator Couzens said.

The Couzens attack on Mitchell is viewed with particular interest here, because of reports that the Attorney General is being considered for the next vacancy which occurs on the Supreme Court.

Heretofore Couzens and Mitchell have been friendly personally and the senator, in his second letter to the Attorney General, made a specific disclaimer of being actuated by an interest in the controversy between Mitchell and Schall.

Mr. Mitchell withheld comment or reply to Mr. Couzens' action, and at the Department of Justice it was said there was no indication that any formal notice would be taken of the incident for the present.

AL CAPONE POSTS $50,000 AFTER ARREST ON TAX CHARGE

Capone. They include six felony counts and two misdemeanors which, if successfully prosecuted, can mean a maximum sentence of 32 years and a fine of $80,000.

The income received by Capone from his liquor, vice and gambling interests is much larger than the indictments indicate, Johnson's assistants said, the figures showing only what the Government is prepared to prove.

The net income for the years 1924-1929 on which the Government based its charges follows: 1924—$128,101.89; 1925—$257,285.98; 1926—$195,676.00; 1927—$218,056.04; 1928—$140,535.93; 1929—$103,999.00.

The total is much smaller than had been expected. Jack Guzick, one of Capone's henchmen, had been convicted and sentenced to five years on charges that involved an income slightly greater than Capone's and that included only three years. His income for 1927, 1928, 1929 was set at $1,035,202.35 and the amount of tax owed at $225,919.59.

Capone's bond was supplied by a surety company.

Other Gangsters Sentenced.

Capone is the last of the leaders of his big syndicate to face the Government's income tax charges. His brother, Ralph, has been sentenced to three years and has an appeal now pending. Sam Guzick, brother of Jack and another Capone aid, surrendered today to start serving one year and a day. Frank Nitti, treasurer of the gang, is serving an eighteen months' sentence at Leavenworth.

The cases against some of these, Johnson said today were by-products of the investigation into Capone's income.

The investigation was directed by A. P. Madden, chief of the special intelligence department of the Internal Revenue Department, and it took agents to Florida, New Orleans and New York. More than 1,000 persons were interviewe, Madden said.

Already Under One Bond.

Capone was already under one Federal bond, pending his appeal of a six months' sentence for contempt of court. He was sentenced last February after a short trial before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, when he was found guilty of misrepresenting his p' ysical condition in 1929, after being summoned from Florida to appear before a grand jury in Chicago.

The only other conviction of his career was for carrying a concealed weapon. For this charge he spent almost a year in a Philadelphia jail.

[illegible] that the gang leader submitted to or arranged for this prison term because of fear of gang rivals never died.

He was arrested and indicted many other times for charges ranging from vagrancy to murder, but never came to trial. The latest case against him to be declared nolle prosse was the vagrancy charge. He rated as "Public Enemy No. 1."

WHEAT NAMES, BARS 2 DOCTORS FOR FALL

Physicians Had Already Said Former Official Could Not Stand Jail.

(Associated Press.)

An examination by two El Paso, Tex., physicians named by Chief Justice Wheat, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, will determine whether Albert B. Fall is able to come to Washington to begin his prison term.

The chief justice yesterday named Drs. Felix Miller and R. B. Homan to make the examination, but he countermanded the selection after he learned they already had expressed the opinion that the former Interior Secretary was in no condition to make the trip.

Chief Justice Wheat explained he had asked the district attorney's office in El Paso to recommend two physicians for the examination and that he was given the names of Dr. Homan and Dr. Miller. He will make other appointments later.

Sentence Is Year in Jail.

Fall is under sentence of a year in jail for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny to influence the award of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve to a Doheny company. He also was fined $100,000. Doheny later was acquitted on a charge of giving the bribe.

The Supreme Court refused Monday to review the conviction and a mandate ordering execution of the sentence has been handed down.

Frank Hogan, Fall's attorney, asked that the Government name a physician to examine Fall, and Atle Pomerene, special Government prosecutor, agreed. District Attorney Rover yesterday asked Chief Justice Wheat to make the selection.

Health Bad Several Years.

Fall, after four El Paso physicians agreed that he was not able to come to Washington, said he would make the journey "if the Government says to come ahead."

He has been reported in bad health for several years. He was sick at the time he and Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil man, were to go to trial on a conspiracy charge and Sinclair was tried alone. He was acquitted.

Fall was ill at the time of the bribery trial in 1929, and for a time indefinite postponement was threatened. Fall recently went to El Paso from his home at Three Rivers, N. Mex.

Fall Ready for Examination.

El Paso, Tex., June 5 (A.P.).—Albert B. Fall said today he had no objection to a physical examination by Government physicians.

"It's all right with me," he said. "It won't be the first time. I want to know the truth just as much as any one, and any reputable physician will be welcome."

He said he would greatly prefer to go to Washington immediately rather than see further delay, but, at the same time, he did not want to do something that would cost his life.

"When the doctors say I can go," he said, "I'll go."

Parachute Jumper Dangles in Mid-Air

Soldier Cuts Self Free by Knife Lowered From Second Plane.

Champaign, Ills., June 5 (A.P.).—Private Harold I. Osborne of the Twenty-seventh Pursuit Group, Selfridge Field, Mich., made his first parachute drop and the Caterpillar Club at one jump today after he had dangled 45 minutes in mid-air when the ropes of his chute caught on the tail of the airplane from which he had jumped.

He cut himself free of the entangled parachute by a knife, lowered to him by Lieut. A. A. Stiaubel, who had crawled out onto the wing of another airplane. Then Osborne pulled his emergency parachute and landed safely.

Osborne dangled about 25 feet behind his plane, which Lieut. C. C. Derrwister flew while Lieut. Howard Engler maneuvered his plane close enough to the endangered man to enable him to grasp the knife.

"Jake" Buyers Liable.

Jackson, Miss., June 5 (U.P.).—The buyer of Jamaica ginger in Mississippi is equally liable with the seller in cases where partial paralysis results, according to a recent decision of the State supreme court. The ruling was made after a number of ginger sellers had been sued by persons who imbibed the concoction and suffered ill effects.

LINDBERGH'S PLANS FOR TRIP INDEFINITE

Route and Many Details of China-Japan Hop Yet to Be Completed.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was waiting today to test the big Lockheed-Sirus plane which he and Mrs. Lindbergh will pilot to the Orient and possibly back again this summer.

The machine, more than twice as powerful as that in which a little more than four years ago he flew to Paris, was in the hands of experts at a plant near North Beach, Long Island, being equipped with pontoons in place of its recently installed retractable landing gear. The work was all but finished, but the flying colonel's plans still were in the making, he told interviewers.

The entire journey, with the announced destination China and Japan, will be made with water stops, Col. Lindbergh said. He added that his wife would assist in flying the transpacific machine. She will do her share of the flying. "She always has assisted me," he said. She recently received her pilot's license.

Will Be Radio Equipped.

The low-wing monoplane will be equipped with radio and both of its passengers will be able to operate the set. On none of his previous important flights has Col. Lindbergh had wireless in his airplane.

The installation probably will be completed at the Glenn H. Curtiss Airport, in Queens, to which he flew it yesterday.

The colonel indicated that the take-off would most likely be from Bowery Bay, adjacent to the North Beach Airport. He declined to say definitely that Seattle would be his last landing place in the United States before start of the north and westward swing.

Col. Lindbrgh oday continued to study many angles of the flight. He is keenly interested in its geographical side and has tentatively charted some routes, but said that definite decision must be deferred. Waterways are plentiful along these rputes.

Can Land on Soft Ground.

"Naturally, we favor a route that offers ample water landings," he said, "but you can land the pontoons on soft ground, you know, if you have to, without causing much if any damage. You can land them in ploughed ground safely, I should say."

The Edo Aircraft Corporations made the pontoons, and installation today was speeded by Earl D. Osborn, president of that concern, assisted by B. V. Korvin-Kroukousky.

Regarding the possibility of making it a round-trip flight, Col. Lindbergh said his present plans called for such a voyage. He said, however, that was among the unsettled matters confronting him. The return may be made by steamship.

He was still uncertain of the time of departure. He said he "hardly thought" the take-off would be made within three weeks.

No Plans After Arrival.

"I have asked the State Department to make arrangements for Mrs. Lindbergh and me to visit Japan and China," said the colonel. "I do not know what we will do when we get there."

He said he had given no thought to conferring with others regarding weather and topographical conditions, adding that the weather was not likely to be a serious problem.

He belittled the idea that the trip was to be at all hazardous.

(United Press.)

Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife may have contemplated a strictly informal pleasure jaunt across the Pacific by air, but their trip has shown many indications of turning into another of those aerial good-will tours already popularized by Col. Lindbergh on the American continents.

Japanese newspapers and press associations in messages to the State Department yesterday stressed the "good-will" motif and made it plain that the Lindberghs will have difficulty in avoiding demonstrations of popularity when they reach the Orient. Even Soviet Russia, which has manifested no great enthusiasm in the past about receiving aerial visitors from the United States, has let it be known that there would be no obstacles placed in the way of the Lindberghs' landing on Soviet territory if they so desire.

493,890 Buildings on Tax List.

Chicago, June 5 (U.P.).—There are 493,890 buildings in Cook County on which taxes are levied, according to the Board of County Commissioners. The total includes 468,119 residential, hotel and club buildings; 17,075 commercial buildings; 8,696 industrial and farm buildings, and 440,505 private garages and other small buildings.

DIVORCED, MRS. STILLMAN WEDS PEACEMAKER IN BITTER FIGHT

tional that Mr. Stillman resigned as president of the National City Bank.

The divorce case was dropped and in 1926 the Stillmans had a reconciliation. They took a "second honeymoon" to Europe, from which they returned with protestations that their only wish was to live quietly and to see their names no longer in the headlines.

News of the divorce, kept suppressed one day, was the first public indication of the failure of that reconciliation.

The marriage of Mrs. Stillman and Mr. McCormick, performed by Supreme Court Justice Graham Witschief, of Westchester County, united a woman of 51 and a man of 32.

Mr. McCormick, the son of Harold F. McCormick and Edith Rockefeller McCormick, is the grandson of Cyrus H. McCormick and John D. Rockefeller.

In 1926, when the Stillmans decided to end their lawing and try once again to live together, young McCormick was credited with having brought about the reconciliation. Mrs. Stillman thanked him for having directed her to European psychoanalysts, who, she said, gave her a new outlook of life.

He had earned the position of adviser by virtue of his friendship with the Stillman children, who were of his generation.

Alimony Is Not Provided.

There is no alimony provision in the Stillman divorce. The decree gave Mrs. Stillman permission to use her maiden name, Anne Urquhart Potter, which she did for a few hours only, and it records that there are four children of the Stillman union —Mrs. Anne Davison, who is the wife of Henry P. Davison, Morgan partner; James Stillman, 28, who married the daughter of a Three Rivers, Que., lumberjack; Alexander Stillman, 19, and Guy Stillman, 12, the "baby Guy" of the divorce case.

In her bill of particulars, Mrs. Stillman recited that she knew the names of the women with whom she charged her husband committed infidelities, but the final decree recorded that she did not know them.

The original divorce case was brought by Mr. Stillman, who named Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, as corespondent, and declared Beauvais was the father of "Baby Guy."

Case Was Bitterly Fought.

Mrs. Stillman countered with her charge that Flo Leeds had borne her husband two children. There were many phases of the court action, as the case was bitterly fought. The appellate division finally upheld a referee's findings that the charge of infidelity against Mrs. Stillman had not been proved, but the charge against her husband had.

Before the decree was put through, however, the reconciliation was effected, and the case formally dismissed.

Before they sailed on their "second honeymoon," Mr. and Mrs. Stillman celebrated their recurring happiness at a family dinner. They declared that never again would they allow outsiders to interfere between them. They said the slate had been cleared and they were starting on a new life.

When they returned several months later they gave what they said they hoped was their last interview. Mrs. Stillman called the troubles they had been through "educational." Mr. Stillman called his wife, "A most clever woman."

Dragged From Social Register.

From time to time since then they have been in the papers, in connection with such matters as Mrs. Stillman's participation, as a backer, in aviation activities, or her unsuccessful attempt to publish an illustrated, weekly appealing to the cultured, but there were no more tales of dissension—until today.

Mrs. Stillman is a daughter of James Brown Potter and his first wife, who was Cora Urquhart, of New Orleans. Before her marriage she was known as Fifi Potter. Like her mother, she was a brilliant, beautiful and vivacious participant in social activities and her marriage to Mr. Stillman was an important event of the 1901 season.

Mr. Stillman is the son of James Stillman, who, for many years, was president of the National City Bank. He was graduated from Harvard in 1896.

Shortly after the Stillman's domestic troubles were exposed, their names were dropped from the social register.

Groom's Father Not Surprised.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the executive committee of the International Harvester Co., tonight issued the following statement in regard to the marriage in the East of his son, Fowler, and Mrs. Anne U. Stillman:

"My son's marriage comes as no surprise to me and it has my entire approval. I have known for some years of Fowler's unwavering devotion to Mrs. Stillman and of his desire for this outcome and I have known, too, of her deep regard for him.

"My one concern is for their happiness. Basing my thought on what I know of them both, I not only hope, but truly believe that they will find in this marriage life-long contentment and comradeship."

17-Year-Old Girl Witness Faints at Pantages Trial

Tears Interrupt Detailed Account of Party at Hotel With Theater Magnate; Members of Jury Aid Resuscitation at Recess.

San Diego, Calif., June 5 (A.P.).—With Lydia Nitto, 17-year-old complaining witness on the stand, the prosecution placed before the jury today a detailed account of a hotel party here in October which resulted in the trial of Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, and others on conspiracy and morals charges.

The girl sobbed out her story and then fell in a faint as she attempted to walk from the courtroom during the morning recess. The jurors were filing out and several of them stopped to assist prosecutors in lifting the limp girl into a chair. She was revived in a few moments.

Fifteen minutes later she returned unassisted, pale and nervous, to the stand, as cross-examination began she denied she had been ill earlier in the day and assured attorneys she felt equal to continuing.

"Oh, I'm all right now," she said. "You can go ahead."

Her lips quivering, Miss Nitto admitted she had attended such parties with other men, and that she had refused to come to San Diego until she found she would be paid $15.

"Was that your only interest in the party?" Jerry Geisler, attorney for Pantages, asked.

"Yes."

"The fact that you were to meet Alexander Pantages had nothing to do with your coming?"

"No."

Miss Nitto, the State charged, was brought here from Hollywood by William Jobelmann and Olive Clark Day, alleged operators of a "girl market" there, as result of a conspiracy entered into by the mart operators with John P. Mills, real estate dealer; Jesse H. Shreve, business man, and Pantages.

Mills pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of Miss Nitto, was freed of the conspiracy count, and yesterday testified for the prosecution.

Miss Nitto described the party at the hotel and broke into tears when she told what happened when she and Pantages were together. She said Pantages gaves her $10 and asked her not to tell the others, adding that she was "too young to be here."

The next day, the day Mills testified he, Shreve and Pantages were to confer on an overdue $80,000 note they had signed, the Day woman told her and Miss Helen Livingston, her companion, that they would not be needed longer, Miss Nitto said. She also declared Miss Day showed her a roll of bills, saying "Mr. Shreve has taken care of everything."

Each girl, she said, was given $15.

Mills had testified yesterday that he and Shreve planned the party and agreed to pay Mrs. Day $200 to bring the girls, because they wanted to "put Pantages in a good humor before the conference."

Woman Politician Asks Alimony Increase

Chicago, June 5 (U.P.).—Mrs. Edith Williams Born, former member of the Texas Legislature and one-time candidate for governor of that State, has filed a petition for an increase in temporary alimony payments pending settlement of her suit for temporary maintenance.

She claims she sacrificed a high social and political position to marry Henry A. Born, president of the Born Refrigerator Co., and is entitled to more than the $80 a month temporary alimony recently awarded her.

Weeping Willow's "Tears" Are False

Madison, Wis., June 5 (A.P.).—Scientifically the right of the "weeping willow" to its name might be challenged. If the willow really tried to weep, some of its tears would be just puffs of gas instead of pure, sappy, sob stuff.

The truth is that the willow is one of the plants which always has gas in its hydrostatic system. In the willow the tiny woody vessels which in spring, summer and fall carry the sap, never become completely filled with liquid. The year round they retain at least a small portion of the gas which helps to fill them in their normal winter condition.

Message Identifies Victim.

Tamaroa, Ill., June 4 (U.P.).—Albert Trent, Harrin, crawled out of the flaming wreckage of his overturned truck near here recently, scrawled his name and address on the pavement for identification purposes and died. A passing motorist found Trent's body and the message on the concrete.

Kin of Attache Freed After Auto Hits Pole

Charges of reckless driving against Joaquim Silva, who said he is a nephew of the military attache of the Cuban Embassy, were dismissed in Marlboro police court yesterday by Judge J. Chew Sheriff. Silva was arrested early yesterday by Deputy Sheriff A. C. Thompson after his car struck a pole on the Southern Maryland pike near Clinton.

Young Silva said that he was accompanying a girl friend home from a dance in Maryland and that when they arrived, she was unable to find her key. They were returning to look for the key, he testified, when the accident occurred. Neither was hurt.

Sow Sets Birth Record.

Newbern, Tenn., June 5 (U.P.).—A full-blooded Poland China sow, owned and raised by Roy Parrish, 4-H Club member, gave birth to 18 pigs recently. Earlier in the week another sow gave birth to 15. He only had two sows to start with.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

BATTLESHIPS SAIL WITH MIDSHIPMEN

Change of Executive Group at Academy Will Be Complete Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 5.—When Capt. Henry D. Cooke assumes the duties of commandant of midshipmen tomorrow, succeeding Capt. Charles P. Snyder, who has been transferred to command of the battleship Tennessee, the complete change of administrative officials will have been effected. Capt. Cooke has been director of athletics more than a year and he will serve in a dual role until arrival of his successor, Capt. John W. Wilcox, within the next few days.

Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart became superintendent and station chief more than a month ago, succeeding Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison (retired). Capt. Turner F. Caldwell also is expected in a few days as relief for Capt. John H. Newton, officer in charge of buildings and grounds, and ranking aid to the superintendent. Admiral Hart's personal aids are already here. They are Lieut. Comdr. Lynn D. McCormick and Commander George Weller. They succeeded Commander Donald F. Beary and Commander D. E. Barbey, respectively. Commander Beary is leaving Monday to become assistant to the chief of staff of the Asiatic fleet.

Another important change just effected is in the department of electrical engineering and physics, of which Commander John S. Barleon is now directing head. He succeeded Capt. William L. Friedell, who has been transferred to command of Submarine Division 12. Capt. Frank Sadler has succeeded Capt. A. T. Church as head of the postgraduate school.

Battleships Sail for Europe.

The battleships Arkansas and Wyoming, with midshipmen of the first and third classes, numbering more than 900, distributed aboard them, sailed from Annapolis Roads at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon for the summer cruise to northern European waters. Embarkation of the midshipmen took place early this morning and was accomplished without mishap.

Sub chasers and motor cutters transported the students from the reservation to the ships riding at anchor 6 miles out in the bay. The training squadron is under command of Rear Admiral Clarke C. Bloch.

The cruise is nothing new for the first classmen; but for those of the third class, who were plebes last year, many of whom have never been to sea at all, there is something of a rough road ahead.

With their comrades on their way to the briny deep, second classmen, numbering more than 400, were today preparing for the summer course in aviation, which will include intensive instruction in engineering, navigation, ordnance, seamanship and flight tactics. A squadron of twelve seaplanes and as many experienced Navy fliers have assembled here to assist in the work. The course will be under direction of Commander Dewitt C. Ramsay.

Two More Weddings.

The Naval Academy Chapel was the scene this afternoon of two more weddings in which the bridegrooms were members of the class graduated from the institution yesterday. Commander Frank H. Lash, chaplain, performed the ceremonies. The principals were Ensign John W. Crumpacker, of Indiana, and Miss Gwendolyn W. Binstead, Accomac, Va., and Ensign Windsor C. Gale, of Oregon, and Miss Katherine Ing, Baltimore.

These brought the total wedding of graduates to 22, most of the ceremonies being performed in the naval chapel or Annapolis churches.

A number of others are scheduled to take place elsewhere during the month.

Virginians Receive Enough Bags for Double 1930 Production.

Richmond, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—Announcing today in the June bulletin of the Virginia department of immigration and agriculture that 2,400 Virginia wool growers last year delivered 350,000 pounds of wool to the United Wool Growers Association, Commissioner George W. Koiner said that the department already has shipped 6,000 wool bags to Virginia producers. These, he said, were ample to handle 750,000 pounds of wool.

The plan for handling wool through the association in 1931 is the same as that of 1930, the bulletin said. That is, bags are being furnished at 10 cents a pound to the grower, with the department stressing their use, as well as that of paper fleece twine.

It was added that wool properly tied sells for approximately one cent a pound more than untied wool. One pound of twine was said to be sufficient to tie eighteen to twenty fleeces.

FAIRFAX CONSIDERS IMPROVING ROADS

Provision Made for Lands to Straighten Part of Highway No. 4.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, East Falls Church, Va.,
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors has entered into an agreement with A. Smith Bowman, of Sunset Hills, in behalf of straightening part of county road No. 4 from Browns Chapel toward Herndon, whereby Bowman will deed to the county 12.396 acres of land in exchange for 8.042 acres in the present right-of-way. This action will permit county construction of a 60-foot drive, replacing the present 40-foot right-of-way.

The board granted the Virginia Gas Transmission Co. a franchise to lay and maintain gas mains along the public highways of Fairfax County, in accordance with regulations controlling all county roads used by public utilities.

Engineer P. N. Larkin stated that the gas company would clear the new right-of-way from Browns Chapel to Herndon free of charge to the county in return for the franchise permitting installation of its gas mains along the road.

Other Changes Considered.

Other right-of-way changes considered by the Fairfax supervisory board included a petition signed by twelve taxpayers of Mount Vernon district, requesting the building of a road from the Richmond highway east to Quander road, as a thoroughfare for seven families.

A petition from 23 taxpayers of Providence district was filed, asking for acceptance and maintenance of the road from Leesburg pike west to Willett's store to Shreve road, near Antrim Station, now known as Chestnut street. The board referred these petitions to Engineer Larkin for action.

A change in the location of the Beattie road, between the Little River turnpike and Columbia pike, has been petitioned to the board by 24 citizens of Falls Church District. This action would shorten the distance between the pikes by some 585 feet, and would avoid three existing sharp curves, and was turned over to the engineer for investigation.

Rates for Water Rent.

The Fairfax Town Council has submitted a communication to the supervisors on rates for water rent for the county buildings.

The State Highway Commission, H. G. Shirley, chairman, advised the board that resolutions from the supervisors and the chamber of commerce for special allocations for Fairfax County highways will be submitted for action at the next meeting of the commission.

John T. Sale, assistant auditor of public accounts of Virginia, in a letter addressed to F. W. Richardson, county clerk, included the audit of the clerk's accounts from March 1, 1929, to May 1, 1931, amounting to $41,658.62, stating that "The records of this office are certainly indicative of splendid office management." This letter was read to the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors in session.

Volume of Virginia Gas Well Yet Unmeasured

Bristol, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—The volume of the gas well brought in late yesterday on the Earl Ridgeway farm, in Scott County, 9 miles from here, was still undetermined today. Telephone communication was lacking and visitors were not permitted near the tract because of the danger of igniting the gas.

Donald T. Stant, attorney for Davis Elkins and associates, said the gas was encountered at 2,850 feet with force sufficient to break the cable and derrick and hurl equipment several hundred feet. Davis Elkins and associates have been at work over two years in an effort to find gas in this section.

Educators Will Visit Erin to Study Spenser

Baltimore, June 5 (A.P.).—In an effort to discover new facts relating to the life of the great poet, Edmund Spenser, author of "The Faerie Queene," Dr. Ray Heffner and Dr. E. A. Strathman, research associates at the Johns Hopkins University, are to spend the summer in Ireland.

They will leave June 13 to begin the research project. By checking all known material on the poet's life, and by following out new leads, the Hopkins men hope to discover considerable data on Spenser, which will be incorporated in a new edition of the poet's works.

Baltimore County Roadhouse Raided

100 Dancers Are Forced to Give Names as Four Men Are Arrested.

Baltimore, Md., June 5 (A.P.).—Twenty county policemen raided a roadhouse just outside the city limits early today, interrupting crooning of saxophones and merriment of 100 dancers as they smashed a door to seize alleged gambling paraphernalia. Edward Sherwood, night club promoter and operator of the roadhouse, Sherrys-on-the-Road, was arrested with four other men, said by police to be employes.

The dancers were permitted to leave after they had given names and addresses.

Alleged gambling set-up, said Lieut. William B. Dorsey, leader of the raiders, was on the second floor. He said they found $63 in money and evidences of crap games, roulette wheels and a so-called sweat game. A roulette wheel and other apparatus was found locked in the safe, he said.

FIRST OF 8 HORTON CHARGES IS QUASHED

Tennessee House Rejects Conspiracy Article Against Governor.

Nashville, Tenn., June 5 (A.P.).—The first article of impeachment ever presented against a governor of Tennessee was quashed today as the House of Representatives rejected a charge that Gov. Henry H. Horton conspired to turn over control of the State government to private individuals in exchange for their political support.

Consideration of seven additional impeachment articles was deferred until next week.

After three days of debate, the roll call on adoption of the conspiracy articles started shortly after the noon hour. The tenseness was broken by cheers and applause from the crowded galleries when the result of the roll call was announced by Speaker Walter M. Haynes. The vote was 41 for arraigning the governor before the Senate for trial and 58 against. Fifty votes were needed to indict him.

Allegations Definitely Killed.

Friends of the governor then moved to kill all allegations in the article for all time by asking its formal rejection, thus removing any possibility og reconsideration. This motion prevailed, 52 to 47.

Gov. Horton was accused in the first article of conspiring to let Col. Luke Lea, publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier, dominate certain departments of the State government for their financial gain in order that he might receive their support and that of their newspapers in his political campaigns to succeed himself.

"I am deeply grateful to my friends in the Legislature in behalf of myself and the State of Tennessee," Gov. Horton told newspapermen. "It was a victory for good governments and righteousness."

Crump Continues Fight.

Memphis, Tenn., June 5 (A.P.).—The Memphis Evening Appeal quotes Representative Edward H. Crump, Shelby County political leader, as saying today's vote in the Tennessee House of Representatives on the first of the impeachment articles submitted against Gov. eHnry H. Horton does not mean the end of the fight.

Crump is a leader in the battle to oust the governor.

"Corrupt government has flourished in this and other countries for a while," Crump said, "but they will soon go down carrying with them all theri vices and viciousness. Forty-one men today withstood every vicious influence. They deserve and have the respect of the people of Tennessee."

5,000 Pigeons to Race To Coves in New York

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 5.—Five thousand racing pigeons will be released here at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for the annual 400-mile race to New York. The New York, New Jersey and Brooklyn concourses are participating in the event, the birds having arrived by express, in crates, last night and today.

The birds are expected to take about nine hours for the flight and will be clocked on their home coves so that the speediest fliers can be determined. Prizes ranging from $400 to $100 are offered by each concourse.

RADIO COMMISSION POWERS FACE TEST

N. B. C. and Four Subsidiaries Challenge Legality of License Refusal.

(Associated Press.)

Court action against the Radio Commission was begun yesterday by the National Broadcasting Co. and three other subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation of America to prevent revocation of their 1,409 channel licenses.

Challenging the constitutionality of a portion of the radio act, under which the commission operates, the four corporations petitioned the District of Columbia Supreme Court for injunctions to restrain the commission from denying their applications for license renewals.

The case grew out of the Supreme Court's recent refusal to pass upon a circuit court of appeals decision in a suit brought by the DeForest Radio Co., of New Jersey, holding the Radio Corporation was violating the Clayton antitrust act.

Section 13 of the radio act forbids the granting of licenses to any company "finally adjudged guilty" of attemping to monopolize radio communication.

Hearing Set for June 15.

In the face of the highest court's action, the commission set a hearing for June 15 on one renewal application of each of the four Radio Corporation subsidiaries to determine its course.

The other corporations, besides the National Broadcasting Co., are the RCA Victor Co., Inc.; R. C. A. Communications, Inc., and the Radiomarine Corporation of America. Their licenses cover broadcasting, experimental, television and point-to-point frequencies.

A statement made public by the broadcasting company said:

"The petitions are being filed as the most expeditious means of testing the application of section 13 to the present situation and of determining its constitutionality, and because this method would relieve the Radio Commission from conducting, and the four R. C. A. companies from participating in, independent hearings on each license application."

Hold Penalties "Disproportionate."

"The injunctions are requested because the present situation of uncertainty is doing much damage to the plaintiffs' business. * * * To deny them licenses would strike down a national, international, marine, broadcasting and radio experimental system of incomparable public usefulness and a value amounting to many millions of dollars."

The plaintiff corporations, the statement added, contend that the "penalties such a denial would impose upon them would be so disproportionate to the offense, if any, as to be grotesque, and so great that they necessarily render the statute unconstitutional."

The statement then listed reasons for the plaintiffs' contention that section 13 did not apply, among which were:

"The case was one between private litigants, and therein no one could be 'finally adjudged guilty' of anything.

"The case concerned the sale of tubes for radio receiving sets and did not concern 'radio communication' within the meaning of the statute."

Speaker Outlines Chest Buying Unit

Central Purchasing Bureau Would Mean Economy, Cheatham Says.

The art of buying in bulk, particularly as adopted to Community Chests organizations, was explained yesterday to the committee on purchasing methods of the Chest by Gen. B. F. Cheatham, retired, former head of the Quartermaster Corps of the Army, at a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Building.

Plans for ultimate adoption of central purchasing methods for some commodities used by community chest organizations were outlined by Gen. Cheatham. He said there is no intention of bringing about a central purchasing bureau immediately.

B. Brent Sandidge, superintendent of Emergency Hospital, said a number of hospitals are now buying standard supplies by Gen. Cheatham's method and effecting large savings. Elwood Street, director of the Chest, another speaker, said he recognized that saving money by economical buying is just as important as raising it.

Expert Predicts Windowless House

Optometrists Told Light Will Be Distributed Better in Future.

Buildings without windows will be erected in the future, and all sources of direct lighting will be eliminated, Dr. William Arthur Mendelsohn, chief of staff of the Post Graduate Eye Institute of Chicago, yesterday told Washington Optometrists, at a luncheon meeting in the Hamilton Hotel.

Civilization has brought such "ideal" lighting conditions that man's physical being is not able to stand the strain, said Dr. Mendelsohn. Adjustting eyes to glare requires tremendous energy, he said, urging the need of "more even distdibution of light."

He said that sensations attributed to glare are identical with sensations attributed to eyestrain of any sort. He said the problem should be attacked from the point of view of the illumination engineer.

Probation Given Seller Of Copyrighted Songs

Joe Ansbetino, who had entered a plea of guilty to selling song sheets in violation of the copyright laws, yesterday was sentenced to serve a year and pay $100 fine, and then was placed on probation over opposition of the song publishers.

Ansbetino was tried in Police Court and Judge Given, at the conclusion of the testimony, ruled that his court did not have jurisdiction. The man then went to the District Supreme Court and entered a guilty plea.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IF the, so to speak, teaming of Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in "Daddy Long-Legs," at the Fox, seems to any casual observer an inexplicable bit of casting, it can only be because he has not seen the picture. Mr. Baxter, in the role of Jervis Pendleton, turns in a performance that even Charles Farrell's warmest friends could not reasonably expect him to duplicate.

But what I started out to say was that the costarring of Miss Gaynor and Mr. Baxter on the Fox screen is merely a foretaste of the numerous other new alignments of talent Fox contemplates for the ensuing season. Five new romantic teams, I believe, are to appear in the Fox schedule of releases for the 1931-32 season. These are in addition to the reunited Gaynor-Farrell combination, which will be seen in three pictures—"Delicious," "Merely Mary Ann" and "Salomy Jane."

The new teams are Warner Baxter and Elissa Landi, to be featured in "Chesting" and "In Her Arms;" Hardie Albright and Joan Bennett, to be featured in "Surrender" and "Lipstick;" Edmund Lowe and Greta Nissen, in "Disorderly Conduct" and "Transatlantic;" Frank Albertson and Maureen O'Sullivan, in "The Royal Road to Romance" and "Silver City," and Allan Dinehart and Linda Watkins, both veterans of the stage but newcomers to the films, who will make "Rainbow Trail," "Rogues' Gallery," "Charlie Chan's Chance" and "Sob Sister."

And who remembers when Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne were the cinema's inveterate incinerators?

Speaking of Francis X. Bushman, the self-selling auctioneer, who in his heyday was deemed the handsomest Adonis that ever turned a Grecian profile to the camera, reminds me that your Uncle Nick Altrock, who also has a profile, has turned down a recent offer to become a cinema clown. Your Uncle Nick prefers the wide open spaces of the American League parks to the stuffy seraglios of Hollywood.

I learned this out in the press box at the ball yard the other night while Mr. Dusek was tossing Mr. Londos about the infield, and vice versa. I also learned that your Uncle Nick doesn't go in much for the rassle racket, holding that each bout is in the bag before it starts. Of Thursday night's card he fancied most the pleasantries exchanged between the Messrs. "Tiger" Nelson and Leo Hiatt, who he thought were the most proficient and successful in the intricate art of making "mad faces" at each other, which, in your Uncle Nick's opinion, is the major purpose of the mat game.

It is no part of my present intention to give your Uncle Nick an argument about it, because had it not been for his timely intervention I would have had no chair upon which to set me down during the progress of the grabbing and grunting down there in that ring—which, I take it, was your Uncle Nick's way of paying me back the favor of having bellowed an encouraging "Attaboy, Nick, old boy, old boy, old boy!" at a crucial moment way back yonder in Chicago when he was the ace southpaw of the White Sox, and I a retired meat packer (if hot dogs are meat) sitting in the bleachers!

As cogent and well delivered an address as has ever been recorded and distributed in the newsreels is being made on the local screens this week by Dr. Bruening, German Chancellor, who speaks perfect idiomatic English with not too strong a Teutonic accent.

President Hoover, by the way, is also heard in the news, delivering a considerable footage of the most important pronouncements in his Memorial Day speech at Valley Forge.

And there are, too, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, pelting each other with pretty posies on matters of forestry.

The management of the National Theater reports that as heavy as the mail orders for seats to "Strange Interlude" have been, there are still many excellent locations left which may be secured when the regular box office sale opens.

The stock presentation of this monumental play, beginning Monday, June 15, has been described as Washington theatrical history in the making. It goes without saying that a record-breaking engagement will be inscribed upon the annals of the theater in the Capital.

Since the first curtain is at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the intermission extends from 7:40 to 9 p. m., the crafty restaurateurs in the neighborhood of the National have arranged to serve special "Interlude dinners." It is notable that they have omitted the word "strange."

But did you ever taste a papaya?

TODAY IS LAST DAY FOR FLAG DESIGNERS

Contest Ends at Midnight; Washington's Coat of Arms Favored.

Today is the last day of the contest being conducted by The Washington Post to obtain a suitable design for a flag for the District of Columbia. Residents of the city, realizing that the time for submitting drawings is so very near an end, brought in a great number of appropriate suggestions yesterday.

The coat of arms of George Washington is now coming into its own. The emblem lends itself very well in that the three stars appearing in the crest, if used in the flag for the District, may be emblematic of the three Commissioners, or the three departments of the American Government—executive, judicial and legislative. Another suggestion as to their significance is stated by Oscar H. Kee, of the United States Coast Guard headquarters, as follows: "The three stars represent the three original municipalities of Washington—City of Washington, Georgetown and Levy Court of Washington—later to be consolidated in 1871 to form the District of Columbia."

An interesting drawing has been submitted by J. Moultrie Ward and F. F. Sherwood. The state: "The design is the shield of George Washington, the Father of His Country, as well as of the District of Columbia, with the colors reversed for difference, the usual practice of father and son."

Simplicity seems to be the keynote so that the flag may be easily made and readily recognizable. The Post is offering a prize of $25 for the design selected by the committee of judges. Added to this monetary reward, however, is the honor and distinction which goes to the person who draws the flag adopted, because his or her name will go down in the history of Washington through the ages. It is an opportunity for glory rarely offered to the public. Send or bring in your design today, because suggestions will be acepted until midnight tonight.

Former Policeman Seriously Injured

Shannon Falls to Basement Mistaking Doors at Fire Building.

A mistake he made in doors at the firehouse of No. 14 Engine Company, Eighth and D streets northwest, resulted in serious injuries for George Shannon, 65 years old, a retired policeman, yesterday.

Mr. Shannon was visiting at the firehouse. He opened a door, which he thought led into another room on the first floor; but, instead, stumbled on a step and fell to the basement.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital in an emergency car of the First Precinct Station, where his injuries were said to be a lacerated scalp, possible skull fracture, a dislocated shoulder, and a fractured left arm. Physicians at the hospital said his condition was serious. Mr. Shannon lives at 3417 Holmead street northwest.

Contracts for $80,000 Of New Sewerage Let

Contracts amounting to approximately $80,000 for sewer construction were awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday. The contracts were:

J. B. McCrary Co., for Bradbury Heights sanitary sewer, at estimate of $42,127.

Roy D. Schlegel, Randle Highlands sanitary sewer in vicinity of Thirty-second and G streets southeast, $24,787; also the Southern avenue and Sixty-second street outlet sewer, $4,026.

Peter D'Adamo Construction Co., construction of Plymouth street surface sewer in vicinity of Beach Drive, $5,427; the same company was also awarded a $3,806 contract for Potomac Heights sanitary sewers in vicinity of Macomb and Klingle streets.

LITTLE CONSIDERED FOR LIEUTENANCY

Nemesis of Liquor Runners May Be Promoted in New Police Line-Up.

Sergt. George M. Little, now attached to Inspector Bean's liquor and vice squad, appears slated for one of the promotions expected to take effect July 1. Reports at headquarters yesterday had it that he would be made a lieutenant and placed in charge of one of the three new police inspection districts to be created under the reorganization plan.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, selecting the officers for promotion, are expected to announce their list about June 15.

Sergt. Little has been engaged in liquor law enforcement for almost fourteen years. He began his work in this direction under the Sheppard law, which made Washington legally dry before the advent of national prohibition.

Since July 1, 1925, he has been in command of the special road squad of the Police Department, a unit assigned to capture runners bringing rum into the District. He took command of this unit when Guy E. Burlingame was promoted and placed in command of the Ninth Precinct.

About 40 changes in personnel are expected on July 1. A number of officers who have reached the maximum age of 64 will be retired at that time.

In connection with the reorganization program, an elaborate statistical bureau to trace the movement of crime is planned. It will be ready for operation on July 1. The bureau will be modernly equipped, and under its system each crime in established zones will be tabulated.

The new unit, to be known as the bureau of personnel, statistics and information, will be under direction of Capt. L. I. H. Edwards, with Lieut. L. R. Beall as his assistant.

Court Instructs Hotel Receivers to Pay Interest

Justice Jesse C. Adkins yesterday ordered the receivers for the Shoreham Hotel to pay the semiannual interest, which was due April 15, on a $1,650,000 construction loan. The payment will be made June 18.

Francis H. Duehay, John E. Laskey and Spencer Gordon, the receivers, had advised the court that the $49,500 payment could be made without affecting appreciably the cash reserve. The hotel is reported to have cleared $46,779.11 in April and $33,000 in May.

Buckling Derrick Hurts 2 Workmen

Stone for Wall of Church Proves Too Heavy and Breaks Scaffold.

A half-ton stone cross which was being borne to the top of a wall at the new Christ Lutheran Church, at Sixteenth and Gallatin streets, yesterday proved too heavy for a derrick, causing it to buckle, plunging a foreman and a laborer from a scaffold. Both men were badly injured.

John Piagno, 28, of 4301 Ellicott street, the foreman of the stone mason crew, and Jeff Love, colored, were the injured workers.

Love fell upon his head. He was removed to Freedmen's Hospital. Piagno was taken to Emergency. Both men were employes of Louis Perna & Sons, stone masons.

Python's Eggs Taken From Zoo to Museum

Convinced that the eagerly awaited pythonettes were not to be, Zoo attendants yesterday removed the score of eggs around which the python has been coiled for 60 days.

The eggs will be placed on exhibition in the National Museum, it was announced afterward.

BAPTISTS DENOUNCE BIRTH-CONTROL VOTE

Northern Wing of Church Repudiates Indorsement by Federal Council.

Kansas City, June 5 (A.P.).—The Northern Baptist convention declared today that the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America did not speak for the Baptist denomination in indorsing birth control.

The council and its executives were admonished "that they would be wise in recognition of their cooperative and nonauthoritative capacity to limit the number and character of the subjects upon which they make formal pronouncements."

Action of the convention was by acclamation in adopting a resolution, amended by Judge F. W. Freeman, of Denver, to "disclaim any implication that we as a denomination have approved the (birth control) transaction."

After several years of study the Federal Council's committee on marriage and the home reported last March its indorsement of the use of "careful and restrained" contraceptive measures to regulate the size of families.

The birth control discussion was followed by a proposal to reduce from $9,950 to $7,500 the convention's annual appropriation for the support of the council. After Judge Freeman had explained any reduction would be an economic, and not a punitive measure, the question was referred to the finance committee by a vote of 378 to 342.

Mattison Boyd Jones, Glendale, Calif., lawyer, who is the unopposed nominee for the presidency of the convention, said: "Without doubt the convention is disturbed over the recent pronouncements of the Federal Council of Churches on subjects not delegated to it by the Northern Baptist Convention or by any cooperative organization of the Baptist denominations"

Acts of Individuals.

"Such expressions," Mr. Jones said, "as the Federal Council has made on birth control are the expressions of individual members composing that council, among which there are only thre Baptists, as I recall.

"The Federal Council can not speak for the Northern Baptist convention or the Baptist denomination in any particular matter unless such matter has been regularly delegated and referred to the Federal Council for such purpose.

"Neither the Northern Baptist convention nor any cooperating organization has ever delegated or referred to the Federal Council for its decision or even considered the question of birth control."

Tired Mayors Seek Relaxation in Paris

Americans Tuckered Out by Hospitality, Despite Four Rebuffs.

Paris, June 5 (A.P.).—Tuckered out from their six-day endurance contest, begun Sunday at Dijon and ending today at the Arras battlefields, the American mayors' party arrived back in Paris this evening, and most of the members sought rest.

No activity has been planned before emidday tomorrow, when they will meet for a round-table discussion of their trip and to perfect a system of defense against such strenuous hospitality as has been their lot since landing in France. Tomorrow they will go to the American exhibit at the colonial exposition. There at 4:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. E. S. T.) they will broadcast for the

The mayors' trip during the week benefit of home-town listeners-in. was not without several slight rebuffs. At three different times in the course of yesterday and today the Communist Mayor of Lille avoided meeting the Americans and let everybody know it was on account of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. They had a similar snub from the officials of Strasbourg, who also are Communists.

Alcohol Companies Face Indictment

Federal Jury at Baltimore Hits at Nation-Wide Liquor Ring.

Baltimore, Md., June 5 (A.P.).—A hint that industrial alcohol companies would be involved in indictments was given today by Federal officials as a grand jury investigation of an alleged Nation-wide alcohol ring was completed. The inquiry opened in May.

The indictments, which officials said might number 125, will be returned early next week, it was announced. More than 150 witnesses, including Treasury and prohibition department officials, appeared before the jury.

Federal agents, working on the case since 1929, moved to Washington with a truck load of records and papers. The investigation, termed by officials the largest since prohibition, was started in 1929 following the seizure of three large alcohol lacquer-thinner cracking plants and stills here.

Drunken Wedding Annulment Sought

Husband of Six Days Says He Has Not Seen Wife Since Ceremony.

A six-day-old marriage went on the rocks yesterday when James P. Rogers, of Third street near Bryant street northeast, filed suit asking annulment of his marriage to Mary E. Rogers, of Nineteenth street near T street northwest. They were married at Rockville May 30, 1931, according to the suit.

The annulment paper charges they were intoxicated and "not in possession of their normal faculties" when they procured a license and were married, motivated by "a spirit of fun and levity while under the influence of liquor."

After the ceremony they returned to Washington and went their respective ways. The husband asserts he has not seen or heard from his wife since the marriage.

6 JAILED IN BOMBING KILLING 20 IN MILAN

King Victor Emmanuel's Narrow Escape in 1928 Recalled.

Rome, June 5 (A.P.).—The special tribunal for defence of the State tonight sentenced six men to prison and freed another after a one-day trial for responsibility in a bombing which killed 20 persons and injured 23 as King Victor Emmanuel inspected the Milan fair on April 12, 1928.

The accused also were charged with placing a dynamite bomb on the Milan-Piacenza railroad, over which Premier Mussolini was scheduled to pass. A workman found this bomb before the train arrived.

Those sentenced were Giuseppe Testa, to 12 years; Augusto Lodovichetti, 12 years; Ettore Vacchieri, 12; Giuseppe Sacchi, 6; Francisco Oggiani, 5; Oreste Bruneri, 3 years and 6 months. Giuseppe Porta was freed.

The comparatively light sentences were said to have resulted from failure of evidence to connect them directly with the Milan explosion.

The king displayed great coolness when he narrowly escaped at the time of the bombing and continued his inspection of buildings. Later he visited the injured in hospitals.

Police who investigated the tragedy for three years before the arrests were made last April 24, attributed the explosion to a time bomb concealed in the base of a lamp post.

Testa told the court that he was a member of the Communist party and received money from abroad. Lodovichetti also said he was a communist and others admitted membership in Testa's gang.

Highway Projects Cost Over Billion

Nation-Wide Boom Is Expected to Provide Jobs for Unemployed.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—A billion and a half dollar road building program is being carried out in America this year, the American Automobile Association reported today following a national survey.

More than 60,000 miles of highway will be improved in the 45 States covered by the survey.

Louisiana's plans for the year call for improvement of 3,200 miles, the association found. New York State ranks second to Louisiana, with a proposed expenditure of $60,000,000. Illinois and Pennsylvania follow closely. The total expenditures exceed those of 1930 by millions. It is expected this nationwide boom of road building will provide jobs for many now unemployed.

Philippine Archbishop Visits Hoover.

Archbishop Gregorio Aglipay, of the Independent Philippine Church, called at the White HoHuse yesterday to pay his respects to the President. He said afterward that he wished to offer thanks for "the many blessings the American people have brought to the Philippines." He will sail for the islands June 19.

Baldwin Head Sees Era of Prosperity

Vauclain Is Confident U. S. Will Enjoy Unequaled Business Period.

Philadelphia, June 5 (A.P.).—With the return of confidence and consequent restoration of business, the United States will enjoy a period of prosperity never before seen in this country, Samuel Vauclain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, said today.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the American Railway Magazine Editors' Association, Vauclain denounced "supposed politicians" and their attacks on public utilities as a contributing cause of the economic slump.

"After passing through depressions as an individual since 1873," Vauclain said, "I can say that each one was folowed by a period of prosperity greater than ever before, and the present period of depression will prove no exception."

King of Siam's Vision Is Restored ni Full

Purchase, N. Y., June 5 (A.P.).—Complete vision has ben restored to King Prajadhipok of Siam by the operation performed upon him in New York May 9, it was announced tonight at Ophir Hall, where the king and queen are living.

The king visited New York for the first time ince the operation was performed, and was fitted with glasses at the laboratory of Dr. John M. Wheeler.

Japan Sells Sake 5 Cents Per Bottle

Huge Overproduction of Liquor Threatens to Spoil if Not Consumed.

Tokyo, June 5 (A.P.).—Increases in the demand for the cheaper beer sent brewers of sake to their vats, where they found there had been an overproduction of the Japanese national drink, like wheat and automobiles, orange juice and birds' nest soup, in other parts of the world.

The survey disclosed stocks of 67,200,000 gallons of sake, and calculations also showed the need for a quick market if the cheering liquid was not to spoil.

So the price was cut to 5 cents a small botttle, enough to give brief though comfortable exhilaration. The sake brewers said this price did not pay production costs, let alone government taxes.

Flowering Cabbage Puzzling Farmers

Cold Weather in Tennessee Is Blamed for Plants Not Growing Heads.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 5 (A.P.).—Why cabbage plants are making flowers instead of heads is puzzling many Tennessee truck growers this spring.

County farm agents have reported that 90 per cent of cabbage plants are "going to seed," like mustard or turnip plants. W. C. Pelton, extension horticulturist at the University of Tennessee, said there is no remedy for this difficulty at the present time.

Experts at the university explained that frostproof plants grown farther South by sowing seed in the fall probably were set back by a long season of cold weather, giving them a rest corresponding to a winter's rest, necessary for cabbage plants to produce seed the second year.

POST WILL ANNOUNCE $1,000 PRIZE WINNER

ments but they have worked steadily and the results of their deliberations will be known tomorrow.

After a staff of clerks had sorted the thousands of ads into divisions for each firm, the judges on Wednesday made their first perusal of the material submitted. The impossible contributions were rapidly eliminated and the pile of ads reduced to a few thousand excellent ads.

Then came a harder task. Picking winners from these better ads was a job requiring much time and thought. The judges went at it again, however, and reduced the number of contestants once more. Yesterday another session was held and the total of possible winners was reduced to a very small number. Today the judges will hold a final meeting and when that meeting is adjourned the name of the $1,000 winner will be announced.

Every precaution has been taken to make certain that only "amateur" ad writers are eligible for the grand prize and the special prizes. The final contestants' work has been checked and double checked to determine whether or not their original entries were really their own. When the final winner is announced, he or she will have the thrill of having broken into the advertising business from a strictly amateur start.

This is a last notice to the contestants. If your name appears on a subscription to The Post and you win the grand prize, there is an additional $50 ready to be paid you.

The judges in the contest are Norman C. Kal, of the Kal Advertising Agency. Frank Romer, of the Romer Advertising Service, and I. Cohen of the Raleigh Haberdashery.

Amtorg Aid Denied Home in America

Boris Kouchner, Red, Is Refused Entry Permit Because of Views.

(Associated Press.)

Rejection of the application for admission to the United States of Boris Kouchner, a Russian Communist connected with the Amtorg Trading Corporation, was announced yesterday by the Labor Department.

Kouchner, who applied for admission May 26, to come with the Amtorg, will be taken back to Europe on the ship which brought him to New York.

The Department said he was rejected by a board of special inquiry on the ground he was a quota immigrant not in possession of a quota visa, and "because he said he believed in the overthrow of the United States Government by force."

Probationer Given Added Three Years

Smith, Caught in Attempted Robbery, Must Serve Previous Term.

Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday revoked a probationary sentence of three years, given Charles E. Smith, and in addition sentenced him to serve three years on a charge of housebreaking.

Smith and a companion, Francis DeSales Carman, were apprehended by police in a gasoline station at Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, May 15. They made so much noise in the place they attracted the attention of a woman next door and she phoned police.

Smith, it was found, was on probation for a previous housebreaking charge. Justice Gordon revoked that and gave him a three-year term in the present case. Both will be served concurrently. Carman was given one year because of a previous good record.

Independents Top Chain-Store Sales

Census Figures Show Local Merchants Outsell Combinations.

(Associated Press.)

Census statistics give the independent merchant a big preponderance of business over that done by chain stores.

Figures made public by the Commerce Department showed yesterday that in 1929 the independents supplied slightly more than half the needs of cities of 1,000,000 or more population, and 72 per cent in those housing from 10,000 to 30,000. For the entire country, based on reports from 485 cities, the independents sold 63 per cent of all goods.

National and sectional chain stores did business ranging from 13 per cent of the total in cities of from 10,000 to 30,000 people to 19 per cent for cities of 250,000 and more. Local chain stores systems owned by local interests supplied 19½ per cent of the total needs.

Benedict Gimbel, Jr., Weds California Girl

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5 (A.P.).—Benedict Gimbel, jr., member of the family operating department stores here and in New York, was married today to Miss Sally Phipps, daughter of Mrs. Edith Phipps, of Los Angeles, Calif. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. Benedict Gimbel, sr., in the presence of the immediate family.

Members of the family refused to identify the bride or give her Los Angeles address. They said she was not a relative of the actress by that name.

Ban on Station KTNT Postponed for Appeal

(Associated Press.)

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals late yesterday issued an order postponing the closing of radio station KTNT at Mucatine, Iowa, under a radio commission refusal to grant a renewal of license. Under the court's ruling the station will continue broadcasting pending court action on its appeal from the ruling of the commission.

The renewal of license was refused yesterday after extended litigation, the commission basing its action on the nature of the programs broadcast, which it held were "vulgar, if not, indeed, indecent." The station is operated by Norman Baker.

DO-X FINISHES TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

Lands at Natal, Brazil, Seven Months After Take-Off; To Visit New York.

Natal, Brazil, June 5 (A.P.).—Seven months to the day from the time she took off at Altenrein, Switzerland, the German seaplane DO-X, biggest flying boat in the world, settled down on the Pontengy River here today, completing her long delayed transatlantic flight.

It was last November 5 when she lifted herself off Lake Geneva, intending to fly to New York. Before that month was over the series of misadventures which dogged her voyage had begun.

She refueled at Fernando Do Novonda this morning and reached Natal without adventure.

The people here were on the river bank cheering as she roared over the town and came down to a nice landing. Natal had been waiting so long for her arrival that this was a holiday.

Commander Christiansen said he would stay here for several days while the plane is overhauled and then fly to Rio de Janeiro, about 1,000 miles down the coast.

Clarence Schildhauer, the American pilot, who started out with the crew from Altenrhein, but subsequently was recalled to the United States, rejoined the ship here and will fly with it to New York after the South American cruise.

East Texas Exploitation Blamed for Oil Crisis

(Associated Press.)

Responsibility for the depressed condition of the Mid-Continent oil industry was placed by Secretary Wilbur yesterday upon the "rapid and heedless exploitation" of the east Texas field.

The statement, issued by the Secretary as chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, was generally interpreted here by oil observers as a move to hasten the calling of a special session of the Texas Legislature to enact laws strengthening the proration powers of the State. Secretary Wilbur said he understood the governor of Texas is being urged to call a special session.

RICHARD M'KIRDY RITES.

Services for G. W. U. Student to Be Held This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Richard McKirdy, 19-year-old George Washington University sophomore, who shot himself late Thursday at his home, 1529 Forty-fourth street northwest, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Hines Funeral Parlors, 2901 Fourteenth street, followed by interment in Cedar Hill Cemetery. The Rev. Frank S. Miles, pastor of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will conduct the services.

Mr. Richard's ambition was to enter the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, but he was worried lest his poor eyesight would bar him.

Besides his parents, Richard is survived by a sister, Louise, a student at Western High School.

DEPRESSION NOSTRUMS.

The output of remedies for the depression continues on a large scale. It seems inevitable that genius should be turned from practical affairs during hard times to the more illusive field of economic theory. If as much attention were given to specific business problems as is given to the broad general subject, the clouds of depression might be expected to clear away.

Two proposed panaceas which have been discussed before have come into prominence this week because of their advocacy by two distinguished men. Following the suggestion of Prof. Wallace B. Donham in his recent book entitled "Business Adrift," William Randolph Hearst urges the Government to make available $5,000,000,000 for a gigantic building program. William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, lends his support of the plan advocated by Stuart Chase for a national economic council to guide the country through the slough of depression.

Like most other remedies that have been proposed, these schemes disregard the fundamental causes of the present economic derangement. They would start the wheels of industry rolling by administering narcotics or intoxicants. Mr. McAdoo would put a council of manufacturers, merchants, labor leaders and farmers at the economic helm. Industry would be given central direction to prevent waste, maladjustments and unemployment. The Farm Board tried to do that in agriculture and found it to be uphill business. Except under the stress of war, industry will not be driven; nor will it submit to any dominating bureaucracy. Even if industry should submit to such an arrangement during the depression it might become accustomed to leaning upon a crutch and thus be weakened when the crutch were taken away.

The plan to revive business by spending billions for public works presupposes that there are no maladjustments in the economic world and that the depression is purely psychological. Every economist who has grappled with the problem knows that this is not true. Fundamentally, the commercial structure of the United States is sound. But during the years of inflation maladjustments crept in. Production outran purchasing power. The output of many commodities was larger than even the potential demand. Before business can proceed at its normal swing these maladjustments must be corrected.

But Prof. Donham's plan would allow no such adjustment. It provides for the revival of industry through artificial stimulation. Instead of trying to cure the disease he would administer a narcotic to keep the patient functioning. Under such circumstances there is great danger of a collapse when the effect of the drug wears off, and the patient discovers that he must not only make the adjustments which seemed necessary in the first place, but must pay for the narcotic as well.

What the country needs now is not further inflation, but a return to sound economic law. A period of convalescence is absolutely necessary. A sudden boom would be a dangerous symptom, because it would promise further weakening in the economic structure. Business and industry must find their new levels, and no amount of patent medicine can help them to do that. The best remedy that can be administered is a dose of cheerfulness mixed with plenty of common sense and hard work. It would be unfortunate, indeed, if the present trend toward new economic bases were interrupted by any sort of nostrum that would make another period of derangement inevitable in the near future.

UNDER SEA TO THE POLE.

Sir George Hubert Wilkins has tried hard to justify his proposed jaunt under the polar ice on scientific ground, but the public still regards it as a rash venture by one who has decided that there are no more worlds to be conquered on the surface of the water or in the air. Speaking recently before the City Club in New York Sir Hubert pointed out that it might be possible to record ocean temperatures under the polar ice and to make a record of marine life. But if those are the real objectives of the expedition they might be accomplished with a much greater degree of safety from the surface.

Sir Hubert has taken many precautions against disaster. The Nautilus carries a fuel supply for 5,000 miles, and food enough to last the crew for a year and a half. The submarine has been remodeled for this special voyage, and it carries 38 new devices calculated to aid exploration under the ice. Elaborate magnetic and gyroscopic compasses, a theodolite and other instruments have been added to the equipment to make under-ice navigation possible.

It is the intention of the dauntless Sir Hubert to proceed from Spitzbergen under the North Pole to Alaska. Once under the ice cap he plans to stop about every 50 miles to renew the air supply, recharge batteries and conduct scientific work. The success of the expedition depends, therefore, upon the explorers chiseling their way through the ice to the surface many times. They do not know how thick the ice will be, and almost nothing is known of conditions under the great polar cap. The chances of meeting with disaster are incalculable.

Every one admires Sir Hubert's dauntless spirit, but popular opinion of his judgment is just now far below par. It is no small responsibility to imperil the lives of 22 men in what appears to be a hopeless quest. Unless Sir Hubert proves it otherwise, he is liable to face a permanent charge of needlessly imperiling life in a dare-devil feat.

FALSE ECONOMY.

Following disclosure that the War Department is purchasing large quantities of matches produced by Soviet Russia comes a report that some of the economies which the War and Navy Departments hope to effect are based on the purchase of foreign goods. In the past these departments have been forced to buy considerable quantities of foreign products because of the law requiring them to accept the lowest bid. But the Army and Navy appropriation bills enacted by the last Congress, which become effective July 1, direct the two Secretaries to purchase American-made supplies, even though they may be more expensive, providing "that the excessive cost be not unreasonable."

This statute is open to broad interpretation by department heads. What constitutes an unreasonable excess cost? If it is liberally interpreted many supplies that are now purchased abroad will be bought in the United States. Doubtless the purchase of foreign goods could be virtually abandoned under this provision. It is questionable, of course, whether such a strict interpretation would be justified in the case of local purchases in Panama, the Philippines, China, or other foreign places where troops are stationed. But there ought not to be any question as to the general application of this law so as to favor American goods.

The inconsistency of the Army buying Soviet matches while the Treasury seeks to bar them from the American market because of the unfair methods used in their production and sale is something that only a great bungling machine like Congress could permit. The Treasury invoked the antidumping clause of the tariff act against Soviet matches to protect American industry and labor. In accordance with their usual tactics the Muscovites were dumping matches upon the American market at lower prices than were being charged in Russia. But the Soviet continues to export matches to this country, in spite of the higher duty at prices that can not be met by manufacturers who do not employ slave labor.

No blame can be attached to the Army for purchase of these matches in accordance with mandatory law. But when that restriction is removed next month it would be madness for the Army to continue the practice in the name of economy. There is no economy in encouraging anti-American industries based on slavery and unfair trade practices. To continue supporting the Soviet five-year plan would put the Army in the position of helping to destroy the country it is sworn to defend.

The purchase of supplies from other foreign nations can not be put in the same class as the buying of products which have been officially outlawed, but American policy demands that home industry be patronized wherever that is possible. The Government saves nothing by buying from foreigners when American factories are idle, American workmen unemployed and farms producing large unsold surpluses. The administration stands upon the principle of reserving the American market for American producers. Only a distorted notion of parsimony could induce agents of the Government to patronize foreign industry "to save money." Any department which resorts to that means of trimming down its budget repudiates the strongest tenet in the Republican creed. It is unthinkable that either the Army or the Navy can be contemplating "economies" of this kind.

SAVING TIME IN CONGRESS.

There are numerous indications that the old question of changing rules and practices in both the Senate and House will reappear in full force at the next session of Congress. Progressive members of the House have already given notice to this effect. Representative Luce (Republican), of Massachusetts, also has been compiling statistics to show that Congress gets further and further behind each session because it does not adopt some of the more modern methods of procedure.

One of the greatest wastes of time, Mr. Luce finds, is the practice of reading in full every bill that comes up for action. The enactments of any one session of Congress aggregate a total of about 1,000,000 words, and it is figured out that their single reading, taken in connection with the matter that is read several times and the bills that fail of enactment, probably a full month of every term of Congress is consumed in this recital to which little attention is paid.

Oral presentation of bills, Mr. Luce says, is not practiced today in any other large legislative body in the world. In olden times it was the custom in the British Parliament, because so many of the members could not read, but has been discontinued there for probably a century. In the Massachusetts Legislature complete readings were abandoned many years ago. It is contended, of course, that with printed copies of all measures before the legislative bodies the ancient procedure is unnecessary.

The necessity for conserving time in the American Congress is shown, not so much in the fact that of the 25,436 bills introduced during the sessions of the last two years only 1,524 became laws, as that so many measures passed by one branch failed through lack of time to be considered by the other. For the same reason many measures favorably reported were never reached on the Senate and House calendars. Over 900 bills passed by one branch never were considered by the other, and more than 700 bills died on the House calendar.

This shows that a vast amount of committee work was wasted; that about 25 per cent of the measures reported to the House were not acted upon at all; and that an even larger percentage of the total favorably reported received consideration only by one branch of Congress. Very few of the measures that failed concerned new policies. Two-thirds of them, in fact, were private bills. Their failure denied to several hundred persons the justice, equity, mercy or reward that many hours of committee investigation held to be deserved.

Two hundred and more of the bills that failed to pass in the last days of the session concerned public matters, most of them dealing with administrative affairs, so that their failure resulted in some governmental agencies not being able to function as efficiently as committees had found to be desirable. By liberalizing the rules of procedure, by eliminating some of the unnecessary repetitions and delays caused by old-time methods, much time can be saved to Congress and the congestion at the close of each session largely avoided.

Georges Duhamel, French writer, says that Americans are living in a prison, the walls of which have been created by the prisoners themselves. It's surprising that the insurgents didn't capture that bird and run him for Congress.

When the Democrats draw up a list of the seven wonders of the world the fact that Canada could revise its tariff without the help of Joe Grundy is certain to be listed in a respectable place.

A girl was taken to the morgue in New York and suddenly revived when she got a breath of cool air. Why not try that on the stock market?

No doubt the Supreme Court decided that there's no use in trying to suppress scandalous newspapers so long as the Senate is allowed to function.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 5.—The proposed visit of Secretary Stimson to several countries in Europe reminds us that governments do not depend so much as formerly on the reports of diplomats, but are most disposed to take up important questions by direct personal contact between those in authority. The chancellor of Germany is about to visit the prime minister of England, who in turn not long ago came here to confer with President Hoover. The prime minister of Canada paid this country a like compliment.

No way is so effective for finding out the difficulties and opinions of the other fellow and candidly disclosing to him your own as through a personal interview. Much can be said that would never be put in a diplomatic dispatch. That basis of good understanding which the world so much needs today is difficult because those in authority do not have a first hand knowledge of the people and conditions with which they are attempting to deal.

This method is easier for Europe, where capitals are not far apart, than it is for us. But our Secretary of State ought to go abroad each year to make personal acquaintances, even if he has little requiring diplomatic adjustment.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

AS RAILROADS SEE IT

From the Railway Age.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission a memorandum opposing "the imposition of more rigid governmental control over common carrier truck operation," upon the grounds that "governmental interference with private business should not be extended," and that truck regulation is not desired by and would not be in the interest of shippers or the general public.

The interest of the public is to have each class of traffic handled by that agency which can handle it the most economically, differences in service considered. Present Government policies aid highway carriers to take traffic from the railways. But subsidizing of highway carriers results in taxation of private motorists and the general public for the benefit of those who ship by highway and in the loss to the railways of earnings from traffic which they could handle at a lower total cost than it can be handled on the highways.

"Reminding the commission that rail regulation had been enacted to protect the shipping public from irregularities and unfair treatment," counsel for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce declared, "that the testimony of shippers indicated clearly the absence of any need for similar protection from highway carriers. Motor truck transportation is subject to the most effective possible regulation—that of sharp competition." It was "sharp competition" between the railways that caused rebating and the other forms of unfair discrimination for the abolition of which the original act to regulate commerce was passed, and there is abundant reason for believing it is resulting in highway carriers today indulging in every form of discrimination that that act forbids the railways to practice. The big shipper can now use highway transportation to secure in competition with the small shipper the same unfair advantages that he formerly derived from railroad discriminations. If a revival of these discriminations is in the public interest, why continue to forbid their practice by the railroads?

The railways, under a policy of equal treatment, could hold all but their short haul traffic in competition with any other existing means of land transportation. Most of the traffic they are losing to other carriers is being lost because they are strictly regulated without being subsidized, while other carriers are subsidized without being comparably regulated.

Still Trying It Out.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

BIRD-OWNER.

Several pairs of purple martins
Occupy a house I own,
Every morning through my window
Comes a thrush's silver tone.

Bluebirds in a clump of shrubbery
Quite contented seem to be,
Like the roses in my garden
All their charm belongs to me.

Quail come calling every morning
Round the lawn I watch them race,
Now and then a guady pheasant
Brings his hens to see the place.

I have meadow-larks and kill-deer
Nesting not so far away
And a dozen feathered songsters
Sing for me at break of day.

I'll have music all summer,
Every bird house is engaged;
I own sparrows, wrens and robins,
But not one of them is caged.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY DEAR LOUISE—You are going to lose a great deal that life has to offer unless you develop new habits.

Do you remember the old story about the Kentucky colonel and his dogs and a stranger from the city.

The two men sat on the front porch at twilight, smoking in silence. From over the hills came the mellow baying of hounds on the trail of a 'possum.

"Listen, mister," whispered the colonel. "Ain't that the purtiest music you ever heard?"

The stranger listened intently moment after moment and then shook his head. "You know," said he, "I can't hear a thing for them darned dogs."

Most of us are like that. Having ears we hear not, and having eyes we see not.

You can't see with your eyes alone, my dear. You see with your understanding.

I have been told that one of the world's great diamonds was picked up by a Dutch farmer in South Africa who gave it to his children as a plaything.

He and they saw as much with their eyes as anybody else could see, which was nothing more than a pretty rock; but another man, who saw with understanding, recognized in the stone a great fortune.

The illiterate who walks down a city street sees the myriad signs more clearly than a bespectacled college professor sees them, but their message is meaningless to him for he doesn't see with understanding.

A certain wise American who lived in the time of our grandfathers spent his life seeing wonders in the woods and fields. He kept within walking distance of his cabin, yet his understanding eyes saw enough to provide intellectual fodder for generations.

Here in our village I hear young people say there is nothing to see, yet they are surrounded by entrancing mysteries. They see nothing because they don't know how to look.

Many of them, though country bred, can't tell the names of the trees they see or the birds they hear. They see bees and ants, yet how many know that the bees provide artificial heat for their homes or that the ants keep slaves? How many know how the blossoms are fertilized or how the trees prune themselves? They see the obvious things, as you do, but to see no deeper than that is much like being blind.

I wish you would learn to see all the way through things, honey. Reading the label on the bottle won't help you much if you don't know what the label means.

The fish sees only the worm and the worm looks good. That's why we say "poor fish." If a fish could see with understanding, it would know about the hook. Love,

DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Bonus Didn't Help Much.

Atlanta Constitution.

The Treasury deficit and the bonus loans to World War veterans about balance each other, and exceed a billion dollars. Reports made to the Government represent that about 60 per cent of the loans went to the payment of debts, about 25 per cent to the purchase of new and used automobiles and 15 per cent for current necessities and luxuries. And the demands for loans is not materially slackening and not likely to be abated for some time yet.

The general effect of the loans in stimulating business has not met by long odds the predictions of the politicians and the businessmen who advocated the granting of them so vehemently and successfully. The paying of debts has only resulted in replacement of outstanding capital; the new automobiles purchased have not been large as compared with the transfer of used cars from one owner to another; and the expenditures for necessary goods and luxuries have been too scattered to have had appreciable enhancement of trade in general.

Peddling Out Jobs.

Topeka Capital.

Ohio is complaining because its legislature, which has been in session five months, with two recesses, has done nothing about redistricting the State for congressional districts. "Every State Senator wants to be a Congressman," is the explanation given at Columbus. Compared with numerous States Kansas did a good job of reapportionment last winter.

Victory for Free Press.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

By holding unconstitutional the Minnesota newspaper gag law, the United States Supreme Court reaffirmed the great democratic principle of freedom of the press. The decision was based on that clause of the fourteenth amendment, reading: "* * * nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law." It was the view of the court that a law authorizing a judge to suppress by permanent injunction any publication he regarded as "malicious, scandalous or defamatory" infringed the liberty of the press, thus guaranteed. This means not only that the Minnesota law is dead, but that no other State may so restrain the press.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Has Charlie Michelson Lost His Ventriloquism? "Playing Politics" Has Become a Farce.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recent outbursts of Democratic demagoguery would seem to indicate one of two things. Either the much exploited publicity director of the Democratic national committee has lost his ventriloquistic control of his distinguished puppets or his genius in the past has been grossly overrated.

The current campaign of advice, criticism and mudslinging from the minority camp shows a woeful lack of discernment. The Democratic politicians are neglecting to take into consideration the fact that the average intelligence of the electorate in this country is at least more than negligible.

In the face of a serious Treasury deficit, for which no individual is responsible unless it be the exiled German Kaiser, Democratic obstructionists are demanding that more Government funds be expended, that additional building programs be launched, that salaries of Federal employes be raised, that no item of governmental expense be curtailed but that many new items be added to the budget.

This they urge in spite of the vast reduction in current Treasury revenues. Then they say to the administration: "But there must be no increase in tax rates."

It does not require a very extensive knowledge of political economy to realize that increased expenditures and decreased revenues can not result in a balanced budget. The average American voter will not be deceived.

The Democratic showmen continue to "play politics with human misery." But the drama has become a farce. The players' lines sound insincere. Perhaps the director has let too much publicity go to his head. Or possibly the financial "angel" of the show should come back from his European vacation.

KARL MACK.

Former Senator Hansbrough Outlines Plan for Amending Antitrust Laws.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post restates a profound truth in saying that "it is the business of the Federal Government to protect the people from exorbitant prices that always result from restraint of trade."

The editor then goes on to say that in connection with its proration scheme, "apparently the Oil Conservation Board is oblivious of that responsibility."

The fact is that the oil problem is on all fours with the country's agricultural problem. In other words, the Government has permitted monopoly to sap the energies of both of these great industries.

In the case of agriculture it was the farm machinery trust in particular which has been permitted to reap exorbitantly where it had not sown at all. In the oil field, the greedy aggressors are the so-called "big four" petroleum corporations.

Meanwhile, as a matter of necessity, providence has enabled the millions of monopoly's victims to eke out an existence. The result, as might have been expected, is overproduction in grain, cotton and oil, with attendant unemployment at large.

But the singular part about it is that administrative althority covering a period of ten years past has utterly failed to take account of cause and effect. Not entirely so, however, in the legislative branch of the Government. Evidence of this fact is contained in a message addressed to the governors' conference at French Lick, Ind., as follows: "Do not overlook the fact that the pending Nye bills, amending the antitrust laws, specifically provide for damages in case of the injurious use of importations of cheap labor materials or goods. These articles cannot be excluded either by embargo (a war gesture) or high tariffs. Responsibility, therefore, is with the importer should their use result injuriously to any one engaged in domestic industry. Furthermore, the pending measures penalize bad trade practices in the field of merchandising. None of these practices can be prevented under existing law. In effect the Nye bills would rehabilitate small independent business enterprises, without which genuine prosperity will not return. Here, then, is a constructive issue. As was to be expected, concerted monopoly has opened legislative headquarters at Washington for the purpose of defeating these reconstructive measures."

HENRY C. HANSBROUGH.

Ninth-Inning Quitters Roasted by Indignant Fan, Who Wants Nationals Supported, Win or Lose.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Box Seat" deserves the praise of all right-thinking fans for his criticism of those who leave their seats in the ninth inning of baseball games, thereby interfering with the comfort and pleasure of those who remain.

Strange as it seems, these ninth-inning birds of passage are to a great extent healthy looking young men who you might think would be red blooded enough to keep up their interest in a baseball game until it is finished. No matter what kind of a finish it is, they ought to keep their seats for good manners. When they leave to show their disgust because the home club appears to be hopelessly beaten, the conclusion must be that they are quitters.

When the Griffs are in a hole in a game's wind-up, the right kind of fans will remain to give them encouragement. The players are only human and, whether they win or lose, must get some good out of the last-inning rooting of the body of fans whose good will is always unbroken.

The remarks of "Box Seat" were well worth printing, and I hope they may be of help in mending the ways of the ninth-inning quitters.

296 WILL GRADUATE FROM WEST POINT

Class Includes Six Maryland Men; Athletic Stars Are Among Group.

West Point, N. Y., June 5 (A.P.).—Six Marylanders will be in the ranks of the graduation class at the United States Military Academy when, on June 11, 296 cadets will receive their diplomas and commissions as second lieutenants in the Army.

They are Edward A. Brown, son of Lieut. Col. E. A. Brown, Baltimore; John K. Waters, son of Arnold E. Waters, Lutherville; Richard R. Jewitt, son of Lieut. Col. F. F. Jewitt, Fort Howard; William P. Turpin 3d, son of J. R. E. Turpin, of Centerville; John W. Brady, son of Walter L. Brady, Annapolis, and Edward K. Purnell, son of Col. H. S. Purnell, stationed at the Edgewood Arsenal.

Cadet Brown has maintained a high standing academically during his four years at the Military Academy, having been included in the highest graded 30 of his class during the entire course.

Will Join Engineers.

Cadet Brown is manager of both the Army lacrosse and wrestling teams and has been awarded a letter in both sports. He is on his class election committee and will be commissioned in the engineers upon his graduation.

Commencement exercises at West Point will be held in the open at the base of Battle Monument on historic Trophy Point. Gen. John J. Pershing will make the principal address and present both the diplomas and commissions.

Cadet Waters was a sophomore at Johns Hopkins University when he was appointed to the Military Academy. He will graduate as first captain of the Corps of Cadets, the highest rank a cadet can hold. In athletics Cadet Waters was captain of the Army Hockey Team and won two letters in that sport.

Jewitt Won Gold Stars.

Cadet Jewitt stands high academically, having worn the gold stars of a distinguished cadet, awarded to men whose marks in every subject are 92 per cent or better for the last three years, and Jewitt is associate editor of the Pointer, the cadet magazine. He will be commissioned in the Engineers.

Cadet Turpin was appointed to West Point on his graduation from the Shenandoah Valley Military Academy. He is a cadet lieutenant, a member of the Cadet Choir and a hop manager.

Cadet Purnell is captain of the Army Soccer Team and won his letter in that sport for three successive years. He is an executive in the Y. M. C. A. and will probably be commissioned in the Infantry.

Cadet Brady is a graduate of Mount St. Joseph's College here and is one of the leading Army lacrosse players, having won his major "A" twice in that sport. He will be commissioned in the Infantry.

Patent Appeals Court Sets Record; Adjourns

The United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals adjourned for its summer recess yesterday, to meet again in October. During the year the court set a record in disposing of 280 patent cases and 104 customs cases, while opinions were written and handed down in 325 cases, an average of 65 opinions for each judge.

Congestion of work in this court has been due to transfer of jurisdiction to it from the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia of appeals from the Patent Office. The court is composed of Presiding Judge Graham and Associate Judges Bland, Hatfield, Garrett and Lenroot.

U. S. PUSHING PLANS TO RECALL MARINES

Stimsonn Announces Steps to Bring Forces From Haiti and Nicaragua.

(Associated Press.)

A hastening of the administration's plan for the withdrawal of American forces from Haiti and Nicaragua was indicated yesterday by Secretary Stimson in discussing the status of Marine contingents in the two countries.

Completion of the 1931 part of the plan, which will result in the withdrawal after the 1932 elections of Marines in Nicaragua, was announced by the Secretary.

Termination of the first part of this program was marked by the embarkation at Corinto of 178 Marine officers and men.

In discussing Marine forces in Haiti, the Secretary said those contingents may be withdrawn sooner than was anticipated, providing the Haitian national guard proves sufficiently stable.

The Secretary said the United States was aiming in general to create a status for Haiti similar to that in the Dominican republic, where the protection was turned over to the national guard with finances still in the hands of an American receiver of customs.

The United States is obligated under a treaty, the Secretary pointed out, to protect American holders of Haitian bonds, a large majority of whom already have been paid off.

It was possible, Secretary Stimson said, the State Department would determine that the presence of Sidney De La Rue, American financial adviser in Haiti, and protection by national guard was a sufficient guarantee and that this would permit a quicker withdrawal of Marine forces.

Withdrawal of the 178 Marines from Nicaragua makes the total now left there about 800. Under an agreement between the Secretary and President Moncada of Nicaragua for the withdrawal by increasing the efficiency of the Nicaraguan national guard, about 500 were to be left.

The remaining force will be wholly withdrawn after the 1932 elections.

G. U. TO COMMENCE EXERCISES TONIGHT

Class Day Program and Reunion Banquet Will Begin Week's Events.

Class day exercises and a reunion banquet tonight will usher in the 132nd annual commencement week of Georgetown University, which concludes with the graduation program Monday afternoon.

The principal events scheduled tonight are in connection with the law school. Approximately 100 members of the class of 1916 will hold a reunion dinner at the National Press Club, James Blaine Fitzgerald, attorney, being in charge of arrangements. The graduating class at the law school will hold its class exercises about the same time.

Dean George E. Hamilton of the law school is attending the wedding of his son, Richard Hamilton, in New York, so will miss commencement this year.

At the class banquet, the invited guests will be professors at the law school during the school term of the 1916 class, including Justice Jesse Adkins, of the District Supreme Court; J. Harry Covington, former chief justice of the District Supreme Court; A. A. Hoehling and Daniel Thew Wright, former associate justices of the District Supreme Court; John Laskey, former United States attorney; Hugh J. Fegan, assistant dean of the law school; Frank J. Hogan, James S. Easby-Smith, Frank E. Cunningham, clerk of the District Supreme Court and Daniel W. O'Donoghue.

This afternoon at the college the members of the Georgetown Circle and the Christ Child Society will receive alumni from 3 to 5:30 o'clock. The usual college class day exercises have been postponed until tomorrow evening, when awards will be announced in all departments of the university.

Good, Bad or Indifferent?

Men, and women naturally divide the rest of the world into two classes, the good—and the bad.

But there is another class somewhere between these two which has not received enough consideration.

For the purpose of comparison, we will call this class the indifferent.

They are neither good—nor bad—neither fish nor fowl.

For to be indifferent to the civic and religious progress of the world, is almost as bad as being bad.

It is not enough today, with the forces of evil organizing as they are, to remain on the side lines.

People are not good, who only have done nothing bad.

They only are really good who have done, and are doing something constructively good.

No matter what your station in life or where you reside or work, you can find some good to do.

Don't think yourself good, because you do nothing bad.

Do some constructive good today and every other day.

The more you do, the more you will find to do and the easier it is to do.

Don't Be Indifferent to the Problems Confronting You and the World Today

MEMORIAL CHAPEL IN USE TOMORROW

Protestants, Catholics, Jews Have Part in Walter Reed Dedication.

First regular services will be conducted in the beautiful new memorial chapel at Walter Reed General Hospital tomorrow, when at 6:30 a. m. the sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered by Chaplain R. Earl Boyd, United States Army, of the Army Medical Center. The Gray Ladies, volunteer Red Cross workers, who sponsored the building of the chapel, will be the guests of honor at this service. The Gray Ladies will have charge of the preparation and decoration of the altar for this and for all the services to be held tomorrow.

Following the early service, a Roman Catholic service will be conducted at 8:30 a. m., at which time a high mass will be said, with Father B. F. McGeary as celebrant. Chaplain Joseph R. Koch, who but recently reported for duty as Catholic chaplain at the hospital, will be master of ceremonies. Appropriate music in keeping with this solemn service will be rendered during the mass.

Consecrated at 10 a. m.

At 10 a. m. a general service will be conducted in the chapel, at which time the building will be consecrated as a nonsectarian Army chapel. Chaplains of the Regular Army and Reserve Corps will participate in this service. Col. Julian E. Yates, the chief of chaplains of the Army, will conduct the service of consecration. The Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty, pastor of the Memorial United Brethren Church, of Washington, and an officer in the Chaplains' Reserve Corps, will read the first scripture lesson, and Chaplain Joseph R. Koch, Catholic chaplain at Walter Reed Hospital, will read the second lesson. Chaplain R. Earl Boyd, chaplain at Walter Reed Hospital, will deliver the sermon and serve as master of ceremonies at this service.

Special music by a double quartet choir, composed of Mrs. J. Vincent Fallis, Miss Emma Vogel, Mrs. J. C. Kimbrough, Miss Ruth Johnson, Maj. C. B. Kendall, M. C.; Maj. V. H. Cornell, M. C.; Lieut. Elbert DeCoursey, M. C., and Mr. Leonard Davis, of Washington, will be rendered during the service. Maj. Cyrus B. Wood, M. C., is the organist and besides playing the accompaniments, will offer special numbers as the prelude and postlude to the service.

Will Sing "Recessional."

In keeping with the consecration of the chapel as a memorial, the choir will sing Kipling's "Recessional" and Mr. Leonard Davis will sing as a solo "Fear Not, Ye, O Israel," by Dudley Buck.

Services for those of Jewish faith are being planned by the Jewish Welfare Board, announcement of which will be made later.

The first of a series of organ recitals will be given in the Memorial Chapel at Walter Reed Hospital tomorrow afternoon, when Miss Charlotte Klein, organist at St. Margaret's Episcopal Church in Washington, will offer an hour's program of sacred and classical numbers, beginning at 4 o'clock. Miss Klein is the dean of the D. C. Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, and has the distinction of being the first woman recitalist at a national convention of the American Guild of Organists.

Sodality Union's Service Tomorrow

Dr. Shahan to Pontificate and Mgr. McKenna Will Preach.

The Right Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, who has done so much to promote devotion to the Virgin Mary, will preside at the semiannual demonstration of the Sodality Union of Washington at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The bishop will pontificate at solemn benediction. The Rev. Thomas A. Calnan, pastor of St. Michael's Church, Silver Spring, will be the deacon and the Rev. Austin Fleming, assistant pastor of St. Ann's Church, will be subdeacon.

The Right Rev. Mgr. Bernard A. McKenna, director of the National Shrine, will preach. A special program of music has been arranged by the Sodality Union Choir.

It is the hope of the Sodality Union that thousands of Washingtonians will participate in the demonstration. The union extends a cordial invitation to all parishes in Washington and vicinity to send large delegations to the services.

G. W. U. Baccalaureate Services Tomorrow

The Rev. Dr. Albert Charles Dieffenbach, of Cambridge, Mass., will preach the sermon at the baccalaureate services of the George Washington University tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The services will be held at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church and will be attended by members of the board of trustees, administrative officers and faculties of the university, and members of the graduating classes, their parents and friends. Graduates will assemble at the medical school in cap and gown and will move to the church in academic procession.

Falls Church to Hear J. R. Schmidt Preach

In the absence of the Rev. G. L. Conner, pastor of Crossman Memorial M. E. Church, Falls Church, Va., who is attending the annual conference in Baltimore, the sermon tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock will be preached by Raymond Schmidt, of Washington, national lecturer for the International Reform Federation.

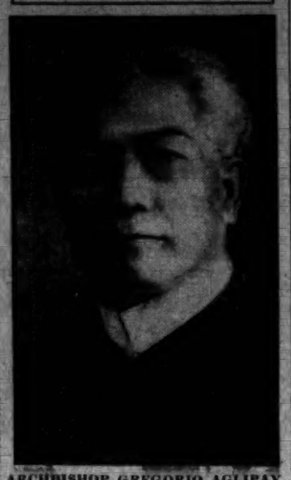
Will Address Kinnear Class.

Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will address the Kinnear class of Calvary Baptist Church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. At 11 o'clock he will preach in Calvary Methodist Church, whose pastor, the Rev. Mark Depp, will be in Baltimore attending the conference in session there.

Wilbur LaRoe, Jr., Mission Preacher.

Wilbur LaRoe, jr., of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, and also a director of the Central Union Mission, will be the speaker tomorrow night at 7:45 in the Mission's Chapel, 413 C street northwest.

FROM PHILIPPINES



ARCHBISHOP GREGORIO AGLIPAY.

Church Will Greet Filipino Prelates

Archbishop Aglipay Will Attend at All Souls' Tomorrow.

Archbishop Gregorio Aglipay, founder and head of the Independent Church of the Philippines, will be the guest of All Souls' Church (Unitarian), Sixteenth and Harvard streets, at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow. The archbishop is accompanied by Bishop Isabelo de los Reyes, jr., and the Rev. Charles R. Joy, who will also participate in the service, together with the minister, Ulysses G. B. Pierce. The party will also be present at the service of the church school at 9:45.

An informal reception in honor of the visitors was given in Pierce Hall last evening. Howard Hosmer was chairman of the committee in charge. This afternoon a pilgrimage will be made to the grave of William Howard Taft and to Mount Vernon. When governor of the islands and up to the time of his death, Mr. Taft was honorary president of the Independent Church.

The archbishop is visiting America by invitation of the American Unitarian Association and was present at the annual meetings of the fellowship in Boston, May 17-23.

Dr. Johnston to Preach At Cathedral Evensong

The Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston, rector of St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, and canon of Washington Cathedral, will preach tomorrow at 4 o'clock at the people's open-air evensong held at the foot of the Peace Cross in Washington Cathedral Close. This evensong and sermon will be broadcast by radio over WMAL.

Music will be furnished by the Cathedral Choir of men and boys, under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster of the cathedral.

Dr. Briggs Now 22 Years Pastor

3,103 Received Into Faith, $500,000 Raised in That Period.

Dr. John E. Briggs, pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, celebrates the twenty-second anniversary of his pastorate there. During these years he has made quite a record. Here it is.

New members received into the faith, 3,103, of which number Dr. Briggs has baptized 1,876.

About half a million dollars has been raised for all purposes. The Darlington Memorial, an addition to the church plant, was erected six years ago. It furnishes ample room for the large Bible school and institutional and recreational features of the church.

Dr. Briggs says the sun never sets upon the work or workers of his church. In addition to two missionaries in the homeland, the church supports Dr. R. E. Chambers in China, who is the director of the Chinese Baptist Publication Society, and Dr. George Green, who for 25 years has been a medical missionary in west Africa.

In addition to his other duties, Dr. Briggs teaches the Darlington Beres Bible Class, with an enrollment of over 400. The entire Bible school has an enrollment of 1,718, which makes it one of the largest in the city.

British Minister To Confer Here

Dr. Richards, of Birmingham, to Discuss International Friendship.

Coming to Washington on a tour of churches in the United States as the representative of the World Alliance for International Friendship, the Rev. Dr. Leyton Richards, minister of Carrs Lane Congregational Church, Birmingham, England, reached Washington last night for a four days' visit. During his stay in this city he will have conferences with local ministers and prominent laymen in the interest of the alliance, and will be the guest at a luncheon at the Willard this afternoon. He will preach the sermon at the morning service in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow.

As the minister of the church whose pulpit was formerly occupied by Dr. Henry Jowett, who was later called to the pastorate of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City, Dr. Richards is one of the leading ministers in the British Isles. From Washington he will go to New York to be the guest of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of the Riverside Church, where he will preach a week from tomorrow.

CONFERENCE HELD AT CAMP KAHLERT

100 Delegates Discussing Young People's Problems of Congregationalists.

One hundred delegates from Washington are in attendance at the eighth annual conference of young people from Congregational churches of Washington and Baltimore, being held at Camp Kahlert, on Chesapeake Bay. The conference began last night and will conclude tomorrow afternoon.

There were delegation meetings and a moonlight party last night. The general theme at this morning's session will be "Youth Faces Religion," with addresses by the Rev. R. W. Brooks, of the People's Church, Washington; the Rev. Dr. A. A. Stockdale, of the First Church, Washington; the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy of the Mount Pleasant Church, Washington, and the Rev. C. W. Collins, of the Associate Church, Baltimore.

Personal Problems Today.

Personal problems will be considered this afternoon, when the delegates will hear E. D. Preston, of the First Church, this city, and dean of the conference; Mrs. A. A. Stockdale, also of the First Church, and Bernard A. Chandler, of the Mount Pleasant Church. The Rev. Walter Spooner, superintendent of the Middle Atlantic Congregational Conference, will deliver a travel talk tonight, and tomorrow morning there will be addresses by Mrs. R. J. McFall, of the Mount Pleasant Church; Dr. Knighton Bloom, of the Congregational commission on missions, and William Knowles Cooper, of the Cleveland Park Church, this city.

The concluding communion service tomorrow afternoon will be conducted by the Rev. George L. Farnham, of the Cleveland Park Church.

Washingtonians at Camp.

The following delegates are in attendance from Washington churches:

Cleveland Park—The Rev. George L. Farnham, Emily Adams, Betty Zopf, Ruth White, Charles Wells, Bryce Livingston, Douglas Stephenson, Clifton Moore and P. O. Hinz.

Church to Observe Italians' Big Day

Ambassador Invited to Attend Holy Rosary Ceremonies.

Nobile Giacomo de Martino, Italian Ambassador, and his staff, in their official capacity, have been invited to attend a special service of thanksgiving at Holy Rosary Church, Third and F streets northwest, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A solemn high mass will be celebrated, followed by the chanting of "Te Deum." The Rev. F. N. Cavallanti will deliver the sermon. Immediately after the service the national anthems will be played by a full band under the direction of Giuseppe Romeo.

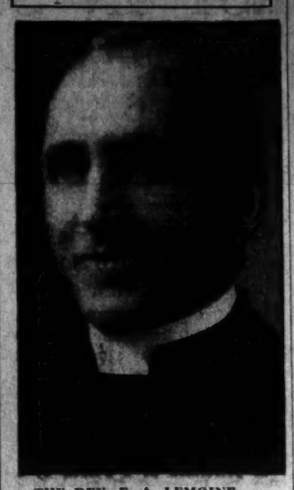
This celebration is under the auspices of the Italian Catholic Society of Washington and commemorates the eighty-third anniversary of the promulgation of a constitution for the Italian nation by King Carlo Alberto of Sardinia. It is the foremost holiday of Italy and is observed all over the kingdom.

New Plans for Gardens At Monument Loom

A revised plan for gardens around the Washington Monument is being devised by William A. Delano and Frederick Law Olmstead for presentation to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive director, said yesterday.

Both of their former plans for beautification of the Monument Grounds were found impractical after test borings had been made under the supervision of commission engineers.

NEW RECTOR



THE REV. E. A. LEMOINE.

Church on Tuesday To Install Rector

Ceremonies Are Planned at St. Columbus' for Rev. E. A. Lemoine.

Tuesday next is Saint Columbia's Day in the Christian Calendar, and on the evening of that day the Rev. Emanuel A. Lemoine, rector of St. Columbia's Episcopal Church, will be instituted in his office with impressive ceremonies which will be largely attended by the clergy and laity of the diocese.

Dr. Charles Warner, rector of St. Alban's, will act for Bishop Freeman, and Dr. Robert Johnston, rector of historic old St. John's, will preach the sermon.

William Tyler Page, senior warden of the church, will deliver the keys of the church and parish building to the incumbent. Other donatives of the ceremony will be the Bible, Book of Common Prayer, and books of the canons of the general and diocesan conventions. This service will also be the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the new church.

ROBBINS IS SELECTED U. S. PROTOCOL CHIEF

ferences, ranging from the naval conference in London to a dairy conference in Copenhagen.

The United States is a member of 26 international bureaus, to which it pays annual dues. Mr. Dunn will also be in charge of these activities.

In addition he will supervise the work of the Mixed Claims Commission, and other such commissions.

Minister Robbins, the chief of the division of protocol, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., September 3, 1885, was graduated from Harvard in 1908, and became a clerk and private secretary at the American Legation in Lisbon the following year. Since then he has served the State Department in many parts of the world. Not so long ago, he served a few months as the White House ceremonial officer.

In his new office, he will have to handle, first, questions in relation to the rights and immunities of representatives of foreign governments in the United States. Presumably, if a Capital policeman should again seize a load of liquor destined for the Siamese Legation, Mr. Robbins would have to step in and see that it was released.

Must Arrange Ceremonials.

He will be in charge of correspondence concerning the acceptability of ambassadors and ministers of the United States to foreign governments and of like officers of foreign governments to the United States.

No. 4 in his list of duties is the most important. It makes him responsible for "arrangements for all ceremonials of a national or international character in the United States or participated in by the United States abroad, including the entertainment of distinguished foreign visitors and their presentation to the President; safeguarding them while in the United States; making arrangements for the visits of foreign naval vessels, foreign aircraft and foreign military organizations, and other matters of ceremonial in connection with the White House and the Department of State.

He must also keep close tab on the birthdays of foreign monarchs and executives, and be sure to send them congratulatory messages in the name of the President of the United States.

Will Meet Dignitaries.

If the Prince of Wales or some other dignitary comes to the United States, Mr. Robbins will be at the dock to meet him and to see that "appropriate customs" are observed and that proper courtesies are extended.

Mr. Robbins will have to decide such things as whether an Army officer or a naval officer can accept a foreign decoration without the approval of Congress, and he also will have to maintain a list of diplomats and attaches stationed here for publication in the department's little "blue book."

Richard Southgate, who has been handling most of the work that now will be turned over to Mr. Robbins (it was he who greeted the King of Siam), will become assistant chief of the Division of International Conferences. Charles Lee Cooke, who for many years has been the ceremonial officer of the State Department, will continue in that position.

FIELD DAY PLANNED OF BIBLE CLASSES

Speaker Tomorrow to Visit 175 Groups in Capital in Association.

The fourth annual field day of the Organized Bible Class Association of the District of Columbia will be held tomorrow. Speakers from the association will visit the 175 classes which are members of the organization. The work of the association will be explained and a word of greeting extended to the classes. The speakers will also tell of the plans for the summer conference at Westminster, Md., July 3-5, which purports to be the biggest conference that has ever been held by the Organized Bible Class Association.

The Failure of Self-Interest

"God is love; and he that abideth in love abideth in God."
—1 John, 4:16.

LIFE'S failures are due more often to the good that we leave undone than to the wrong that we do. This was the failure of the rich man in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. As the world estimated him he was not a bad man. He probably prided himself in keeping the letter of the law. He was not a murderer, nor an adulterer, nor a robber, nor a conscious liar. He refrained from doing positive evil unto others, but he also failed to do the good that daily offered itself unto him at his very doorstep. He was so much taken up with himself and his own affairs that he gave no thought to the needs of others. His self-interest prevented his being a godly man.

Is not this the failure of many today? They live smug, self-satisfied lives and are lacking in consideration for others. They live for themselves and their chosen circle of intimates. It is not that they purposely desire to be cruel and harsh, but they do not take time to think of the needs of others and do not want to be disturbed in their pleasures. At the bottom of this indifference there is the lack of love, the very essence of godliness. "He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen can not love God whom he hath not seen."

Girls Flock To Announce Their Troth

June Weddings Are Not Permitted to Claim All the Halo.

DECLINING to bask in the reflected glory of the June bride, who traditionally claims the halo of all the news, several girls of the smart set here, in New York and abroad have taken things into their own hands, coming to the front with interesting announcements of their engagements. Today Mr. and Mrs. George Carroll Todd announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Meredith Todd, to Mr. Emmert Christopher Stuart, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Stuart, of Hawthorne, Winchester, Va.

And Paris dispatches bear the news of the engagement of Miss Margery Woods, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hunter Woods, of Barton-by-the-Sea, Hampshire, England, and Mr. Peter Cornish, only son of the late Peter Cornish, of Washington. From Vanhornesville, N. Y., comes announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Owen D. Young of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Josephine Young, to Mr. Everett Needham Case, of Plainfield, N. J.; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilmer Bolling announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clara Lutz Bolling, to Mr. Harry Rollins Fowler.

Miss Todd is a graduate of Miss Madeira's School and of Vassar. Mr. Stuart has been a student of medicine at Johns Hopkins University and now is studying medicine at McGill University in Montreal. Like Miss Young and Miss Bolling she is a member of the Junior League.

Miss Young's engagement which was announced yesterday at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Young was to have been revealed to friends several weeks ago but was delayed by the illness of Mr. Young's mother, Mrs. Ida Young. The wedding has been set for some time this month and friends are wondering whether a double ceremony may not be in the offing, inasmuch as the plans for the marriage of Miss Young's brother, Mr. Philip Young, and Miss Faith Adams, of Washington and Dallas, Tex., were originally set for June. Announced last February, the engagement created a stir in the Capital as Miss Adams attended school here, the family having established a definite place in society since their removal here twelve years ago.

Electing a career instead of the life frivolous, Miss Young, after a year abroad, joined the education department of the National Broadcasting Co. with headquarters in New York and each day finds her "checking in at 8 and out at 5." In accordance with her simple tastes, she will have a quiet wedding, only the immediate families attending, which plan, in the event of a double ceremony, probably would meet the wishes of her brother and Miss Adams.

Mr. Case, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Herbert Case, of Plainfield, was graduated from Princeton in 1922, and later took his honors degree in history at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. He is secretary of his class and a member of the graduate council of Princeton, and since 1928 has been assistant secretary of the General Electric Co.

Miss Bolling, who attended Miss Madeira's School and Holton Arms, was presented to society year before last, and during the two seasons has been one of the most popular young girls of the smart Capital set. She is the niece of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, her grandfather, Judge W. H. Bolling having been one of the widely known jurists of Virginia. On her mother's side, four generations of the Lutz family have made their home either in Washington or Georgetown.

Mr. Fowler attended the Friends School, Mercersburg Academy, at Mercersburg, Pa., and was graduated from the University of Virginia. The wedding will take place in the fall.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, has returned from a short stay in New York, where he was accompanied by his aid, Capt. Harold R. Stark.

The United States Ambassador to France and Mrs. Walter Evans Edge were the guests of honor at a dinner given by the French Diplomatic Corps in Paris Thursday evening at the Interallied Club.

Mr. Jules Cambon, quondam Ambassador to the United States, made a speech on behalf of his colleagues.

The Minister of the Netherlands, Mr. L. H. van Royen, returned to the Legation last evening from New Brunswick, N. J., where he attended the commencement exercises yesterday at the Rutgers College, where the degree of doctor of law was conferred on him.

Senator and Mrs. Clarence C. Dill, who were recently in London, where Mrs. Dill was presented at the Court of St. James, are now in Paris, where they are staying at the George V.

Senator David I. Walsh has come from his home in Clinton, Mass., and is at the Carlton for a few days.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter R. Gherardi and Miss Neville T. Gherardi, who have been at the Weylin in New York, have returned to Chevy Chase.

Mrs. Maurice C. Pilson will leave Washington the last of this month for Warrenton, Va., where she will spend the summer season at her home there.

Rippon Lodge To Be Open to Receive Guests

Wade H. Ellises Will Be at Home Tomorrow Afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis will be at home informally tomorrow afternoon at their country home, Rippon Lodge, in Virginia. Later that evening they will go by motor to Richmond, and on Tuesday will go to Lexington, Va., to attend the commencement exercises at the Washington and Lee University, of which Mr. Ellis is an alumnus. Mr. Ellis was valedictorian of his class, and on the twentieth anniversary of his graduation returned to the university to find that he had been chosen speaker of the day and guest of honor for the commencement week.

On Tuesday Mr. Frank Lowden, one-time candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will be the speaker for the commencement. With Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mr. Lowden will be among the guests of the president of the university at luncheon that day in the charming old house which was once the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will return to Washington on Thursday, and on July 11 will sail aboard the Ile de France for Europe, where they will attend the International and Colonial Exposition, for which Mr. Ellis is the honorary counsel.

Thursday Mrs. Ellis entertained at tea at Rippon Lodge for the Capt. Molly Pitcher Chapter, D. A. R., and as a surprise to the guests had invited Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R., to be present and receive the guests with her.

M. Alfred W. Zbyszewski, attache of the Polish Legation in Tokyo, Japan, who has arrived in this country, is at Wardman Park Hotel.

Finley-Eustis Wedding On Wednesday Next.

Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong has been decorated with Order of Saint Sava of the government of Jugoslavia, the ceremony taking place a day or two ago in her apartment in the Mayflower, the Minister conferring the decoration. Only a few friends were present.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William A. McCain and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Earle McCain will leave some time next week for their summer camp in New Hampshire.

Miss Katherine Judge, who has been traveling on the continent for the past year with her niece, Miss Betty Baldwin, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Theodore A. Baldwin, of Governor's Island, N. Y., is now in Paris, where she has an apartment.

Miss Bertha de Hellenbranth, of Ventnor, N. J., is a guest at the Mayflower with her father and brother, Mr. John de Hellenbranth and Dr. Roland de Hellenbranth.

Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant 3d, is passing a few days in New York at the Roosevelt.

The former Gov. of Kentucky and Mrs. Edwin P. Morrow have as their guests for June the United States Minister to Portugal and Mrs. John G. South, who are in this country for a two months' leave of absence. From Washington Mr. and Mrs. South will go to their home in Frankfort, Ky., for a visit before returning to Lisbon.

Mrs. William McClellan Ritter is passing a few days in New York at the Ritz Carlton on her way to her summer home at Oysterville, Cape Cod, where she will open the house for the season. Mr. Ritter will join her there later.

Ensign Takes Miss Perley As His Bride

J. G. Prescott Weds Capital Girl at All Souls' Church.

All Souls' Unitarian Church was the scene yesterday afternoon of the wedding of Miss Alberta Perley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Warner Perley, and Ensign John Guthrie Foster Prescott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McClure Prescott, of Los Angeles Calif. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce in the presence of a large company.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned of eggshell satin on princess lines, with a new shirring effect at the front and back of the skirt, which fell into a graceful train at the back. Her veil, to correspond in color with her gown, was arranged softly about her face, and she carried white lilacs.

Green and rose predominated in the costumes of the bride's attendants, the frocks fashioned of lace on long lines, with three ruffles of the lace on the skirt and several ruffles forming semicapes about the shoulders. They wore horsehair braid hats trimmed with velvet bows and carried arm bouquets of spring flowers, carrying out the rose and green effect.

Miss Margaret Yard, the maid of honor, was in pale green, her hat trimmed with a rose velvet bow, and the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Shinn, Miss Frances Morse, Miss Marjorie Talman and Miss Elizabeth Trescott, were in rose, with their hats trimmed with green velvet.

Ensign Bernard Sieglaff, of Los Angeles, was the best man, and ushers selected included Ensign James Marshall Wood, of Maryland; Ensign Charles Brooks, of Tennessee; Ensign Raymond Hunter, of Texas; Ensign John Chew, of Maryland; Ensign Joseph Kiehlbauch, of South Dakota, and Ensign Edward Robertson, of New York. A pretty feature of the wedding was the arch of crossed sabers made by the men of the wedding party, under which the bride and bridegroom passed on leaving the church.

An al fresco reception followed the ceremony in the garden of the home of the bride's parents, at 2805 Adams Mill road, when in the receiving line were Mrs. Prescott, mother of the bridegroom, who came from the West Coast for the wedding, and Mrs. Perley, mother of the bride. Mrs. Perley wore a gown of gray chiffon and lace, and Mrs. Prescott wore an ensemble of beige lace.

After the reception, Ensign Prescott and his bride left for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a dark blue crepe de chine gown. They will make their home at Long Beach, Calif.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron West, Miss Mary West, Mr. and Mrs Edwin Harts, all of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Blydenburgh, of Smithtown, Long Island.

Waggamanns Will Go to Adirondacks.

Mr. Ennalls Waggamann and his daughter, Miss Frances Virginia Waggamann, will leave Washington early next week for New York, from where they will go to their camp in the Adirondacks for the summer. Mrs. Waggamann and their small son, John, will join Mr. Waggamann and their daughter later in the season.

Miss Helen Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Walker, went to New York last night and will sail today on the Santa Barbara to spend the summer in Chile as the guest of Miss Junia Culbertson, daughter of the American Ambassador and Mrs. William S. Culbertson.

Miss Evelyn Walker is at her home on Ashmead place, having completed her college year at the College of the Sacred Heart, Manhattanville, in New York City.

Mr. Francis Stoughton Walker will join his family in a few days from Yale, where he is studying law.

Senor Felipe Espil, Argentine Minister to Denmark, former counselor of the embassy here, has arrived in New York and is stopping at the Berkshire.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William H. Tschappat entertained at dinner last evening at the Shoreham Terrace. The guests included Gen. and Mrs. Odus Horney, Gen. and Mrs. J. W. Joyes, Col. and Mrs. Charles G. Mettler, Commander and Mrs. T. T. Wynkoop and Commander Wynkoop's mother, Mrs. E. G. Wynkoop, sr.; Capt. and Mrs. Louis Ford and Col. Peter O'Hern.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Haderman celebrated the ninth birthday anniversary of their daughter, Myrtle Marie, on Tuesday.

Her young friends present included Florence Waldecker, Mary Darley, Mary Louise Goucher, Helen O'Brien, May Volteson, Gertrude Wedding, Eleanor Dinglebeck, Charlotte Wenzel, Mary Wise, Dorothy Frasier, Naomi Hagerman, Mary O'Brien, Doris Naylor and Frances Haderman.

Mrs. E. H. G. Slater has closed her home on Eighteenth street and gone to Newport, where she has opened her house for the summer months.

Mrs. Howe Bends Knee At St. James

Former Capital Social Leader Now Lives in London.

Belated, but still "news," dispatches from overseas bring word of Mrs. Emerson Howe's presentation at the Court of St. James. She was among the group of American women who made their curtsies to King George and Queen Mary at one of the May drawing rooms.

Having made her home in London for about a year, since her son-in-law and daughter, Senor and Senora de Gonzales-Prada, have been in residence there, little has been heard in Washington of Mrs. Howe's activities. She lived here for several years before and after the marriage of her daughter, formerly Miss Elizabeth Howe. Senor Gonzales-Prada, quondam counselor of the Peruvian Embassy in Washington, is Minister to Great Britain.

The Pradas and Mrs. Howe left Washington almost two years ago, when Senor Prada was relieved as counselor here, owing to a dispute with his government over the welfare of two countrymen employed in a domestic capacity by the late Mrs. Miles Poindexter, whose husband was a former Ambassador to Peru.

Senor and Senora de Prada traveled extensively on the continent and then the former resumed his connection with the diplomatic service after a period of enforced leisure growing out of a disagreement with the Leguia government, which fell about a year ago, when Senor Prada was reinstated as Minister to Great Britain.

All the while, Mrs. Howe has been with the Pradas, making occasional visits to Paris and other European cities and it was under the wing of her daughter that she was presented to King George and Queen Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival Sheldin Ridsdale have had as their guest for several days their daughter, Mrs. Donald Fenton McCall, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ridsdale will spend the week-end in Lakewood, N. J., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lathrop Pack.

Miss Garnette R. Miller will entertain at luncheon today at the Shorehame Hotel in compliment to Mrs. Stanley Phillips, who will soon leave Washington for her new home in Charlotte, N. C.

Miss D. Quincy Smith has returned from a seventeen months' trip through Europe and North Africa and is again with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Quincy Smith.

Miss Jean Woodson Visiting West Point.

Miss Jean Woodson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson, has gone to West Point, N. Y., for June week. She is there with a group of friends, including Miss Elizabeth Henning, Miss Margo Bell, Miss Isabelle Perry and Miss Louise Turner.

Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton and her sister, Mrs. Wilfred Geist Fronheiser, and the former's son, Mr. Seymour McConnell, will sail for Europe on June 10 on the Steamship Mauretania, to be gone until October 1. They will make a general tour of Europe during the early summer months, and during the latter part of their stay abroad plan to remain in England to visit the ancestral estates of the Dukes of Somerset.

Mr. William Harryman Rapley has just returned from his annual spring trip to Europe. While in Germany he visited the house in which he lived when attending school in Hanover.

Mrs. James Irwin entertained a party at luncheon yesterday at the Shoreham Hotel. Her guests were Mrs. A. F. Arnold, Mrs. Edgar T. Brown, Mrs. T. Hamilton Dawson, Mrs. George A. Chace, Mrs. Frederick Repetti, Mrs. Louis Flemer, Mrs. E. W. Van Meter, Mrs. Alice M. Minch, Mrs. A. F. Maddox, Mrs. J. P. Marchand, Mrs. Herbert S. Flynn, Mrs. M. B. Irwin, Mrs. George W. Eastment, Mrs. J. Edwin Reid and Mrs. Frederick A. Yates.

Mrs. D. V. Smythe returned yesterday from a trip to Bermuda with friends and a short visit in New York and Bronxville, N. Y., with Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Smythe.

Dr. Thomas Verner Moore, founder of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts, the faculty and pupils of the school and visitors will be entertained this afternoon by the members of St. Gertrude's Guild at the annual garden tea on the grounds of the school, 4800 Sargent road, Brookland.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Shea have returned to their home on California street after a five weeks' visit in New Orleans with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gibbons Burke.

Army Wedding At Noon Today In Bluemont

Miss Wertenbaker to Become Bride of Lieut. Goodrich.

Miss Ernestine Rowland Wertenbaker, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. George L. Wertenbaker, and Lieut. Grant Goodrich, Air Corps, U. S. A., will be married today at noon at Rock Rest, the charming estate of the bride's uncle, the late Mr. Hugh B. Rowland, at Bluemont, Va.

The ceremony will take place in the garden and will be followed by a wedding breakfast. The Rev. Dr. Tucker, of Berryville, Va., will officiate. Miss Wertenbaker will have as her attendant her cousin, Miss Margaretta Parks Rowland, as maid of honor.

The bride will wear a white lace dress over tulle, fashioned on long lines. She will carry a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white rosebuds.

Commencement Week Begins at Catholic U.

To the alumni of the Catholic University of America went the honor of inaugurating the commencement week program of that institution, when on last evening the returning graduates joined with the local alumni chapter in giving an alumni reunion dance at the Indian Springs Country Club. The large attendance at this enjoyable affair presages the success of the coming events of the week's program, as alumni, seniors, other students and friends alike were there.

A committee of local alumni, headed by Gregor Heine, '16, of the mechanical engineering faculty of the university, and composed of Dr. John Clarke, '23, instructor in biology at the university; Joseph Suraci, '24, Washington attorney; Raymond DuFour, '28, well known in local athletic circles, and John Bowe, of the INJUNCTIONS restraining the Federal Radio Commission from denying, under section 18 of the Federal radio act, applications for radio frequency licenses and renewals were requested of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today by the National Broadcasting Co., Inc.; R. C. A. Communications, Inc., and the Radio Marine Corporation of America.

The four petitions bring before the court the question of whether these present subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation of America, engaged in broadcast transmission, international and marine radio telegraphy and in television research and experimental work, shall suffer the loss of their wave-length channels on account of the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Third Circuit that a clause formerly employed in patent licenses of the Radio Corporation of Amercia to independent manufacturers of radio broadcast receiving sets violated section 3 of the Clayton act.

The petitions for injunctions are being filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia as the most expeditious means of testing the application of section 18 to the present situation and of determining its constitutionality, and because this method would relieve the Federal Radio Commission from conducting, and the four R. C. A. companies from participating in, independent hearings on each license application.

MORE than 1,400 licenses are now held by these four companies. Licenses for the use of frequencies expire from time to time and under the order of May 7 of the Federal Radio Commission each renewal application is to be set down for hearing.

The injunctions are requested because the present situation of uncertainty is declared by the involved companies to be doing much damage to their businesses. Also they are requested because the same issue is involved in many applications already set for hearing, and many more to be set, and this issue, it is contended, can be, and properly should be, disposed of in one hearing before a competent court.

Accompanying the petitions, affidavits signed by Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., and the heads of the other three plaintiff corporations, were filed with the court. It was pointed out in these affidavits that a denial of renewal of the licenses will mean the rendering virtually worthless of an entire broadcasting system and an international communications system.

THE running of the Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park will be described by Clem McCarthy, NBC turf expert, this afternoon (WRC, 2:45 p. m.).

The first of a series of "Pop" concerts by 83 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra to be offered by the NBC over the WJZ network will be heard tonight. The broadcasts, to continue over the summer, will be under the direction of Arthur Fiedler.

The concert tonight will mark the annual "Tech night," a feature of graduation week at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Two recent additions which considerably lighten WRC's Saturday night entertainment are scheduled again—Sandy MacFarlane, who is heard in Scotch songs and bagpipe melodies in "Over the Heather" (WRC, 3:30 p. m.) and the Bavarian Peasant Band (WRC, 7:15 p. m.).

A GUITAR fully 4 feet in length and 3 feet in diameter at the sound chamber has been added to the Columbia Gauchos ensemble by Vincent Sorey, who purchased the instrument from a friend in Argentina. Its sound is similar to two Hawaiian guitars and it has eight double strings.

A ghostly comedy wherein "Bennie Sees the Ghost" which upsets the solitude of his newly purchased place, will be presented by members of the Radio Playbill this afternoon (WRC, 3:30 p. m.).

DALE WIMBROW, the "Mississippi Minstrel," will give himself a radio birthday party when he broadcasts at 1 p. m. from WMAL. Dale will present a program that is 100 per cent Wimbrow. He will sing songs written by him, read his own poetry and play his accompaniments on the Wimbrowia, an instrument he perfected.

Ceremonies attendant to the reception of visiting American mayors in the United States section of the French International Exposition in Paris will be heard over a WJZ network this morning at 10:45 o'clock.

A new song, with both the music and lyrics by Morton Downey, will be introduced by him on a forthcoming Camel Quarter. It is titled "My Melody of Love." Downey is responsible for two current popular tunes, "Wabash Moon" and "Now You're in My Arms."

A NEW Spanish trio, the Hernandes Brothers, has been contracted by the CBS and is now being featured in two programs conducted by Vincent Sorey—Spanish Serenade tomorrow afternoon (WMAL, 3:30) and the Gauchos, (WMAL, 9 o'clock Sunday night).

The trio are Gonzalo, Hector and Francisco Hernandez, of Colombia, South America. All are expert performers on stringed instruments that are strange in these latitudes, such as the bandola, equipped with sixteen strings; the tiple, with twelve strings, and the harp-guitar. This combination affords harmony distinctly different in the rendition of native South American tunes.

Business girl chic for summer! (According to Dah-Ray.)

New York, June 5.

BUSINESS girl chic! How well she knows all the trials of having and holding it, in her limited time left between work, sleep and play. Especially during the summer, when the weather calls for a fresh dress a day, and sometimes two, if one is not simply the last word in cleverness.

Well, one should be, if one is a Dah-ray fan—you know. And one of the things such a clever person can do is look quick at today's illustration of my idea of a chic, smart and practical business dress for the summer. Short sleeves and cotton gloves with it is the little lady wearing—and a matching hankie is tucked into the gloves. The trick about this dress is that the collar and cuffs are detachable—and the neat business girl takes an extra set or two with her to the office—there to change them when she has a dinner date and doesn't have to go home first, or a luncheon, or just when the others get mussed and her morale could profit by a change.

Not only a change of freshness—but a change of style, as you can see in the little circles. For the neckline has a couple of slits in it and the cuffs as well, and there is no tiresome sewing to do—just slip your collar or cuff through, and tie, and there you are.

How is that for real cleverness, in a summer dress? Made of wool georgette, my deahs, that transparent, light weight stuff that doesn't muss and wrinkle easily—and in a medium blue or green, or beige, that wouldn't show wear in too few days.

Of course, the dress is darling for a summer dress, too, as well as a business dress, and it's not such a bad idea for a dress for a very young girl or even little sister, is it?

* * * *

And how would you like to make it for yourself? Oh yes, you could, too—and surprisingly easily, too—with nothing more than exactly 3 yards of material—your trusty sewing machine, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to go about making it. Look again at the sketch, and see all its possibilities—and do send for leaflet.

* * * *

A lovely lady must be neat in the summer—regardless of weather conditions, absolutely regardless. There is simply no excuse, none, my dear, not a single, little tiny one to excuse lack of neatness under any circumstances.

Start that diet now, to thin out your blood. How about it? And that makes you feel the weather less. Start now, too, using deodorants, lay in a supply of talcum powder, and be sure that it is the scentless kind. And give serious thought to your summer wardrobe and underwear. It might turn hot overnight, you know, and then a lovely lady would be as lovely as ever—you see.

* * * *

And tomorrow you may have the weekly Dare fashion letter again. Look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

I AM about to plant some dahlia tubers for late flowers. How far apart shall I plant these tubers. Is it worth while to plant roots broken at the neck?

MRS. ROBERT H. P.

For the best success when planting a plot of dahlias, I should set them 4x4 feet apart. When planting in a single row, say, through the end of the garden, you may space them 2½ to 3 feet apart. Always discard all roots that are broken or injured at the necks.

Please tell me how to keep a new lawn in condition. It is now beautiful and I want, if possible, to keep it so. MRS. JAMES T. W.

During the first year a new lawn should have an application of a reliable fertilizer every eight weeks. Your dealer will tell you which fertilizer to use. I can not name proprietary preparations in this column. You are always safe in using bonemeal, though some of the commercial fertilizers, which contain more than one ingredient, stimulate growth more rapidly. Always water the sod after using any form of fertilizer.

Do you know of any perennials which can be propagated by root cuttings except Oriental poppies?

MILDRED S. B.

Yes, there are several varieties of plants which can be propagated from root cuttings by dividing the fleshy roots into small pieces. Gaillardias, tall phlox and Japanese anemones can all be raised in this way.

I have decided to make a rock garden and have plenty of land from which to choose almost any kind of site. I rather favor a grade. Do you agree with me?

HOWARD H. T.

The best site for a rock garden is on a slope where there is plenty of drainage. The location should be in the sun, for most rock plants are sun lovers, though since you have enough room I should suggest a stretch where you have both sun and shade.

Please tell of at least two everlasting varieties aside from straw flowers, which I now have. FREDA R. P.

Xeranthemum, acroclinium, lunaria (honesty) and gomphrena (globe flowers).

FRANCES M'DONALD

How Much Should a Lover Spend.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I read with interest the letter from the girl Lou in which she expresses fear that her "boy friend" is tight-fisted. I should like to make a few remarks concerning my own experiences with the fair (and sometimes, sad to say, unfair) sex.

I am of the masculine gender, past the 30-year mark, American, of average intelligence, a student of human nature, and single at present. I have known young women who would have me broke all the time if I had let them, and others of my acquaintance didn't care for that kind of thing at all. Some of those who have meant the most to me have cost the least, and vice versa. I have a girl friend now of whom I think a great deal. We go "places," I buy her candy, small gifts on occasions, and roses rarely. I would spend the last cent in my pocket on her if necessary, or give her my shirt if she needed it, but she doesn't require me to do either. In fact, I think she'd be inclined to tell me to "keep my shirt on." She is more concerned with the manner of man I am than with any display of reckless spending in which I might indulge.

Now, to proceed to Miss Lou's letter. Love can not be judged by gifts given nor received, nor entertainment furnished. But, leaving love out of the discussion, let's regard the matter in the light of friendship. Miss Lou says she and her boy friend have been going together for one year and that they have three dates per week. Not bad progress, I should say. On Saturdays, she says, he takes her out to dinner and a movie. Now, my own experience in dining out on occasion has taught me that restaurants are by no means free institutions, and tickets to the movies cost a little something.

Miss Lou says she likes good shows. We all do. She admits he took her to 10 good regular shows during the year. Leaving out the two summer months of July and August, that's an average of one a month. Not so bad. If she wants to go more often there isn't anything to prevent her from giving herself a treat now and then!

One year together as friends, and not satisfied because her boy friend doesn't "come across" more handsomely. She seeks advice. Well, the advice I would give her wouldn't satisfy her, but I think it would turn out best for all concerned if she took it. Give him up, and let some other girl have him who would be satisfied with what he has to give. If he is a decent chap, there are plenty of nice young women who would throw both arms around his neck, and after another year had rolled by, Lou could not get him back if she wanted him!

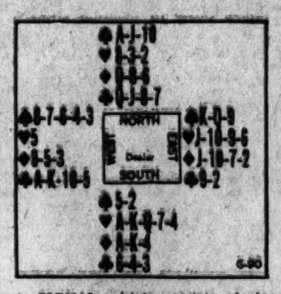
WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge Beginner.)



A SIGNAL, which consists of playing an unnecessary high card when not trying to win a trick, is a request to the partner to continue the suit. It does not state why the signaller desires the suit to be continued—merely the bald fact; and of course the opposite is also the case—when a signal is not started, a continuation of the suit is not requested.

In the following hand:

with Hearts the trump, one Heart being the contract at Auction Bridge and four Hearts at Contract Bridge, West led the King of Clubs. East having only two Clubs played the Nine and West continued with the Ace, expecting—as was the case—that the Nine would prove to be the starting of a signal. When East played the Deuce, West led a third round of the suit, and East ruffed. East then led the King of Spades as one Spade trick now would save game, but dummy won with the Ace and then three rounds of trumps were led, exhausting East. Dummy was put in with the Queen of Diamonds and cashed the Queen of Clubs on which closed hand discarded his last Spade. Consequently Declarer made game.

But game should not have been made because, on the first Club trick, East should have played the Deuce. That would be a request to West not to continue the suit as East has played the lowest card he can have. With no signal to go on with the Clubs, West would lead a Spade through dummy's strength, desiring to remove the sure Spade entry from the North hand, and also to accommodate East by shifting the suit. East would win the Spade with the Queen and then return West's Club for a second lead through the Ace of Spades. Of course on the second Spade lead Declarer would play the Ace, But by that time the adversaries would have made three tricks and would be bound to take a trump and consequently save game.

The point of the hand is that East, with four trump headed by Jack-Ten, does not desire to be forced; and furthermore, he is anxious to have a Spade led through North's Ace-Jack-Ten.

What Today Means to You

"GEMINI."

IF June 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 6:10 p. m. and from 9:15 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:10 a. m. to 2:10 p. m. and from 6:45 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

The planetary aspects of June 6 indicate unexpected changes, not necessarily of an unfavorable nature. The signs are very favorable for social interests, but not so good for business. In the evening, the outlook is overcast and differences with friends or with relatives can only be avoided by the exercise of self-control.

Children born on this June 6 will develop slowly in a physical sense, but quickly in a mental sense. They will attain normalcy just prior to adolescence. As adults, they will have happy dispositions and will inspire much confidence as a result of their loyalty, dependability and keen intelligence.

Born on June 6, you possess many attributes which are a passport to enduring success. You are keen, alert, and intelligent. Another, "and an important," asset is your power of concentration. You have the happy faculty of shutting out all outside or extraneous considerations and devoting your entire attention to the matter in hand. One of your drawbacks is that you can persuade yourself of the feasibility of a certain cause, when experience says that such a course is suicidal. You often show lack of clear judgment, and pursue a "will o' the wisp." If you could dedicate your whole attention to something worth-while, what rewards would await you!

You are rather extravagant in your tastes; so a fortune will never be acquired by you as a result of economy. Your prizes must come in quantity and unexpectedly. If you are a round peg in a square hole, no success will attend your efforts, nor will Fortune smile on you so long as you are not entirely "on your own."

Your disposition is a natural one. Your friends and admirers are legion. You do not care much for society or its amenities. What appeals to you more than anything else is a home and its comfort, a limited circle of intimates where affection and a kindred spirit prevail.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

"Melita Haardt" means "Sweet-as-Honey Firm."
"Charles Louis" means "Manly Famous-Battle."

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Lucas" is extremely common in thirteenth century English records. It is derived from the Greek personal name "Loukas," and means "light." Its Latin feminine "Lucia" has become the modern English "Lucy." As an English personal name the modern form "Luke" has gradually supplanted "Lucas," but "Lucas" is the present-day Spanish for Portuguese form. A certain Willelmus Lucas is mentioned in an English document dated 1379.

The family name "Beattie" (also spelled "Beatty") may be traced back to two quite different sources. In many cases it is an Anglo-French name which means "blessed" and "happy," and which was applied especially to devout persons as a nickname. As an Irish and Scottish name "Beattie" is the modern form of "Biadhtach," which means "the victualer" and "the keeper of an inn."

The family name "Mac Veety" (also spelled "Mac Vity" and "Mas Veity") is of Scottish origin, although it occurs in Ireland also. It is based on the name "Beattie," and may be translated "the son of victualer" and "the son of the keeper of the inn."

The family name "Radley" (also spelled "Redley") is of English origin. Most families which bear this name have received it because of having once lived in the parish of Radley, in Berkshire. This place-name means "the red meadow." The Hundred Rolls include the names of Roger de Redlee, Warin de Redleye, and Richard de Redlege. A London church register of the year 1671 records the marriage of Charles Badley and Bridgett Crscroft.

The family name "Gillespie" (also written Gillaspy," "Gillespy," &c.) is of Celtic origin. Its source is the Irish "Mac Giolla Easpuig," which means "the son of the bishop's servant."

last graduating class, competently handled the arrangements for the dance, securing the charming Indian Springs Club as the setting for the affair and Strickland's Feature Orchestra to furnish the syncopation.

Close on the heels of the alumni dance comes the senior tea dance to be held at the Carlton Hotel this afternoon. This dance is the last to be given by the class of 1931, the senior ball having been held the last of May. The committee of seniors, selected to supervise the dance, is composed of Vincent E. Morris, of Brooklyn, N. Y., chairman; Timothy P. O'Connor, Waterbury, Conn., and Vincent L. Zahner, Louisville, Ky. The dance, as the other events of the commencement week program, are under the personal direction of the class president, Walter E. Barney, Milford, Conn., and the chairman of the commencement week committees, Richard C. English, Champaign, Ill. A select Meyer Davis orchestra will play for the tea dance.

TOMATOES, ORANGES GOOD LOW COST DIET

Adults Should Have About 2 Pounds of Either in Course of Week.

The great change which has taken place in the dietary habits of the American people in the last few years is shown forth in the growing use of tomatoes or oranges in the average menus.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture pointed out in a special bulletin issued last week that tomatoes or oranges are most important to normal nutrition in the low cost diet.

In the weekly market orders outlined for individuals of different ages and families of varying sizes by the bureau in its publication, "The Family's Food at Low Cost," one pound of fresh or canned tomatoes or its equivalent in oranges is allowed for the child 2 years old or less. Adults must have from one and one-half to two pounds, the food guide points out.

The choice of canned or fresh tomatoes may depend entirely on their cost and on the family's preference. At present, fresh tomatoes are expensive except in the Southern States which are now producing them for shipment but as the season advances they will be progressively cheaper. As for the canned variety, bargains are to be found almost daily especially in the No. 2 can. Many stores are selling good quality tomatoes in cans of this size three for a quarter—sometimes cheaper—which means that each one, holding more than a pint, costs about 8 cents.

Uses Almost Unlimited.

Since there are so many ways of using tomatoes, their use, except in cases of true idiosyncrasy, is almost unlimited. They can be baked plain or stuffed; broiled; fried; stewed; mixed with cheese for tomato rabbit, and baked with onions, cabbage or celery. Canned corn, cheese, and tomatoes make a delicious combination to serve on toast and many combinations with eggs and rice can be served as one dish meals. Tomato aspic salad which is inexpensive is a pleasant variation for hot weather.

Investigation has shown that canned tomatoes, if processed by the cold pack method, as are all commercial packs, have essentially the same vitamin C content as field ripened tomatoes, even up until nine months after canning. The same is not true of tomatoes canned in the open kettle, for vitamin C is unstable during oxidation. Many inquiries are received by the bureau on the effect of ripening tomatoes off the vine. The answer is that slightly less vitamin C develops in the fruit when artificially ripened than when it is permitted to mature in the field. But it does develop to practically the same degree whether ripened in a dark or light room or with ethylene gas.

Develop Alkaline Reaction.

In addition to the vitamin content, tomatoes develop an alkaline reaction in the body, according to Miss Charlotte Chatfield, head of the Food Composition Division of the bureau. If eaten in liberal quantities they help to counterbalance the effects of acid-forming foods like meat, cheese, cereals and eggs, she says. Since the tendency of the American diet is toward an acid reaction, this is a decided advantage.

To the layman the alkaline effect of acid-tasting foods, such as tomatoes and citrus fruit, is often puzzling. The various mineral elements in tomatoes, especially potassium, are responsible for their alkalinity. A simple way to fix this fact in mind might be to remember that acid-tasting foods seldom increase the acid reaction of the body fluids, but those that furnish large proportions of protein usually do.

Under the Mapes law, passed by the last Congress, canners must label canned goods, including tomatoes, to show the standard of the product. The law regulates the quantities of pulp, juice and skin in canned tomatoes.

The tomato juice cocktail, which has so recently achieved widespread popularity, is another pleasant way of serving this necessary vegetable. Plain tomato juice may be given to infants as soon as they are permitted to have orange juice with which it can safely be alternated.

The nutritive value of tomatoes has not always been recognized. Less than twenty years ago food and dietary specialists spoke of it as being of no value except as it added color and flavor to a meal. It is now known as an excellent source of vitamin C, the antiscorbutic vitamin, and a good source of three others, A, B and G, the bureau points out. This means that tomatoes contain the vitamins which promote normal growth and help to keep the tissues of the eye, ear, nose and throat resistant to infection; stimulate the appetite.

Some recipes are:

Baked Eggs, Rice, Tomato Sauce.

1½ cups uncooked rice
3 cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
½ chopped onion
6 cloves
3 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
7 eggs
½ cup grated cheese
1 cup buttered crumbs

Cook the rice in a large quantity of boiling, salted water about 20 minutes. Drain, wash in hot water, and place over steam. Prepare a sauce by cooking the tomatoes and seasoning for 10 minutes, strain and thicken with the blended fat and flour. Make a layer of rice in a shallow greased baking dish, drop the raw eggs carefully in the rice, pour the hot sauce over the eggs, sprinkle over the top the grated cheese mixed with the bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Serve at once.

Tomato Ruffle.

1 pound salt pork
2 quarts sliced onions
2 quarts tomatoes
Sugar
Salt
Pepper
4 tablespoons flour
8 tablespoons water

Cook the salt pork until brown and crisp. Add the onions and when they are brown pour in the tomatoes. Season with sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Cook about ten minutes. Mix the flour and water, stir into the vegetable mixer until it thickens and cook for a few minutes longer. Serve on crisp toast.

Tomato Aspic Salad.

6 tablespoons gelatin
1 cup cold water
2 quarts canned tomatoes
4 or 6 slices onions
3 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
4 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 cups shredded cabbage

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for five minutes, strain through a fine sieve, pour the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatin and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar and chill. When the gelatin mixture is partly set, add the finely chopped vegetables and mix well. Add more salt if needed. If the mixture is not tart enough, add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour into wet custard cups and place in a cold place until set, turn out on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise.

Angel Food Cake.

1 cup Washington Flour
1½ cups finely granulated sugar
1⅔ cups unbeaten egg whites (from 12 to 14 eggs)
¼ teaspoon salt
1¾ teaspoons cream tartar
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
½ teaspoon almond extract

Sift and measure the Washington Flour; sift and measure the sugar; then sift the two together six times; add the salt to the egg whites, which should be thoroughly chilled; beat until the whites are frothy, add the cream of tartar and beat until the whites are stiff but neither dry nor firm; then sift about 2 tablespoons of the flour and sugar mixture over the surface of the beaten whites; cut and fold until the mixture is blended; repeat the process until all the sugar and flour is added. (The extract should be added about midway of the mixing.) Pour the mixture into an ungreased stem cake pan and bake in a slow oven (275 to 300 degrees F.) about 1¼ hours. A shallow pan containing boiling water should be placed on the floor of the oven (this prevents the cake becoming dry); a heavy brown paper should be placed over the cake; remove both water and paper at the end of 45 minutes. The cake should remain in the pan until cold. The pan should be inverted while the cake is cooling. Do not frost.

$5 Prize for Best Recipe Won by Mrs. Helen Loomis

Mrs. Helen Loomis, who with nut bread has won this week's $5 prize offered by The Post for the best recipe, using some food product advertised on the food page, is shown here.

Ingredients With Other Directions Given for "Nut Bread."

Mrs. Helen Loomis, of 104 Seventh street southeast, has been adjudged winner of last week's $5 prize for the best recipe submitted utilizing some food product advertised in this section of last Saturday's Post.

Mrs. Loomis' prize-winning recipe is for "nut bread." Self-Rising Washington Flour and M. B. Frazier's nuts both are necessary constituents. Her recipe follows:

NUT BREAD
(Awarded $5 Prize)

2 cups graham flour
1 cup Self-Rising Washington Flour
½ cup molasses
1½ cups milk (sweet)
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoons soda
1 egg
½ cup sugar
½ cup M. B. Frazier's Nuts, cut fine (walnuts or pecans, as preferred)

Mix flour, salt and nut meats. Break egg in the milk and add to the dry ingredients with the molasses, in which the soda has been dissolved. Place in a regular bread pan for 20 minutes to lighten. Bake 50 minutes. Baked in well-greased 1-pound baking powder tins, cut in round slices, with cream cheese filling, it makes delicious sandwiches.

U. S. Ready to Aid Parley on Silver

State Department's Data Will Be Furnished if Group Desires.

(Associated Press.)

State Department officials said yesterday they were prepared to furnish all their data on the silver question if an informal business conference is called by the International Chamber of Commerce to discuss the problem.

The American Government will not interpose any obstacle in the way of such a conference, it being felt that an informal gathering to discuss the subject would have a beneficial effect.

Officials expressed the belief that an informal conference would help by offering suggestions which might later develop into a formal meeting among the powers.

Months of careful study by the State Department, with the assistance of private economists and experts, has resulted in the accumulation of a great quantity of data on the subject.

It is considered likely by officials that the question will be taken up at the July meeting of the chamber's executive committee.

MRS. H. W. SNYDER FUNERAL

Services to Be Held Today for Wife of Lutheran Church Pastor.

Obsequies for Mrs. Henry W. Snyder, who died late Thursday, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at her residence, 5124 Chevy Chase Parkway. Interment will be in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Snyder was the wife of the Rev. Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Three sons also survive.

MORE BOOK PRIZES ON RECIPES LISTED

Honorable Mentions Are Announced Also in Contest Intriguing Post Readers.

The Saturday Food and Home Economics Page of The Washington Post is watched with the greatest interest by housewives in the territory reached by The Post. Every new advertisement containing the name of a commodity which can be used in a recipe is seized upon with avidity.

Readers who are sending in recipes should remember that in order to be entered in the $5 prize contest they should be centered around some food product or appliance which is advertised on the Saturday Food and Home Economics Page.

Among the recipes received which were granted book prizes and honorable mention this week were:

HONEY TAFFY.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup L. A. Zirkle's Pure Honey
½ cup cream
1 tablespoon butter
Pinch cream of tartar

Cook until it forms a ball in cold water. Pour in pan and when cool pull and cut in small pieces.

COFFEE COOKIES.

1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
1 cup molasses (dark)
1 cup strong Asco Coffee
1½ teaspoons soda
Self-Rising Washington Flour to mix very thick

Will keep indefinitely

If a larger amount is desired, double the recipe.

ROLLED SANDWICHES.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Cut all crust from a loaf of Schneider's Whole Wheat Bread.

Butter one long side with soft butter. Slice the long way of the loaf (very thin slices) buttering each successive outer edge before slicing.

Arrange the slices (unbuttered side down) on a damp towel.

Spread 1-3 of each slice with marshmallow whip, 1-3 of each slice with date paste. (Make by blending 1 cup pitted chopped, dated with 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.) 1-3 of each slice with Schindler's fresh roasted peanut butter.

Roll each slice starting the roll in the end of the slice spread with peanut butter. Press the ends of the rolls tightly. Slice as a jelly roll into sandwiches of desired thickness.

IF there is any doubt in your mind about the advantages of an electric refrigerator, just corner any of your numerous friends who now own one. The best person to ask about it is the man of the house, because he actually sees less of the advantages than does the average housewife. He only knows that summer drinks can be delightfully cold and refreshing and that the salads he has at dinner time are always crisp and appetizing.
If he tells you that he would go back to the old-fashioned ice box, it will be one of the marvels of this age. Instead, it would be our guess that he will tell you all about the wonders of electric refrigeration . . . its greater economies and its absolute below-fifty degrees temperature at all times. After you have heard his story, you'll want to go to your neighborhood electric shop and arrange to have an electric refrigerator placed in your own home immediately.

DRIVING ATTRACTIVE TO WOODLAND BEACH

Beauties of Nature Unfold Themselves En Route; Resort Inviting.

"If there only were some place new to drive to!"

Many Washington motorists have sung this lament as they arose on Sunday morning, wishing for a place to go where they might find something of interest without following familiar trails over which they have traveled many times.

The problem of "where to go" may be solved for residents of the Capital tomorrow if they will head for Woodland Beach, the summer-home development site announced recently by The Washington Post.

In addition to furnishing a delightful ride and many beauties of nature at the end of the trip, the visit to Woodland Beach may result in many days, weeks and months of happiness in the future through the purchase of a lot at the site and later, the erection of a summer home amid the virgin surroundings of the area.

Children Amuse Selves.

Take a trip to Woodland Beach tomorrow. Load the family in the "old bus" and take a basket full of lunch. The children will find things to amuse them at the beach while you and the other adults in the party look over the summer colony proposition. You will be surprised at the advantages offered by Woodland Beach and at the prospects for a fine, comfortable and modern summer resort on this spot on the South River in Maryland.

Start from Washington toward Annapolis on the Defense highway, but at Camp Parole turn to the right onto Maryland State highway, No. 2. Follow this across the South River Bridge and then turn left onto Mayo road, taking the last named highway to the beach.

Can Take Electric Cars.

Persons not desiring to motor to Woodland Beach may reach it conveniently by W. B. & A. electric cars. Take the car from Twelfth street and New York avenue northwest to Camp Parole, where all cars will be met tomorrow by buses from Woodland Beach. These same buses will return you to the electric line when you are ready to leave.

Remember, too, that the price of lots at Woodland Beach is surprisingly low. Only $93 for any lot in the development. The only requirement in addition to the price of the lot is a subscription to The Washington Post. Then a down payment of $9 will permit the selection of your lot and you can then pay the remainder in monthly installments of $3.50.

Park Policeman Hurt When Struck by Truck

A park policeman was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when he was knocked from his motorcycle by a truck at Connecticut avenue and Woodley road northwest.

The policeman, J. F. Grove, was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for cuts and bruises. The truck was driven by B. H. Lathan, of M street northwest near Thirty-third street northwest.

—Pulitzer Prize Novel—

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

During the next seven weeks Jane and Jimmy see a good deal of one another and everyone likes him immensely. Jane invites him for the family Thanksgiving dinner, and that afternoon she and Jimmy go for a walk together. They talk of life and love, and Jane confesses her early attachment for Andre but says there has been none since then to take her thoughts from Stephen. Suddenly Jimmy kisses her under the apple tree in her garden. Jane is astonished and indignant. She tells Jimmy to return to Chicago at once and reenters the house feeling guilty and humiliated.

JIMMY—CHAPTER VIII.

MRS. LESTER'S living room was in festive array for a very gala occasion. The occasion was Mrs. Lester's seventy-fifth birthday. When Jane entered the room with Stephen and the children, she could not see her hostess at first, in the crowd of people who were laughing and talking around the hearth beneath the Murillo Madonna.

Mrs. Lester was sitting in her wheel-chair on one corner of the hearthrug. Enormously fat and somewhat crippled with gout, she had not left her wheel-chair for years. She still gave parties, however, great parties, and was pushed to the head of her dining room table to preside over them with her old-time gayety.

No eyes, thought Jane, were ever as beautiful as Jewish eyes. Mrs. Lester's had always touched her profoundly. They were twinkling now, up at Mr. Ward, as she sat enthroned on the hearthrug. An enormous bowl of 75 American beauties nodded over her snowy head. Jane kissed her with real emotion. Then turned to Muriel.

"How is Bert tonight?" she asked.

"Oh—Bert's fine," said Muriel easily. "He's going to sit up next week. They've given him exercises for his arm. They think he'll get some motion back.

Jimmy Invited for Jane.

"Who else is coming?" asked Isabel interestedly. "You're still a man short."

"Jimmy Trent," said Muriel, smiling. "I asked him for our Jane."

Jane glanced casually at her father, then turned, to smell an American Beauty, rather elaborately. She had not expected this. She had not seen Jimmy since she had turned away from him five weeks before under the apple tree in the Lakewood garden. He had telephoned three times, but Jane had not gone to the telephone. He had not written, for which fact Jane was devoutly thankful. She felt somehow very unequal to answering that unwritten letter and still more unequal to the melodramatic gesture of sending it back unread. She had known, of sourse, that she would have to meet Jimmy some time, but she had not anticipated that meeting at Mrs. Lester's seventy-fifth birthday party. She was wondering just how to handle it when Jimmy appeared at the living-room door.

Muriel moved quickly to meet him, and Jane slipped quietly away from Mrs. Lester's side before he came up to present his compliments. She began talking to Freddy Waters in a great burst of gayety. In a moment the butler appeared at the dining-room door. He announced dinner and moved to push Mrs. Lester's chair in to the table. Almost immediately Jane heard Jimmy's voice at her elbow.

His Eyes Look Very Serious.

"I found your name in my envelope in the dressing room, Jane," he said, "and you can bet your life I was glad to see it there." He offered his arm with a smile. His eyes, however, looked very serious. Freddy Waters had gone off in quest of Isabel. The dinner party was passing into the dining room, two by two.

Jane rested her finger-tips on Jimmy's black broadcloth sleeve. She felt there was nothing whatever to say to him. Jimmy looked anxiously down at her as they joined the little procession. Jane saw her father watching them as he offered his arm to Edith. Mr. Furness had gone in with Mrs. Lester.

"Can't you forgive me, Jane?" asked Jimmy earnestly, as they entered the dining room.

"I don't know," said Jane. "I still don't understand at all how you could have done such a thing."

"Don't you, Jane?" said Jimmy wistfully. "Don't you, really?"

"I don't understand how you could have done it to me," said Jane.

"I didn't know," said Jimmy, pulling out her chair for her as they reached the table—"I didn't know that you would take it quite so seriously."

Forgive? She Is Not Sure.

Jane seated herself in silence.

"I've taken it seriously myself," said Jimmy, "since I did it."

He sat down at her side.

"I'm very glad to hear it," said Jane severely.

"And you'll forgive me?" said Jimmy.

"I don't know," said Jane again. She turned to look into his contrite eyes. There was something irresistibly funny about a penitent faun. Jane could not help smiling. Jimmy drew a long breath at the sight of her smile.

"You have forgiven me!" he said triumphantly.

Jane saw her father looking at him from across the table. She wished that Jimmy had not spoken quite so loudly. Then despised herself for the wish.

"Don't let's talk about it any longer," she said evenly. "It happened, and I wish it hadn't. But it doesn't do any good to go on harping on it."

"I don't want to harp on it!" cried Jimmy jubilantly. "I don't want to harp on anything you don't want to hear." He was looking at her now with just the same old look of friendly admiration. "Let's talk about the weather."

Talk With Mock Solemnity.

They did, with mock solemnity. Then they talked of other things. Of Jimmy's reviews, which were making quite a sensation in the "Daily News;" of Agnes's play, which was already half-written; of Cecily, shaking her dandelion head at Jack at the foot of the children's table; of Mrs. Lester, nodding her white one at Mr. Furness at the head of theirs; of the charms of 14 and of the charms of 75. Jane was quite sorry when Mrs. Lester turned the conversation at the beginning of the salad course and she had to begin to talk to Edith's husband of the charms of living in Cleveland—if there were any, which Jane very much doubted.

Later, when the men joined the women in the living-room, Jane was rather surprised to find herself talking to her father. He sat down beside her on the green brocade sofa with a sigh of satisfaction.

"I don't see enough of you, Kid," he said cheerfully. "Nor enough of Stephen. What with all the grandchildren, I hardly spoke to either of you on Christmas Day. I'm going to put in the evening catching up on what you've been doing."

"What Do You Hear From Agnes?"

"I haven't been doing much," said Jane. "Just Christmas shopping."

"Many town parties?" asked Mr. Ward.

"None in the holidays," said Jane. "I'm too busy with the children."

"Much company in the country?"

"No one but the children's friends."

"Jimmy been out often?"

Jane looked straight into her father's eyes.

"He hasn't been out since that luncheon on Thanksgiving Day," she said.

Mr. Ward settled back against the sofa cushions.

"What do you hear from Agnes, Kid?" he asked.

Motoring out to Lakewood when the party was over, tucked in beside Stephen in the front seat of their little Overland, with the children asleep in the tonneau behind them, Jane felt very happy over the events of the evening. She would not have believed it possible that she could have arrived so easily at an understanding with Jimmy. He was obviously very sorry and she had made her attitude quite clear. Jimmy knew now that she was not to be kissed like a chambermaid, caught in an upper corridor. Jimmy knew now that she was not entertained by philandering. Jimmy knew now that she was not that sort of wife to Stephen and that the idea of flirting with Agnes' husband was, to her, unthinkable. Jimmy knew all those things, though they had not referred to his mistake again after they left the table. Jane had hardly spoken to Jimmy all the latter part of the evening. Jane had talked to her father and Jimmy had hung devotedly over Muriel.

Wise Not to Tell Stephen.

How wise she had been, thought Jane, how very wise, not to have said anything to Stephen about that kiss. Not that wisdom had really entered into her decision to keep silent. In fact, all those weeks, when she had been wondering whether or not to talk to Stephen about it, she had felt that the wiser course would be to make a clean breast of the whole affair. And yet she hadn't. Partly, of course, because of what Stephen would think of Jimmy, but even more because of what Stephen would think of her. Jane thought very little of herself, as she reviewed the incident. Jimmy had been outrageous—Jimmy had been insulting. Yet Jane could not quite bring herself to tell the story to Stephen in the role of the betrayed damsel. Jane knew that she had been growing very fond of Jimmy. Jane knew that she had liked his flattering attention. And Jane knew that, though she had not expected his kiss and certainly had resented it, after she had had it, she had not been able to get it out of her mind, out, indeed, of the very fiber of her being. That was the kind of thing a wife could not tell a husband—not a husband like Stephen, at least, who had never even glanced at another woman since the day he had married her. Stephen would never understand how she could have thought about that kiss the way she had. And if she did not tell him that, she really would not be telling him anything. Half-truths had no place in conjugal confidence. Half-truths were cowardly misleading. Half-truths were really lies. Whereas silence was—merely silence. No—it was not the kiss half as much as the way she had felt about it.

What was a kiss, after all? Lots of women were kissed. Some of them had told her about it. Muriel was often kissed, and thought nothing of it. It was the thinking something of it that really counted. Jane had been awfully troubled.

Kissed, and Liked It.

But now, she felt, she had been very wise not to tell Stephen. The incident was over. It was forgiven and—well, if not yet forgotten, it soon would be. Jane hoped she was not going to spend the rest of her life remembering that Stephen's wife had been kissed by Agnes' husband and had liked it. Yes, liked it, in retrospect. Jimmy had learned his lesson. It would not happen again.

Jimmy had not even asked when he might come out to see her. When he had said good night, he had left her to interpret the expression of his wistful eyes in silence. It was Stephen who had said in parting, "How about dinner on Friday, Jimmy? It's fish night. You ought to taste Jane's receipt for planked white-fish!" Even then he had not responded with a questioning glance at her. She had slipped her arm through Stephen's and said serenely, "of course, Jimmy. Just a family party." And he had accepted without undue rejoicing. No grateful, penitent glances. Nothing to shame her before Stephen's innocence.

Jimmy knew, now. There would be no more mistakes in the future. Jane snuggled down against Stephen's shoulder under the furry laprobe. He took his eyes from the road a moment to smile down into her face.

"Nice party, wasn't it?" said Stephen.

"I had a lovely time," said Jane, smiling softly. She kept on smiling all the way to Lakewood. A sleepy, reassured, little smile.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SPRUE.

ONE of the most baffling of all diseases is a form of diarrhea which goes by the name of "sprue." The diarrhea is chronic, or it comes and goes. There is a great deal of gas and the movements are large and watery. Sore tongue is a common symptom. Sometimes patients have sore tongue and diarrhea at the same time. Frequently these two symptoms alternate. The diarrhea stops and the tongue becomes sore. After a while the diarrhea starts up and the tongue becomes less a source of discomfort. Anemia is a prominent symptom in those who have the sprue.

Drs. Bassler and Sutz consider that the proper treatment is dietary. In order to overcome the anemia they give their patients liver to eat and they use extracts of liver as a medicine.

The second most important group of foods in the treatment of sprue is bananas. In New Orleans the stock treatment is a diet composed largely of well-ripened bananas. A person with sprue is told to eat eight to ten well-ripened bananas daily. Under this treatment they put on weight and the symptoms come under control.

Dr. W. A. Bastedo says the strawberry is even better than the banana as a cure for sprue. Another dietetic remedy for sprue is meat and eggs.

Sprue is prevalent in hot countries, and one reason ascribed is that the people in such countries do not eat enough of these foods. The appetite does not crave them and custom dictates that they are not to be used. Probably appetite is right and general health is better in the tropics among those who eat but little meat. What is true of hot climates is true of hot weather regardless of climate. But, at that, abstinence from meat and eggs can be carrried too far, and that is what many people do, with sprue in some instances as a result.

Physicians in this country have added bone marrow and, in other cases, they have added tripe to the foods used in the cure of sprue.

While these dietetic methods of sprue are being used physicians are experimenting in the hope of finding a cause for the disease and, starting from that, are trying to develop a medicinal cure and to formulate a method of prevention. There are many who think it is caused by a fungus—one of the Monila—but that theory has not held its own for several years.

REST MAY HELP.

X. Y. Z. writes: A year ago I had phlebitis after an appendix operation. I still have some swelling in my leg when weather is inclement, or I have been standing for some time. Is there anything I can do to ward off these attacks? Is there much danger in pregnancy after phlebitis?

REPLY.

In your case, phlebitis blocked the vein and the balance between blood outgo and return is not yet well established. It is easily upset. I think use and exercise (active and passive) is the best method of re-establishing normal conditions. Some advise wearing an elastic stocking, but I disagree. There would be more than a chance that pregnancy would cause a renewal.

ARMOUR WINS BRITISH OPEN AS JURADO WASTES LEAD;

JONES LOSES 1-0 DUEL TO UHLE OF TIGERS IN 11 INNINGS

Westbrook Pegler Says

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Well, here is the strange case of the prize-fight promoter who finds himself compelled to advertise one of the artists in his main event as a veritable tyro. You may have been reading of the recent lawing back and forth in the courts between the soulless Garden Corporation on one side and James J. Johnston, the free-lance prize fight promoter, on the other, over the right to present Primo Carnera in some kind of public unveiling in New York this summer.

Carnera pledged himself to the Garden firm, then pledged himself to Mr. Johnston for a prior date with Jack Sharkey and then found himself restrained by a court injunction from fighting any major opponent before he should fight the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling incident in Cleveland, for the Garden. Mr. Carnera, however, might be permitted to fight some indubitable tyro.

So Mr. Johnston canceled Sharkey and came prancing back into the scenario the other day, leading a big stranger by a nose-ring and announcing that he had discovered a tyro of the utmost indubitability to be fought by Primo.

Pat Redmond Is His Name.

His name is Pat Redmond, "Mr. Johnston" stated, "and I can assure the honorable court that he is strictly a minor affair, although how can I help it if people get a look at him and take a curious notion that he is actually a ripping, tearing man-eater and just the size and type to reach out and pat Carnera two or three socks on the beard and kick him prostrate on the floor? I wish to assure the honorable court that I do not believe he will give Carnera any trouble whatever, and you may be sure I will be among the first to write the Garden Corporation a post card expressing my deepest sympathy if he should betray my trust and interrupt Primo, thus causing a depreciation of the cash value of the Garden's contract on the other contest next fall.

"Personally, I do not believe this Redmond has a chance. Look at the poor fellow, noting his diminutive height of 6 feet 3½ inches, his emaciated condition—he is down to 248 pounds—and the delicate size of his hands, no bigger than sofa pillows, and you are bound to agree with me that it is almost vicious to go on with the unequal contest. In fact, in my conscientious desire to comply with the letter and spirit of the court's decision and to observe the sacred property rights of the Garden firm, I may be exposing myself to prosecution from some society for the prevention of something.

Opponents Tyros Like Himself.

"Redmond is little better than a novice, as he has been fighting only four years or so, in Ireland, Australia and Brooklyn, and, for all I have been able to learn, hasn't had more than 75 or 80 contests, all told. He has won many victories, but all his opponents have been beginners, like himself, and all small types of from 215 to 235 pounds, such as Roberto Roberti and Ricardo Bertazolla. It has been argued that our tyro has knocked out several of his sparring partners in practice contests in the gymnasium, but I need not remind the sophisticated element that very often an intelligent sparring partner will pretend to be knocked out momentarily in order to bolster his employer's self-confidence.

"Now, I realize, of course, that a journalist does not like to write articles of a destructive or pessimistic tone. Especially at a time like the present, when it is the duty of all of us to revive confidence and face the future with smiling optimism. Therefore, you will hear no protest from me if you describe this fellow as a gladiator of startling immensity, gigantic strength and the most shocking fury. A journalist is entitled to his own opinions, and I am no censor, so if you were to express the belief that Carnera is about to be exposed at last and knocked bowlegged by Pat Redmond, the greatest young heavyweight since Dempsey's early days, I should reserve comment and attribute your enthusiasm either to an honest difference of opinion or a laudable desire to stimulate business, beginning on June 10 at Ebbets Field.

It May Even Be That He Is Wrong.

"It may even be that I am wrong and have underestimated Pat Redmond, taking him to be a tyro and no menace to Primo Carnera, when I should recognize him as a savage puncher with a tremendous store of courage and power concealed within a shaggy, lumpy and, to some people, altogether brutish exterior, which impresses me, however, as something too delicate and gentle for the ring and better suited to interior decorating.

"But if I thought otherwise I could not honorably go through with my production, which is to take place, did I say, at Ebbets Field June 10 and may result, as some people insist, in the exercise of their right to free opinion, in Primo Carnera's being belted all over the ring. If I conscientiously believed that this Pat Redmond might cause Carnera any inconvenience in their contest and jeopardize the property interests of the Garden, it would be my duty to withdraw from the affair abruptly, paying all losses out of my own pocket, because the greatest need of this country at present, next to a good heavyweight champion, is a respect for the rights and property of others.

"Carnera should lick our tyro, or our slashing tiger, as you wish to regard him, in one punch, barring accidents. But with the accident rate what it is, I can not give any guarantees, of course, but merely hope for the worst."

At this point Mr. Johnston paused to take a second breath.

Hit Batsman Paves Way For Nats' Loss With Both Clubs Held to 5 Safeties

Johnson Sends Owen Home With Single to Decide Game.

Cronin, Myer Avert Defeat in Ninth by Fast Fielding.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IN these days of slam-bang baseball, it is a treat to see a real hurling duel with fine mechanical play and this was the order of things at Griffith Stadium yesterday when the Tigers broke their losing streak, which had extended to eight games, by downing the Nationals, 1 to 0, in 11 innings. A crowd of about 7,000, mostly "ladies' day" guests, was on hand and it was given more thrills than ordinarily are seen in a week of play.

All victories are craved by the Nats, but yesterday's would have come in particularly handy, for the Mackmen bowed at Philadelphia and the Yankees won at New York, the result being that the Washington loss prevented a gain on the leaders, who lose seldom enough, and allowed the New Yorkers to pull to within two games of the Johnsons.

"Sad Sam" Jones and George Uhle pitched like the old masters they are and each granted but five hits in the eleven frames. In the first eight, the Nationals were able to get but two men as far as second and the Tigers only one. Then, in the ninth, a sparkling play by Joe Cronin, with Buddy Myer helping out, staved off a run by nipping Roy Johnson at the plate to end the inning.

Jones Digs Own Pitfall in 11th.

Jones has no one but himself on whom to blame the loss, however. He hit Walker, lead-off man in the eleventh, and the runner advanced a base at a time on Owen's sacrifice and Stone's useful out. Had the "Sad One" been able to dispose of Johnson, the two teams might have been battling yet, but the Tiger flyhawk singled between first and second, and, as things turned out, this broke up the game, for the Nats went down in order in their half.

It was such a tight mound duel that fans worried even if a man got on base. For the Tigers, Stone singled with two out in the first and was left, and McManus walked in the second but got no farther than second. McManus hit in the fourth and Uhle walked in the fifth, but these happenings came after two were dead and the Tigers then saw no more base-life until the ninth, when they came too close to scoring for comfort.

Owen Starts Ninth With Single.

The ninth was the only round in which either team was credited with more than one bingle, and the two made then both were scratchy. Owen led off by beating a grasser to deep short, getting the verdict at first by a whisker. After Stone popped to Spencer, Johnson forced Owen and stole second just before McManus coaxed a pass.

Koenig then shot a roller through the box and Cronin snared it directly behind second. His underhand toss, trying to force out McManus at the middle sack, was late, but Myer wheeled and made a perfect peg to the plate to nail Johnson, who had tried to take two bases on the tap. Jones disposed of the aliens in order in the tenth, but, as already mentioned, could not check them in the second extra frame.

Meanwhile, the Nats' opportunities had been just as few and far between. Owen's error, the only miscue of the game, and Cronin's single put Manush on second in the opening round, and Jones, Spencer and Bluege singled in the third, fifth and seventh, respectively, only to be left. Jones' blow opened round 3, but he was still perched on first when it ended, thanks to Uhle's masterly work.

Rice Doubles In Eighth.

With two dead in the eighth, Sam Rice inserted the only extra-base blow of the game, doubling to right, but he perished there and the Nats were unable to get a man on the sacks in the remaining three rounds, during which not a ball was hit out of the infield.

It was a tough game for Jones to lose, but, despite the fact that he fanned six against none for Uhle, the latter was tighter in the few pinches which arose and deserved the victory.

These old-timers did one thing—they started arguments which probably will not be decided in many moons by showing that, in the hands of masters, the "rabbit" ball is not so lively, after all.

CHISOX HERE; WILL FACE FISCHER

Southpaw Duel Looms With Caraway in Box for Chicago.

ALTHOUGH the Chicago White Sox are low in the race and the Nationals beat them in the only two games played in the Windy City last month, this does not mean that Bush's team will be any set-up in the four-game series which opens at Griffith Stadium this afternoon. The Chisox boast some real pitchers.

In the series with the world champion Mackmen which ended yesterday, Pat Caraway, Ted Lyons and Alphonse Thomas were beaten, but by small scores and largely because their mates could not get any runs for them off Connie Mack's Big Three flingers—Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw—while the Sox showed a good punch in taking the decision yesterday.

Caraway, a long, lanky southpaw, hurled particularly well against the champs, and in his start against the Nats in Chicago he was beaten, even though he held the Johnsons to three hits, one being a homer by Roy Spencer, while another run was molded without the need of a hit, due to an error by Reynolds, a sacrifice, a walk and Hayes' fine squeeze bunt. Caraway is expected to oppose the Nats today, with Carl Fischer, brilliant rookie left-hander, doing the flinging for the home-towners.

Like a bad penny, Infielder Jimmy McLeod is back again. This youngster, who looked like a really great prospect last year, first failed at Chattanooga, then at Dallas, and now at Topeka. The Nats are now casting about for another spot for him and he may go to Hagerstown. In view of his promise after his purchase from Little Rock for $15,000, Mac has proven to be quite a disappointment.

Lloyd Brown, who has been complaining of a sore salary arm, reported much progress yesterday and probably will be ready to face the Chisox in tomorrow's game.

Fred Marberry, out because of a leg injury received in New York nearly two weeks ago, also is expected to be ready to take an assignment shortly. He probably will start in one of the Cleveland games next week.

Umpire Brick Owens, assigned here, is out of action because of an unusual accident. While in an elevator in his Boston hotel his last stop, one of the other guests opened up a newspaper and it cut the arbiter's left eye. After arriving here, the injury bothered Owens, he went to an occulist, and has been ordered confined to a darkroom for a few days.

Scout Joe Engel, who also is President of the Chattanooga Club, is a visitor here.

Gordon Phelps, big Bowie catcher who was signed by the Nats and optioned first to Chattanooga and then to Hagerstown, is hitting at a .409 clip in the Middle Atlantic League. President Griffith is counting on Phelps ultimately making good and already has made arrangements for the chubby fellow to work in an engine room next winter to keep himself hardened-up and to prevent him from taking on too much weight, a bad habit he has during the off season.

Myer raced over behind Kuhel to rob Koenig of a hit after McManus had walked, starting the second.

Two near-Texas leaguers were turned into outs on nobby catches in short center in the second and fourth frames. First, Koenig robbed Bluege of a hit, and then Cronin duplicated the stunt at Koenig's expense.

Manush went back almost to the wall in left to fasten himself on the end of a Uhle drive which looked like a hit as it left the bat.

With Spencer on first in round 5, Jones missed getting at least a double, which would have scored his battery mate, by less than a yard when his drive to right just did curve across the foul line. Then the Nat pitcher popped to Koenig.

Jones fanned Stone and Johnson, ending the sixth, and McManus

Pittsburgh, June 5 (A.P.).—Tom Zachary, of Boston, achieved a shutout, 4 to 0, in the final game with Pittsburgh here today. Meine's pitching was just about as clever as that of the left-hander, but the visitors profited by a letdown in the home defense in the seventh to score three runs.

Ryder Team Position Is Refused by Cotton

Carnoustie, Scotland, June 5 (A.P.).—Henry Cotton, young British professional who led the field in the British open for two days, again refused today to join the British Ryder Cup squad except on his own terms.

George Oke, chairman of the Professional Golfers Association committee charged with selecting the members of the team, invited Cotton to join the squad. The youngster asked Oke if the same conditions prevail—that he must return with the other squad members immediately after the United States open. He was told that it was.

"Sorry, I can not play," he said.

Cotton thinks he has a good chance to win the United States open and doesn't want to be bound by any rule requiring his return to England before he has had a chance to cash in on the title.

Britains Win to Reach Net Zone Semifinals

Eastbourne, England, June 5 (A.P.).—Great Britain advanced today to the semifinals of the European Zone Davis Cup tennis competition by eliminating South Africa.

The British doubles team of G. P. Hughes and F. J. Perry scored the third and decisive victory by beating N. G. Farquharson and P. D. B. Spence, 8—6, 6—4, 6—4. The opening two singles matches were won by England yesterday.

Great Britain plays Japan in the semifinals of the contest which will decide the opponent of the United States in the interzone finals.

Dempsey Plans to Use Sharkey in Sept. Bout

Reno, Nev., June 5 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey today announced he had begun negotiations with Johnny Buckley, manger of Jack Sharkey, to bring the Boston heavyweight here for a 25-round fight on Labor Day with the winner of the Fourth of July bout between Max Baer nad Pauling Uzcudun.

Both Baer and Uzcudun have expressed willingness to meet Sharkey.

Donohue Pleads Case With Owner of Giants

St. Louis, June 5 (A.P.).—Pete Donohue, veteran pitcher of the New York Giants, has traded his ticket to Minneapolis for one to New York in hopes of being allowed to remain in the major leagues nine days longer. Donohue, whose release to the Minneapolis American Association Club was announced yesterday, needed only nine more days to become a 10-year man, which would entitle him to an unconditional release and the privilege of making his own arrangements, possibly with another major league club.

Donohue called John McGraw's attention to this fact and the Giant manager referred him to President Charles A. Stoneham. So Donohue is going East to plead his cause.

CHISOX BEAT MACKMEN IN 12TH

Fonseca's Homer Off Grove Breaks Tie as A's Bow, 7-5.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox took the Philadelphia Athletics into camp in the final of the four-game series here today when they won a twelve-inning encounter, 7 to 5. Lou Fonseca's home run to open the last inning gave the Sox their winning margin.

The triumph for Chicago was the first a Western club has scored over the Athletics this season in fifteen games. It also shattered Grove's string of eight straight wins and administered to the great southpaw his second defeat of the season.

TOMMY ARMOUR.

Jurado Falters on Last 2 Holes to Score a 77.

Sarazen and Allis Tie for Third With 298 Totals.

By FRANK H. KING.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 5 (A.P.).—A North American and a South American fought it out today in this cradle of golf for the British open championship, and Tommy Armour, of Detroit, won, shading Jose Jurado, of Buenos Aires, by one stroke.

Armour, who learned his golf on the blustery links of Scotland and who was formerly the pro at the Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., posted 296 for the 72 holes, with successive rounds of 73, 75, 77 and 71. He takes back to the United States the cup Bobby Jones won last year and which has been held by Americans ten of the last eleven years.

In a great international finish which saw the leading niblick wielders of five nations in the thick of things up to almost the last putt, Tommy captured the cup it seemed certain Jurado would win. The little Argentine led the field at the end of the third round with 220, three strokes better than MacDonald Smith and Arthur Havers, the closest competitors and five strokes better than Armour.

Meets Waterloo On Last 2 Holes.

Jurado led, in fact, until the last two holes, two of the sternest tests of golf in the world, through whose fairways coils and twists the rushing Barry Burn.

With the Prince of Wales rooting for him and some 20,000 Scotsmen looking on, Jurado faltered at this graveyard of golfing hopes, sent his teeshot at the seventeenth into the babbling brook, took a six and then could get only a par five at the home hole while needing a birdie four to tie the flying Scotsman. He almost got his birdie, missing a 3-yard putt by little more than an inch to get 297 and second place. His four rounds were 76, 71, 73 and 77.

Those two holes, the turning point for many fine golfers held no terrors for the "Black Scot" of the Motor City.

Twice he looked the dreaded Barry Burn in the eye as he must have faced the crack troops of Germany in

2 Washington Golfers Gain Semifinal

McCallum to Oppose Miller Today in Mid-Atlantic Play.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—Billy Howell, of Richmond, who won this tournament last year, today successfully repulsed the challenges of a pair of Virginia golfers and tomorrow will face the medalist, Ernest Caldwell, of Baltimore, in semifinals of the Middle Atlantic Golf championship. In the lower bracket two Washington stars are matched as George Miller meets Walter McCallum.

Miller sprung a surprise this morning by beating Harry Pitt, fellow Manor Club member, also of Washington, 3 and 2, and eliminated George Schneck, of Norfolk, 1 up, this afternoon. McCallum, of the Washington Golf Club, secretary of the association, and a golf writer, put out a fellow Washingtonian, L. S. O'Tell, Indian Spring, in the first round, 3 and 2, and won this afternoon 1 up on Haig Daingerfield, of Norfolk.

Dillon, State Champ, Loses in Morning.

Only a few golfers found the sporty Prince Anne course to their liking and the scores of many of them soared even higher than those of the qualifying round yesterday. Among the veterans who found the course and their opponents a tough combination today were Pat Dillon, State champion, and S. Q. Collins, a linksman, who has equaled par here several times.

In the morning round, Short downed Dillon, 5 and 3; Kent beat Nat Bumby, of Norfolk, 3 and 2; Schenck, of Norfolk, eliminated Parker Nolan, 1 up at the nineteenth.

U. S. DUCKPIN GROUP RANKS TRONSKY AT TOP, HISER NO. 2

Six From D. C. Rated Among First Ten

New Briton Ace No. 1; Pacini Is Third, Clarke Fourth.

Lorraine Gullie, Billie Butler at Top of Women's Class.

THE Nation's ranking ten duckpin bowlers for the 1931-1932 season were announced last night by the National Duckpin Bowling Congress, and, although No. 1 position was awarded to Nick Tronsky, of New Britain, Conn., Washington and vicinity furnished six of the remaining nine in the men's class, while Lorraine Gulli and Billie Butler, of the District, were rated first and second in the women's class.

Second honor in the men's class went to Henry Hiser, Hyattsville veteran, with Ollie Pacini third. Astor Clarke, who was the surprise winner of the Howard Campbell sweepstakes and who almost overnight jumped from the rank and file to among the top-notchers, was given fifth position, with Red Morgan rated seventh, Hokie Emith eighth and Paul Harrison tenth.

The other positions on the honor roll fell to Andy Zeller, of Baltimore; John Daley, of Lawrence, Mass., and William Hamilton, of Baltimore. They were ranked fourth, sixth and ninth, respectively.

Whalen and Campbell Missing From List.

Among the surprises of the selections were the absence of the names of Jack Whalen and Howard Campbell, two of Washington's best, who always have ranked high and who are rated as almost unbeatable when anything is at stake. Whalen's name was placed on an "honorary list containing the names of bowlers who have not sufficient league games to rank, but demonstrated their ability in match play."

The women's ranking list shows Washington faring even better than it did in the men's class. It was given the same number of places, six of the ten, but five of its stars figured in the first six. Mae Schneider, of Baltimore, followed Misses Gulli and Butler, with Lucy Owen, Elsie Fischer and Rena Levy given fourth, fifth and sixth places, respectively. Catherine Quigley ranks tenth, with the other three places going to out-of-towners. Seventh went to Margaret Holliday, of Baltimore; eighth to Dorothy Lawson, of Richmond, and ninth to Nellie Beardsworth, of Taunton, Mass.

New England Women Tennis Victors, 8 to 1

Rye, N. Y., June 5 (A.P.).—New England tennis representatives, winner of the Sears Cup in the women's play for the last four years, scored an easy 8-to-1 victory over the Middle States contingent in the first day's play on the courts of the West Chester Country Club today.

As the result of their one-sided victory, the New Englanders are favored to win for the fifth straight year when they meet the New York team in the finals tomorrow. The New York players eliminated the Middle Atlantic team, 7-2.

Suarez and Petrolle In Elimination Bout

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—A lightweight fight between Justo Suarez, the South American champion, and Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. Dak., in Madison Square Garden, June 25, was approved today by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The fight has been billed as an elimination match to find a suitable opponent for Tony Canzoneri, the world's lightweight champion.

The garden informed the commission it had abandoned plans for a bout in the garden June 11 between Roberto Roberti and Victorio Campolo, two of the giants of the ring. Campolo has a prior engagement June 9, too close to the garden fight to suit the fistic fathers, and the garden officials were unable to secure his release. Campolo will fight big Bill Hartwell in Newark on that night.

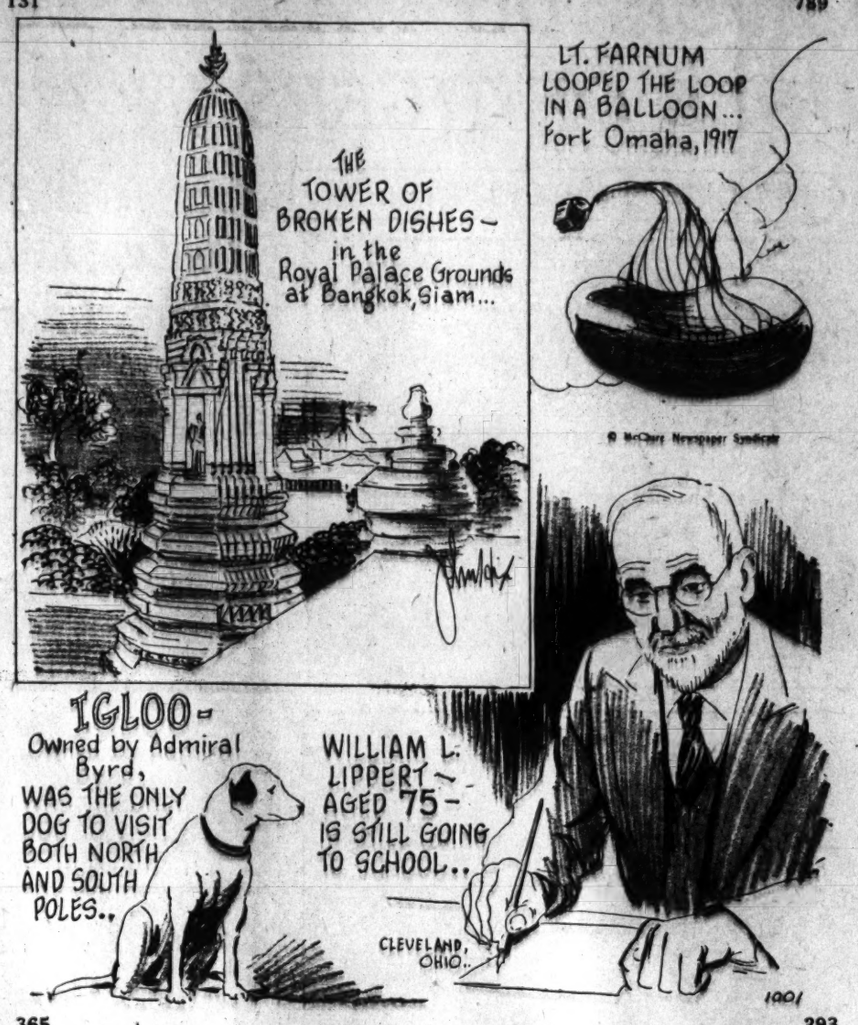
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



THE tower of broken dishes in Bangkok, Siam, stands as a tribute to the craftsmanship and ingenuity of the Siamese. The structure is probably the most magnificent pile of broken dishes in the world.

This beautiful tower was constructed from English porcelain, salvaged from a sunken liner in the Gulf of Siam. Standing in the royal palace grounds, the symmetrical column presents a colorful picture, with the varied colored dishes worked into a bizarre design.

William L. Lippert, head of the newspaper room in the Main Cleveland Public Library, is the oldest student in the Cleveland College. At the age of 75, he is taking a course on sociological and psychological significance of literature, a course on the evolution of civilization and a course in world history.

Aloft in a sausage-shaped observation balloon, W. C. Farnum experienced one of the rarest happenings in aviation. When the balloon suddenly entered a stratum of strong wind the lobes which give stability tore off. The balloon in this condition was comparable to a kite without a tail. It went into a long dive, and with a sudden jerk swung the basket in a perfect loop.

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

WASHINGTON PARK RACE TRACK, Chicago, June 5.—A well-balanced program has been arranged for the patrons of Washington Park tomorrow, with the Illinois Oaks, a test for 3-year-old fillies over the mile and an eighth route, as the feature attraction. This event, which carries an added purse value of $10,000, received a list of eight contestants.

Supporting the main event will be the Outer Drive Handicap, a 6-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds and upward, which should produce an interesting contest.

In the main event, to be run as the sixth, the Middleburg Stable's fleet filly, SUNNY LASSIE, which finished second to Pittsburgher in her last start, is nicely weighted with 116 pounds and is favored to lead her seven rivals to the wire. COUSIN JO, from the C. Nuckols Barn, a recent winner at this track, is assigned top weight of 121 pounds, but should last to save the place. OVER LAY displayed speed at 6 furlongs in her recent winning effort over a muddy track, but should hold the others safe. BROWN WISDOM appears to have the edge on the field he meets in the 6 furlongs of the supporting event. The Riechart 5-year-old was a trifle short last start and with that race as a conditioner he will be hard to beat. RAY BLADES, from the W. S. Dudley stable, turned in a victory last start and figures to force the pace. SATIN SPAR was fortunate in beating BROWN WISDOM in their last meeting and the decision should be reversed in this encounter.

FIRST RACE—PRINCESS IVRE, owned by J. Leiter, is suited by the conditions and figures to account for the purse. Chief opposition should be furnished by MARCASITE. This filly was awarded the decision in her last start when Tellico, the winner, was disqualified. CHU CHU has shown consistent form in her Chicago campaign and is given the show call.

SECOND RACE—FUDGE has been training exceptionally well and should outfoot this band of platers. GRACIOUS GIFT has been rested up and is reported in condition. GOLD RUSH is erratic but is capable of landing third money.

THIRD RACE—BLACK BELT, from the J. W. May string, is selected to lead this field to the wire. The Whiskalong filly scored impressively in her Chicago debut the other day and should repeat. GOLD MINT has shown speed in sprints and figures to save the place. ZIDA has turned in some fast trials and may finish close up.

FOURTH RACE—The Kentucky Derby runner-up, SWEEP ALL, is favored over his five rivals in this mile gallop. The Dixiana Stable's fleet colt finished third, beaten a half length for all the money in his last effort but against this company, he should redeem himself. JIMMY MORAN may falter at this distance under an impost of 118 pounds but is given the place call, with MIKE HALL, clever router in the R. M. Eastman Stable, as the show possibility.

SEVENTH RACE—ROYAL CHARGE, steady plater in the Mrs. Jackson string, has shown consistent form since his Maryland campaign and figures to score in this event. LADY BIENVILLE is favored by the conditions and should finish in the runner-up position. BRUSH appears best of the others for show.

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE ENTER HOTCHKISS TENNIS FINAL

Rivals Clash For Title Today

Norfolk, Richmond Teams Each Bow by 9-0 Score.

D. C. Players Drop But 2 Sets in Downing Norfolk.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—Washington and Baltimore stroked their way into the final day's play of the Hotchkiss Cup matches on the grass tennis courts, at Five Farms here this afternoon, Washington swamping Norfolk nine matches to none and Baltimore matching this feat with a 9-0 victory over Richmond.

Washington and Baltimore, age-old Hotchkiss rivals, will clash tomorrow afternoon at the Roland Park grass courts of the Baltimore Country Club, at 2:30 o'clock, with neither team having any marked advantage over the other. Washington's slight individual superiority will be offset by the fact that the Baltimoreans are playing on their own court.

D. C. Team Shows Singles, Doubles Strength.

In turning in its 9-0 victory over Norfolk today, Washington showed great singles and doubles strength, losing only one set in singles and one in doubles.

Excepting the match in which Bob Considine, District of Columbia champion, defeated Gilbert Corrington, 7—5 and 8—6, and the tussle Dooly Mitchell had in downing A. W. McGann, 6—2, 7—9, 6—0, Washington marched on to victory in easy fashion in the singles and the only real rub suffered by Washington in the doubles was the match in which Frank Shore and Arthur Hellen defeated McGann and Perebee, 6—1, 5—7, 6—2.

Baltimore swamped Richmond without the loss of a set. Tomorrow the Baltimore team will be augmented by Billy Jacobs, former national boys and junior champion.

Women's Golf Body Lists Event Monday

A tournament under the auspices of the Women's District Golf Association will be held next Monday morning on the course of the Army-Navy Club. Competition will be eighteen holes, medal play, for contestants in class A, handicaps under 18, who will start between 9 and 10. Players in class B, handicaps over 18, will start at 10 o'clock and after and will play nine holes. The entrance fee for class A will be $1 and for class B 50 cents. A buffet luncheon will be served in the clubhouse.

Woodmont Golf Title Won by Mrs. Meyer

Mrs. Jerome Meyer, medalist in the qualifying round, yesterday won the women's handicap club championship at the Woodmont Club, defeating Mrs. Jack Shulman in the final round, 4 and 3. In the second flight Mrs. Harry Kaufman won from Mrs. Philip Peyser, 2 up.

The low net prize in the qualifying round was won by Mrs. Gilbert Hahn with a card of 104, 26—78.

Insignia Presented Gonzaga Athletes

The major "G" was awarded to members of three Gonzaga High athletic teams yesterday. Tom Nolan and Dick Hall received letters in three sports while several other students were honored for participating in two sports.

Those receiving letters are as follows:

Football—Donohue, Gingras, Hester, Hartnett, Shipman, Boucher, Dunan, James, Mulcare, Eppard, Lewis, Noland, Hall, Carr, Quigley, Cleary, Benjamin, Viau, Donohoe, Gill, C. Mills and Manager Lauriola. Basketball—Nolan, Hester, Repetti, Hall, Fitzgerald, Mills, Carr, Puresso and Manager Wilson. Baseball—Donohue, Gingrass, Lynch, Nolan, Hall, Fitzgerald, J. Mills, Quigley, Cleary, Benjamin, C. Mills, Grace and Manager Malloy.

The Rev. J. J. Brown, S. J., awarded the letters. The Jesuits enjoyed a successful year in sports, winning the majority of their basket ball and baseball games and breaking even in football. The baseball team was the only local scholastic aggregation to defeat the champion Eastern High School team.

Sam Rice's double with two dead in the eighth was the only extra-baser of the game.

Johnson stole second in the ninth, extending his league leadership. He now has fourteen thefts to his credit.

After Owen had sacrificed Walker to second in the eleventh, Manager Johnson stopped the game while he conferred with Jones. The veteran told him he was not tired and, much to the crowd's delight, was allowed to remain in the game.

JUNIOR, BOY NET TITLES AT STAKE

52 Seek D. C. Crowns in Play Starting This Morning.

THE battles for boys' and juniors' tennis championships of Washington will be opened this morning at 9 o'clock on the Sixteenth Street Reservoir Courts with 40 players paired in the older division and 12 in the younger.

Neither of the 1930 winners, Frank Shore (junior) and Jock McLean (boys), will defend their crowns, but officials in charge anticipate a well-contested event.

Several Stars Seek Junior Crown.

Outstanding among the juniors are Clyde Smith, 1030 runner-up and captain of the Central High School team; Leonard Nicholson, local prep school champion; Charles Daly, who competed in the national public parks championships last year as a representative of Honolulu, and the Drown boys, who during the past two months have served as ball boys for the Tilden tennis tour.

Gilbert Hunt, runner-up to McLean in 1930, is regarded best of the boys field, with Nathan Ritzenberg looming as one of his strongest rivals for the championship.

The winners and runners-up in both divisions will represent Washington in the Middle Atlantic tournament, opening here on June 25.

JUNIORS.

HISER'S SEEKS GAME.

Due to a mix-up in their schedule the Potomac Food Distributors have canceled their game with Hiser's All-Stars scheduled for Sunday, leaving the latter team without a game. The All-Star nine is anxious to play. Teams interested should call Hyattsville 1024 after 10 a. m.

GERMANS VS. ISHERWOOD.

The German's Bakery nine will engage the Isherwood A. C. today on the Rosedale Playground Field at 2 p. m. All Bakery players are requested to report at Colorado avenue and Longfellow street northwest promptly at 1 p. m.

O'BRIEN PLAYERS, NOTE.

All players of the C. A. O'Brien team are requested to report at North Capitol and L streets northwest, between 12:30 and 1 o'clock today.

MAY GET DOG RACES.

Merced, Calif., June 6 (A.P.).—The National Coursing Association has given T. A. Griffin, local coursing chairman, unofficial assurance that the 1932 spring greyhound races will be held here next April. The event will be to determine the dog-racing championships of the United States.

and Haig Daingerfield beat S. Q. Collins, of Norfolk, 1 up.

Howell had little difficulty winning in the morning, 7 and 6, from J. Talbott, of Norfolk, but his Richmond chum, Charles Kent, kept abreast of him for the first eleven holes this afternoon before Billy pulled away to a 4 and 3 win.

Howell Completes Round in 72.

"I was right and I've never hit my drives better," was the way Howell, the 19-year-old stylist, spoke of his morning journey. After winning on the twelfth he played out the round for a 72. Except for trouble on the tenth and eleventh he would have reported a 69. His card, 35, 37—72, matched par.

Caldwell eliminated his fellow Baltimorean, Tom Cole, this morning, 2 and 1, and this afternoon gave George Short, of Norfolk, a sound 6 and 5 lacing. Cole's 39 outplaced him a stroke and a hole behind Caldwell, but on the way home he lost his putting touch and Caldwell won on the seventeenth. Short was no match for the former public links champion of Baltimore, and after running up a three-hole lead, Caldwell played conservatively for his win.

FIRST FLIGHT.

Ernest Caldwell defeated Tom Cole, 2 and 1.
Lieut. G. E. Short defeated Pat Dillon, 3 and 2.
Billy Howell defeated Tom Talbot, 7 and 6.
Charlie Kent defeated Nat Bundsy, 3 and 2.

BUCS SELL WILLOUGHBY.

Pittsburgh, June 5 (A.P.).—Sale of Pitcher Claude Willoughby to the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League was announced tonight by the Pirates. The cash consideration was not revealed.

Willoughby came here this year from the Philadelphia Nationals in a trade.

MRS. HAYNES OUT OF MD. GOLF PLAY

Bows, 5 and 4, to Mrs. Morrow in State Semifinals.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—Both finalists—Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow and Virginia Holzderber—gained the positions by victories on the fourteenth hole in the women's Maryland State golf tournament at Rolling Road Golf Club today. Mrs. Morrow eliminated Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia Club, the last Washingtonian in the honor flight, 5 and 4. By the same margin Mrs. W. Fairfield Peterson bowed before Miss Holzderber. The finals are scheduled for tomorrow.

For seven years either Mrs. Morrow, of Elkridge Hunt Club, or Miss Holzderber, of Baltimore Country Club, has won the State crown.

Two D. C. Players Still In Tourney.

Two Washingtonians remain in the tourney. Mrs. Frank Royer Keefer was carried by Mrs. Jesse Davis, Elkridge, to the twentieth hole before winning, 1 up. In the fourth flight, while Mrs. William Colladay, Columbia, is in the finals of the first flight consolations.

Pitt, Notre Dame Sign Four-Year Grid Pact

Pittsburgh, June 5 (A.P.).—Don Harrison, graduate manager of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh, announced tonight that Pitt and Notre Dame had signed a contract assuring the continuance of football relations between the two universities for the next four years.

The new agreement covers 1933 and 1934. Pitt and the Irish already were under contract to meet in 1931 and 1932. The Panthers go to South Bend this year and 1933, while the Irish will come here in 1932 and 1934.

TROJANS TOP TRACKMEN IN TRIALS

Qualify 12 at Stagg Field; 100 Yds. Run in 9.5 Seconds.

By WILLIAM WEEKES.

STAGG FIELD, Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—Performing just as anticipated, Southern California's Trojans swooped into Stagg Field today, made off with twelve qualifying places for the finals of the National Collegiate Association track and field championships, and remained a prohibitive favorite to retain the title they won last year.

From the time Bill Stokes sped to victory in his heat of the 120-yard high hurdles, the opening event, Southern California sailed along, placing at least one man in every test of the eleven tried except the 880-yard run and hammer throw; and no Trojan was entered in the latter event.

Frank Wykoff easily won his heat of the 100-yard dash in 0:09.6. Best time honors in the event however, went to Emmett Toppino, a stocky speedster from Loyola University, New Orleans, who made a show of his field to take his heat in 0:09.5, equaling the accepted world record set by Eddie Tolan, of Michigan, in 1929.

Wisconsin, Iowa Qualify Seven.

Wisconsin, Big Ten champion, and Iowa followed Southern California in qualifiers, with seven each. Ohio State was next with six, followed by Nebraska and Indiana with five each.

Toppino's performance was the only record accomplishment of the day.

The century trials, however, gave promise of as sensational a race perhaps, as last year's when Wykoff set a new N. C. A. record of 0:09.4, to defeat George Simpson, of Ohio. Tolan won his heat from Fazekas, Ohio State, in 0:09.7, and Peyton, Oklahoma A. and M., duplicated the figure in winning his test from McCormick, of Notre Dame. Every one of the four heat winners in the "100" appeared capable of tying Tolan's record in the final tomorrow, but Wykoff remained the favorite.

Williams Wins 440 Trial in 0:48.9.

The 440-yard dash produced another brace of places for Southern California. Vic Williams, Eastern intercollegiate champion, who equalled Ted Meredith's 0:47.4 last week, took his heat in 0:48.9, and Art Woessner was second to James Gordon, of Miami, in a 0:48.7 heat. Tom Hartley, of Washington, counted as Williams' greatest threat, easily won his trial in 0:49.3. Wykoff did not run in the 220-yard dash, but Delby, a more or less unknown Trojan, popped in with a second to qualify.

The finals will be decided tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock.

the war and made them submit to the magic of his strokes. Each time he played them in exact par—4 and 5—a par that was seldom reached during the four days of play.

After Armour and Jurado came Gene Sarazen, the first of the American homebreds, and Percy Allis, British-bred pro of a Berlin club. Each had 298. Tied for fifth place were Johnny Farrell and MacDonald Smith, of the United States, with 299. Then came the first of the British professionals, the Ryder Cupper, W. H. Davies, sharing seventh place with the Argentine youngster, Marco Churio, with 300.

Henry Cotton, the hope of England and leader for two rounds, putted his way right out of the championship picture. He needed a 79 and a 76 and wound up in a tie with Arthur Havers for tenth place. Havers is the only Englishman to win a British open since 1921, when the string of American victories began. Horton Smith, Willie Hunter and Joe Kirkwood, last of the Americans, finished, respectively, with scores of 303, 304 and 308, in the money but not much.

Armour, in Early, Awaits Results.

A dozen players were still in the running as the final round started. Armour, having played a loose round of 77 in the morning, was prepared for extreme measures and he took them. He had six 3s on his card, five 5s and only seven 4s. It was chance-taking on every hole with Tommy—shoot the works and win or lose it all—and his birdies were just enough to offset those holes where his boldness got him into trouble.

Armour's winning final round as compared with par:

Out—
Par	4	4	4	4	5	4	3	4	—	36
Armour	3	5	4	3	4	5	4	3	4	—35
In—
Par	4	4	3	5	4	3	4	5	—36	—72
Armour	4	3	5	3	4	5	3	4	5	—36—71

In far ahead of the other leaders, Armour waited around the clubhouse while one player after another came up to those last two holes, some with a chance to tie or win, others already out of it. Allis was one of those who had a chance and lost it at Barry Burn hole. Fearing the treacherous terrain around the brook pulled his tee shot too far to one side, went out of bounds and needed a six.

Following Allis came Reginald Whitcombe. He stumbled at the thirteenth and then couldn't whip those last few holes. Mac Smith came up and failed, taking the cruelest licking of all at Barry Burn, the island hole, and the "home," a 5—6—5.

Sarazen and Farrell, golfing partners for years, whipped the finishing holes, but early lapses had proved too costly and when their totals were added both were behind Armour.

Prince of Wales Cheers Argentinian On.

Then came Jurado, 10,000 Scotts, kilted and otherwise, pelting along in his wake. The Prince of Wales was at Jurado's elbow, cheering his golf instructor on. The bantamweight Argentine had made the turn in 36 and needed only a 39 on the last nine to win.

He faltered at the first hole but regained his poise and reeled off the next three in par. Five to go, a crown waiting for any decent scoring. Another precious stroke was lost at the "spectacles" hole, the fourteenth, but back to par he went on the fifteenth and sixteenth. The Prince of Wales raised his voice to cheer when Jurado rammed home a long one at the sixteenth. Two holes to go—par and four and five. Par would win, one over would tie. But Jurado was not up to the task. A six and a five was all he could do.

HUME SPRING TO ENGAGE VA. SOX

White Sox Will Seek 5th Victory Sunday in Annual Series.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 5.—Hume Spring tossers will hook up with an old rival, the Virginia White Sox, in Sunday's game at Baileys Cross Roads. Daymude or Hicks will hurl for the Springers. The White Sox have won the last four seasons from the Hume Spring nine and the latter team is anxious to stop the streak in Sunday's tussle.

Shout Taylor or Pete Ball will pitch for the Celtics in Sunday's game against the Washington Red Sox. The Alexandrians will be out for their second win. An important practice was held this afternoon in preparation for the tussle. This was the first work-out for the club in ten days.

Manager Julian Davis, of the Columbia No. 4 nine, has scheduled the Ballston A. C. for a game on Sunday aftrenoon at Ballston. The Columbias will carry a good team to Ballston for the battle.

The Colonial A. C. will mix with the Rose Council, J. O. U. A. M., tossers in their opening game on Guckert's Field Sunday. W. Dolph will pitch for the locals. Manager Bill Hammand has called an important practice for his club tomorrow.

Ted Miller, business manager of the Del Ray Athletic Club, has scheduled the Naval Hospital nine for a game on Sunday. This contest will be played on Edward Duncan Field. The Del Rayans hope to defeat the Gobs.

Hunters Station baseball team will tangle with the Mount Vernon nine Sunday at 1 p. m. on the Mount Vernon diamond. Manager Phillips of the Hunters Station team is seeking games. He can be reached by phoning Alexandria 248 after 6 o'clock.

The second annual Rotary-Kiwanis Club baseball game will be played in Ben Baggett's Stadium on Tuesday, June 23, it was announced by officials of the two civic organizations today.

All proceeds from this contest will be divided between the Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery, Baby Clinic, Boy Scouts and the Citizens Band. A feature of the day will be a scout circus. The Citizens Band will render selections. The Kiwanians won the ball game last year.

Richmond Franchise Funds to Be Secured

Richmond, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—Campaign officials expressed confidence early this afternoon that the $10,000 guarantee required to retain the Eastern League baseball franchise here will be pledged before the expiration of the time limit tomorrow.

Approximately $8,000 has been subscribed since the surrender of the franchise Wednesday by Ray Ryan, business manager of the Richmond Club, after resources of the team had been tied up with litigation.

Pony Show Scheduled At Leesburg Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., June 5.—An event of much interest to sporting folk in this section of Virginia will be held Saturday afternoon on the Miller estate, near Leesburg, when the pony show, held under the auspices of the Loudoun Junior Hunt, will attract one of the smartest gatherings of young horse folk ever seen here.

Among the ponies of note that will be seen is Queen of Sheba, owned by Stanley Green, jr., who won the championship at the recent Middleburg pony show. E. A. Miller will also have his ponies entered, as well as a number from the famed hunting section of Middleburg.

Officers of the Loudoun Junior Hunt in charge of the arrangements are John Alexander, president; Stanley Green, jr., vice president; Elmon Miller, secretary and treasurer, and John Miller, assistant secretary. Sterling silver prizes and high grade ribbons are offered as prizes.

The first class is scheduled to be called at 2 o'clock. There are ten classes.

Chevy Chase Due for Debut In Montgomery County Play

CHEVY CHASE, dark horse entry of the Montgomery County section of the Capital City League, will finally swing into action tomorrow on its home diamond after three unsuccessful efforts to launch the 1931 campaign. Old Colony will furnish the opposition. Old Colony will meet the Grays on the former's diamond in the second round.

"Nick" Valenza, who almost copped the title with Chevy Chase last season, has another great collection of ball players this year and is anticipating not a runner-up, but a winner. The team has shown well in all of the games played to date, and fans who have watched it have a feeling that Nick is right.

Their opponents have displayed a power, but at the same time have dropped their first two games in league competition. They did, however, give the champion Takoma Tigers a bad scare in their meeting, and Manager Burdine's charges must not be counted out of the race.

The Bethesda Firemen at last get their long-awaited chance to squelch the Tigers on the Silver Spring diamond. The Bethesda aggregation is confident that they will be the first to topple the Tigers, and Sunday's game should be a battle from start to finish.

ADDS CULLODEN TO STRING.

STOCK PRICES HOLD DESPITE PROFIT RUN

Slight Losses Are Recorded at Close; Spirit of Market Is Cheerful.

New York, June 5 (A.P.)—Financial markets generally succeeded in holding their better aprirts today. Stocks had little trouble in holding off a decline on profit-taking, although there was enough of a reaction just at the close to make final prices moderately lower in most instances. Gloomy crop reports from the Canadian Northwest boosted wheat in Chicago, where the volume was the largest since last November.

Trading in shares was considerably calmer, for realizing went forward in some volume and there was also selling by professionals who thought the rally was approaching a climax.

But the market was not so easily discouraged, and rails led a lively afternoon rally. The later trading was more irregular although the carrier issues closed higher. Sales totaled 2,800,000 shares, the first time this week that volume has fallen under 3,000,000.

Trade Fails to Aid.

The market was left to its own devices, getting no encouragement from trade trends. Rails appeared to like the news that the Frisco was preparing to finance its July 1 maturity with a short-term mortgage issue, although no agreement had been reached on the sale of the new securities.

The stocks were also kept in the limelight by the meeting of the Eastern executives here. Atchison at one time was 10 points higher, its rise dwindling to 2½ New York Central, Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific and others reduced smaller advances, but Delaware & Hudson was up 5 net and Union Pacific 8½.

United States Steel's best price was 84¾, where it was more than 2 points higher, but it lost ¼ net. American Telephone was up and down in another wide range, finishing a point above the low for a net loss of 1½. J. I. Case, National Cash Register, Firestone, Vanadium and some other specialties rallied briskly before the covering had died down.

Off Point at Close.

American Can, General Electric Radio, Anaconda, Sears-Roebuck and Public Service of New Jersey were off a point or more. There were small net declines in Westinghouse, Standard of New Jersey and General Motors.

The week-end mercantile reviews could report little of a constructive nature, noting a slow seasonal drift downward. Bradstreet's found "a premature tendency to midsummer slackening," while Dun's said "surface indications of trade progress are largely of an indecisive character."

The Canadian wheat pool's estimate that the condition of the crop in western provinces was 75 per cent of normal, compared with 90 per cent a year ago, and private forecasts of a much smaller yield there firmed Chicago quotations, which were up a cent net. Corn closed barely steady, with small changes either way. Cotton was active, losing 90 cents to $1.10 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were somewhat heavy after their recent rise. The German mark recorded a new low for the year, while sterling sagged. Spanish pesetas, however, were fairly strong.

Exchange Substitutes New Shorts Inquiry

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange has recalled its questionnaire of May 25, which sought information concerning the short positions of its members, and has modified request for similar information.

The former questionnaire required the names of customers of exchange members who had short positions. The new request requires merely the short position in each stock without the names of the customers for whom the short sales were made. It applies to the short positions at the close of business June 4 and daily thereafter.

Firestone Tires Show Gain of $1,367,579

Akron, Ohio, June 5 (A.P.).—Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. for the six months ended April 30 had net profit which amounted to $1,367,519 more than that for the fiscal year ended October 31 last.

An announcement by Harvey S. Firestone, president, after the board meeting today, said net profit for the company and all subsidiaries, including Firestone Service Stores, for the six months ended April 30 was $2,908,553. This compares with $1,541,034 reported for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1930.

Kolster Radio Firm Will Be Reorganized

Newark, N. J., June 5 (A.P.).—Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co., announced today his company will organize the Kolster Radio, Inc. Mr Mackay declared that his company owns a controlling interest in the Orange Securities Co., which recently purchased the assets of the Kolster Radio Corporation. The latter corporation had been in receivership.

Franklin Hutchinson was announced as president of the new concern.

Pure Oil Elects Board.

Columbus, Ohio, June 5 (A.P.).—Eleven men were elected to the board of directors of the Pure Oil Co. at a meeting here today. Those named were: B. G. Dawes, Columbus; H. M. Dawes, Chicago; S. S. Heath, Columbus; Raleigh Warner, Chicago; I. B. Humphreys, Denver, Colo.; W. E. Hutton, Cincinnati; W. S. Burdell, Columbus; W. C. Fairbanks, Indianapolis; R. M. McIlvain, Chicago; J. E. Ottis, Chicago, and C. B. Watson, Chicago.

Brokers Quit Exchange.

Toronto, June 5 (A.P.).—The brokerage firm of Fleming & Marvin withdrew its membership from the Standard Mining Exchange today. Their offices have been closed temporarily. The firm has been dealing in wheat and industrial stocks as well as in mining issues.

FOREIGN BONDS LEAD GAINS ON EXCHANGE

Brazilians Rally 5 Points at Close; Sao Paulos Top All Rises.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Sentiment toward both foreign and domestic investment bonds showed further improvement today, and the list as gauged by the averages closed higher for the third successive day. Sales involved $11,029,000, against $11,984,000 yesterday.

The most spectacular gains were registered in the foreign section where the rise of Brazilian government, State and municipal issues imparted strength to the entire Latin-American list and was communicated to some other foreign loans.

Brazilian governments rallied 3 to 5 points, and gains of one to three points were sprinkled through State and municipal issues. Indicating the readjustment that was taking place Sao Paulo State 7s soared 9¼ on a few sales. Argentine obligations were in strong demand, and about a dozen issues advanced on an average of 3 points. Italy 7s rallied nearly 2 points.

Australian loans moved up sharply in response to the announcement New Zealand would offer £5,000,000 5 per cent bonds in London Monday.

The best feature of the trading in domestic issues was the continued inquiry for legal railroad issues which have suffered severely from nervous selling. Convertible carrier obligations were strong and held their advances despite the irregular closing of stocks.

Among the strong investment rails were Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Southwestern, Canadian Pacific 4s, St. Paul 5s of 1975, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Missouri Pacific 5s, G H and I. St. Louis Southwestern 5s suffered a spectacular drop of 26½ points to a new year's low at 45. Southern Pacific 4½s and several other heavily traded issues eased fractionally.

After displaying signs of somnolence early in the session utilities resumed their advance when buying became more active in the late trading, and fractional advances among high grade power and communications companies issues were numerous.

Some of the improved sentiment was apparent in the behavior of industrials. Armour & Co. 5½s rallied 7½ points. Petroleum company obligations reversed their recent trend to appreciate. Trading in United States Governments was dull and all issues with the exception of Treasury 3¾s of 1940 and 1943 receded a shade.

MERCHANTS ATTACK RAIL RATE INCREASE

National League Indicates Cut Will Be Demanded; Battle Predicted.

(United Press.)

The first organized opposition to the railroads' prospective demand for a freight rate increase came yesterday from the shippers of 1,000,000 carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables, vital foods.

The National League of Commission Merchants issued a warning of "strenuous opposition," asserted that producers, growers and farmers generally will join the "offensive" against rate increases, and complained that railroads collected on their products last year an amount equal to one-half of the amount paid to farmers for producing them.

Freight charges on fresh fruit and vegetables are already "excessive," the league said in an announcement, adding that the rates should be reduced, and indicated it might take action to get the Interstate Commerce Commission to do so.

Rate Battle Is Seen.

"One of the most determined freight-rate battles fought before the Interstate Commerce Commission since the World War" was forecast as a result of the anticipated request of the railroads for an increase.

The statement was predicated on an assumption that the railroads will seek a horizontal increase of 10 per cent, or an increase which will affect fresh fruits and vegetables. The Eastern railroad executives, after deciding to seek an increase, have not formally made public their idea of how the rates should be increased or whether fresh fruits and vegetable rates should be increased. The Western executives are expected to seek a similar increase, whatever the nature of the proposal agreed upon.

A contest such as that promised by the league, if it eventuates, would undoubtedly hold up a final ruling for some time.

Survey Backs Points.

The league's statement gave results of a survey of transportation in the last three years to bear out its points. Fresh fruits and vegetables in 1930 provided railroads with 973,605 carloads of revenue-producing freight, paying $268,780,105 to the carriers. The farm value of these products was given at $489,518,129, and the freight represented 54.91 per cent of the total. On the basis of the value of the products when they reached the market—one step nearer the consumer—the freight rate represented more than 32 cents of each dollar's worth of cabbage, lettuce, grapes, watermelons, &c.

In some commodities, the league asserted, the railroads got more than the farmer. On grapes the freight bill was given as 185 per cent of the farm value—that is, the railroad got $1.85 for every $1 to the farmer. The luscious watermelon was said to net $1.37 to the railroad to every $1 for the farmer.

The league is an organization of growers, shippers and distributors of fresh fruits and vegetables. Robert F. Blair, of Cleveland, is president.

Howard University Presents Degrees To 305 at 62nd Annual Graduation

Dr. Cooper Is Speaker at Corner Stone Laying for Dormitory.

Booker T. Washington and Dr. Aggrey Praised for Achievements.

Degrees were conferred on 305 graduates at the sixty-second annual commencement exercises of Howard University yesterday in the amphitheater on the university campus. Diplomas were awarded to 82 in liberal arts, 106 in education, 5 in music, 6 in applied science, 8 in religion, 13 in law, 54 in medicine, 10 in dentistry, 13 in pharmacy and 8 in graduate courses.

The exercises followed an academic procession from Library Hall to the amphitheater, where music was rendered by the Musical Arts Society, directed by Wilfred W. Tibbs. Invocation was said by the Rev. William A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the Cathedral of Washington, made the commencement address, in the absence of Dr. Will W. Alexander, chairman of the Commission on Race Relations, of Atlanta, who was prevented from attending because of illness in his family.

Dr. Stokes spoke of "Man's Power of Achievement," using Booker T. Washington and Dr. E. V. Aggrey, as illustrations of what might be accomplished in America and Africa by development of latent powers of the Negro mind. "Dr. Washington's great autobiography," he said, "should inspire every person with his latent capacity if he would only develop and use his mind, heart and will the way Booker Washington did."

Grandson Is Graduate.

Among the graduates in the college of liberal arts who heard the address was William Sidney Pittman, jr., grandson of Booker T. Washington, who has worked his way through college.

Dr. William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, in the place of Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur, who was detained by a cabinet meeting, made the corner stone laying address at the new women's dormitories. Other addresses were made by Selma White, of the graduating class; Dean Lucy D. Slowe, for the university faculty; Dr. Sara W. Brown, as an alumni trustee. The corner stone was laid by Albert Cassell, university architect, Dr. Walton C. John of the United States Office of Education, and Dr. Michel O. Dumas, for the university trustees.

The list of graduates included:

ROADS MAY COMBINE IN RATE-RAISE PLEA

Eastern and Western Lines Invite Southerners to Parley June 11.

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Prospects that action for higher railroad freight rates would be cordinated on a Nation-wide basis appeared today at a meeting of Eastern railway presidents which was attended also by representatives of Western lines.

The conference decided to invite Southern railway executives to a meeting of three sectional groups—Eastern, Southern and Western—in New York, June 11, when the rate question will be discussed.

Today's meeting authorized R. N. Collyer, chairman of the Trunk Line Association, composed of Eastern carriers, to attend a regional meeting of executives of Southern railroads in Washington, June 9. Mr. Collyer, it is understood, will inform the Southern executives of the progress made by the Eastern lines tomorrow formulating a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for higher tariffs.

Attending the meeting as an unofficial committee of railroads west of the Mississippi were: Henry A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad; L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central Railroad; Hale Holden, chairman Southern Pacific, and J. E. Gorman, president, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway.

Clyde Brown, general solicitor of the New York Central Railroad, it was learned, presented a draft of a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission for consideration by the Eastern presidents.

It was learned, the draft recalled, that railroad traffic has decreased, that gross revenues have declined and that the carriers already are practicing the greatest economies possible. Consequently this draft, it was understood, raised the question of what the railroads could do to improve their credit, threatened by steadily declining revenues, and to provide sufficient revenue to permit needed improvements.

The exact nature of the petition to the Federal commission has not been decided upon, railroad executives said, but it was revealed that the whole ples will be based on the idea that a restoration of higher freight rates is necessary.

City Scrubs Up For Dedication

Springfield, Ill., June 5 (U.P.).—When President Hoover arrives here June 27 to officiate at the rededication of Abraham Lincoln's tomb, he will be greeted, by a Springfield "dolled" up in its best since the visit of President U. S. Grant to dedicate the original monument, October 12, 1874.

The clean-up for the dedication has been in process for several weeks, and many houses that haven't had a coat of paint for years are bright now. C. Herrick Hammond, State architect, who supervised the remodeling of the tomb, suggested the city "brushing up," and the idea was supported by civic groups.

Voters Favor Lawyers.

Boston, June 5 (U.P.).—Sixteen of the 40 members of the Massachusetts State Senate are lawyers.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

RUSHE AVOIDS JAIL BY PAYING ALIMONY

Fire Chief at Hyattsville Is Saved From Term by Aid of Father.

Noble F. Rushe, chief of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department, was saved from jail yesterday when his father, J. Frank Rushe, went from Hyattsville to the courthouse in Marlboro with nearly $300, which the younger man had been ordered to pay to his estranged wife as back alimony.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly sentenced the fireman to pay $280 back alimony, or to serve 90 days in jail for contempt of court. The court had ordered the man to pay his wife, Mrs. Maude Rushe, alimony of $20 a week, early this year, when their divorce suit was heard.

Mrs. Rushe, represented by Attorneys J. Wilson Ryon and Albert Hassall, alleged she had been paid only $60, and asked for the other sum. In addition, she claimed, she had not been paid the $50 counsel fees ordered by the court.

Rushe, mentioned as a candidate for president of the State Firemen's Association, has been in the public eye recently. A charge of reckless driving made against him after an accident while going to a fire was recently heard, but dismissed because the judge in the case said he had not made out the warrants.

Roy Eugene Newman, colored, who narrowly missed running into a car driven by the sheriff in front of the jail in Marlboro, was fined $101 for driving while drunk and reckless driving. In the car with Sheriff W. C. Hopkins was his chief deputy.

A conviction on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving brought a fine of $101 against George R. Walker, colored, of Eighth street northwest, near M street. Joe Thomas Hill, of Philadelphia, was fined $25 for speeding at a rate greater than 40 miles an hour, although charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving were dismissed. He was represented by Attorney Robert W. McCullough.

Work on widening the bridges on Bladensburg road between the District line and Hyattsville has already begun, as a preliminary to widening the whole stretch of road. The road between Hyattsville and Bladensburg will be 30 feet when finished, and 40 feet from Bladensburg to the District line.

In connection with the widening of the bridges, the channel of the Anacostia River will be deepened and straightened, relieving the flood situation which makes a lake of the highway in time of normal rainfall.

Work will be done on one side of the road at a time, to avoid rerouting traffic. Ten-foot lanes will be laid on each side first, probably beginning at the District line, while traffic uses the present road. Autos will then use the wide shoulders while the center of the road is repaved.

Another feature of the construction program is elimination of the sharp turn at the Peace Cross in Bladensburg. This is the only place where right-of-ways have not been obtained, but it is expected that it will not be necessary to condemn to gain the land needed. Stores which obstruct the view of approaching traffic will be razed.

It is hoped to have the work completed in time for the racing season next fall. However, it may take five months to finish the job. Although the distance is slightly less than two miles, the ten-foot lane method of construction will call for about seven miles of the narrow concrete.

About 2,000 persons have attended the industrial show being held in Hyattsville by the Exchange Club of that town, which opened Thursday night and will close tonight.

The show comprises 31 booths, exhibiting the products handled by merchants in the north end of the county. Committees include Dr. W. B. Spire, C. G. Burton, D. C. Fahey, jr., Elmore Power and Hugh S. Cawthorne, decorations and booths; Dr. R. A. Vawter, the Rev. Clyde Brown and C. J. Parkinson, finance; the Rev. Mr. Brown and Henry Hiser, public speaking; A. H. Seidenspinner, W. D. Porter and Frank Smith, publicity; Henry Hiser, Waldo Burnside, H. C. Fleming, W. D. Porter, W. B. Spire, Ray Czarra, Frank Smith and S. H. Harvey, exhibits; B. L. Anspon, A. H. Burton and the Rev. Clyde Brown rules. O. B. Zantzinger jr., is general chairman.

One of the three town officers appointed by the first Mayor and Council of Cheverly, Glenn D. Thompson, has declined to serve as marshal on a fee basis. The other two are Carl R. Yagle, clerk, and Dr. T. Maloney, health officer.

Thompson said he would not take office because he was not consulted until after he was appointed. Mayor Fred W. Gast said, however, that Thompson had intimated he wanted the job.

The marshal will be paid on a fee basis; the health officer will serve for nothing, and the salary of the town clerk has not been set by the council. Mr. Yagle, the clerk, also will act as treasurer, and will post bond of $1,000.

The council of the town, which was incorporated last month, has decided that State and county assessments will be adopted for town-taxing purposes. A budget for the town will be drawn up soon at a special meeting of the council to make a basis for a town tax rate.

About 150 Hyattsville persons have been asked to take part in "Corporal Kate," the play to be given in the Hyattsville Armory next Wednesday and Thursday, under auspices of the Strawn-Turner Post, American Legion.

Mayor Lemuel L. Gray is one of those asked to appear. The show will be marked by music by choruses and individuals. Katherine Barrows, a professional director, is staging the affair.

Others who have been asked to take part include "Mit" Jones, Robert Limon, Margaret Fainter, Samuel Goatwaite, Caesar L. Aiello, V. Allen Radcliffe, Henry Hiser, Harry Dobbs, Harwood Naylor, Marion Ervin, Blanche Kelly, Hugh T. McClay, Junior Brooks, Mrs. Goldie Hutchinson, Dr. Robert W. McCullough, Bobbie Edlavitch, Billy Hall.

CONFEDERATES END ALABAMA MEETING

Only Veteran Afoot in Parade at Montgomery Reunion Is Color Guard.

Montgomery, Ala., June 5 (A.P.).—The years rolled back today for a handful of the army of 600,000 that followed Lee as they moved up historic Dexter avenue to receive the acclaim of thousands who lined the streets.

One veteran from Louisiana walked the route that Jefferson Davis followed to his inauguration in the State capitol 70 years ago, but the remainder, numbering more than 1,500, rode.

This hardy warrior, with head high and saber flashing in the sun, strode up the street as a guard of honor to four battle-scarred flags carried by Boy Scouts.

A remnant of Forrest's Cavalry rode again in military formation, heads erect and shoulders thrown back.

The other veterans rolled up the street in automobiles from which the "Stars and Bars" and "Stars and Stripes" fluttered.

From a number of the automobiles, veterans held tattered battle flags and waved them in response to the cheers of the crowd as they sounded the rebel yell.

Gen. C. A. Desaussure, of Memphis, new commander in chief, and his staff, Gov. B. M. Miller and other officials dropped from the line of march at the reviewing stand, and the veterans saluted smartly as they passed. Behind the veterans, who were lined up in State divisions, came the women of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, then the staff sponsors, maids and matrons of honor.

The 1,350 Boy Scouts, representing every Southern State, who have acted as personal escorts to the veterans, formed the next section.

Veterans of the Spanish-American War and the American Legion followed the Boy Scouts, and then came floats, depicting scenes of Confederate history.

The ball of the Sons of Confederate Veterans tonight brought the 41st annual reunion to an official close.

Virginia Pair Wed in Capital.

Orange, Va., June 5 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Wyatt, of Rhoadesville, have issued cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Thelma, to Mr. Irving Herndon. The marriage took place in Washington, D. C., Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Herndon are now on an extended Northern tour and upon their return will make their home in Alleghaney, Va.

RESCUE SQUAD CAR WILL BE DEDICATED

Arlington Officials Plan Ceremony Today With Various Speakers.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County's first rescue squad car will be dedicated and put into service at 3 p. m. today. The apparatus will be stationed in the Jefferson District fire house at Virginia Highlands, but will respond to alarms in all sections of the county.

It will be manned by a crew selected from the 25 members of that department who have recently completed the American Red Cross first aid course, under supervision of the Arlington County Chapter, and under personal instructions of Lieut. L. P. Strobel, of Potomac Truck and Engine Co., No. 2, Alexandria Fire Department, and B. P. Gary, of the Washington Fire Department.

The squad car will be presented to Chief W. Glen Bixler, of the Jefferson District Fire Department in behalf of the county board of supervisors by State Senator Frank L. Ball. Fred A. Lyons, president of the department, will address the gathering. Other speakers include G. Frank Allwine, president of the Arlington-Fairfax Firemen's Association.

The Red Cross certificates awarded to the class completing the course will be presented, while the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fire Department will raise an American flag they recently presented to the firemen.

The apparatus will be christened and "dedicated to the service of humanity" by little Margaret Bixler, daughter of the chief.

Supervisors and other county officials, members of other fire departments and many citizens are expected to attend the celebration.

Fire Chief George S. Watson and Superintendent of Machinery Fern, of the District Fire Department, who inspected the new apparatus, were high in their praises of the new equipment.

Meeting last night at the home of Robert E. Plymale a special committee representing Radnor Heights, Aurora Heights, Park Lane and Rosslyn formulated plans for reorganization of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association to comprise those sections.

The committee, composed of Robert E. Plymale, chairman; Homer R. Thomas, Aurora Heights; Dr. C. L. Shear, Radnor Heights; George A. Rucker, Rosslyn, and William B. Hann, Park Lane, adopted a constitution and voted to hold a mass meeting in the Woodrow Wilson School Building June 15 at 8 o'clock.

The annual spring dance revue by pupils of Miss Marjorie Schuster, given as a benefit for the Arlington County school fund, will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight in the Washington-Lee High School auditorium. The program includes a variety of numbers, with children from 4½ years up through high school age taking part.

Children on the program include Nancy Lee Halsted, Babs Lambert, Miriam McGrath, Betty Smith, Patty Coleman, Nancy Lee Throgmorton, June Colberg, Gertrude Merchant, Jean Bolen, Agnes Deaton, Neenah Felton, Winifred Sias, Margaret and Theresa Childs, Eleanor and Doris Ann Jones, Catherine Comstock, Frances Deppert, Eloise Croson, Alice Alexander, Iona Lee Shepherd, Kathleen Copeland, Marie Oram, Ann Hathaway, Betty Rowell, Carolyn Dorsey, Sara Culpepper, Jane Ingling, Jean Parker, Jean Talbott, Jane Thompson, Betty and Peggy Bowman, Barbara Crewe, Rosemary Newman, Lorna McLeod and Harriet Gerrits.

The State Corporation Commission has granted a charter to the Airport Swimming Pool, Inc., with principal offices located at South Washington, Arlington County.

The corporation, according to the charter, will engage in the business of maintaining and operating swimming pool, turkish, needle and electric baths.

The capital stock consists of 3,750 shares, of which 1,250 have a par value of $100, and 250 shares of no par value.

Officers are: Keith Kiggins, president; Edna V. O'Brien, treasurer; Amelia Earhart, vice president; Chester B. McLaughlin, secretary, and E. L. Vidal, vice president. Members of the board of directors are: E. L. Vidal, Keith Kiggins and William C. Gloth.

Arlington County will be put on the "pan" the evening of June 15 when the Organized Woman Voters of Arlington County hold their first annual grill at the Army Navy Country Club.

Facts of interest will be brought into play at this unusual dinner dance. Besides a group of distinguished honor guests, a surprise program is planned.

The following subcommittee have announced Mrs. Ruby Simpson, general chairman; tickets, Mrs. Ruth Lowell, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Bertha Kelley; program, Mrs. Marian Hagan, Mrs. Florence Cannon and Mrs. Sloan; music, Mrs. Wilda McNemar, Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Ruth Simpson; cards, Mrs. Edith Walton, Mrs. Ethel Cook and Mrs. Clara Williams; decorations, Mrs. Skidmore, Mrs. Jessie Roberts and Mrs. Alice Semones.

Services at the Clarendon Methodist Church tomorrow will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. John H. Pearson. His morning subject will be, "Building the Temple of Home Religion." In the evening he will preach on "The Cry for Reality."

Six Rotary Clubs To Meet at Beach

G. W. Whitwell, of Washington, Will Address Session Next Monday.

Chestertown, Md., June 5 (A.P.).—George W. Whitwell, past president of the Washington Rotary Club, will be the principal speaker June 8 when Baltimore, Elkton, Chestertown, Denton, Centreville and Easton Clubs gather at Tolchester Beach for an intercity conference and dinner.

About 150 members are expected with a sprinkling of Baltimore members and almost the entire roster of the other clubs, according to President Clinton C. Jones, of the Chestertown Club, which will be the host organization. Dinner will be served at the Tolchester Hotel.

Oliver Short, of the Baltimore Club, is expected to lead his delegation and other officers who will be in charge of their respective club delegates will be Gale Cooper, Denton; Samuel Shannahan, Easton; Norma Walters, Centreville, and Henry Pippin, Elkton.

SOUTHERN VETERANS WILL MEET JUNE 23

Sons of Confederate Heroes Also Will Convene at Charlottesville.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 5.—The forty-fourth annual reunion of Confederate Veterans and the thirty-sixth reunion of Sons of Confederate Veterans in Virginia will be held here June 23-25, with an elaborate program being arranged for entertainment of visitors.

The last reunion was held in Charlottesville seven years ago, May 20-22, 1924, when a bronze equestrian statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee, gift of Paul Goodloe McIntire to the city, was unveiled.

The first business meeting of the Grand Camp will be held June 23, at the Monticello Hotel. Following the invocation by the grand chaplain, Dr. James C. Reed, the veterans will hear the annual address by Grand Commander Carter R. Bishop. The remainder of the session will be taken up with reports and greetings from the Sons of Veterans.

The annual meeting of the Virginia division of the United Confederate Veterans will be held that afternoon, with Maj. Gen. William McK. Evans presiding. An address will follow the election of officers.

Tour Is on Program.

That evening the formal welcome and presentation of official ladies will take place in the armory of the Monticello Guard, the program to be under joint auspices of sons and veterans.

No business sessions of the Grand Camp will be held June 24. The veterans, sons and official ladies will be taken on a sight-seeing trip to Monticello, home of Jefferson, and to Ash Lawn, for 26 years the residence of James Monroe, author of the Monroe doctrine. Returning, the veterans will go to the armory to hear an address by R. Gray Williams, of Winchester. Dr. Paul B. Barringer, former president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will act as master of ceremonies.

In the evening an instrumental and vocal concert will be given in Lee Park by local and visiting bands, church and civic choirs. This will be followed by a grand ball.

Plan Parade June 25.

At the final business session of the Grand Camp June 25 officers will be elected and a place selected for the next meeting. The grand parade of the encampment will be held at 11 o'clock and the reunion will close with a dinner at the Monticello Hotel.

The meeting of the Sons of Veterans will be called to order at the armory by the Rev. W. Roy Mason, chaplain Virginia Division and commander of the R. T. W. Duke Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, this city. Albert S. Bolling, State commander, will assume the chair and the visitors will be welcomed by Mayor Fred L. Watson. The response will be by Past Commander Lee O. Miller, of Richmond.

Following greetings from various Confederate organizations, the official ladies will be formally presented by Charles T. Norman, commander in chief Sons of Confederate Veterans, Richmond.

Randolph-Macon To Hold Exercises

Commencement Program to Begin Tonight and Close Tuesday.

Ashland, Va., June 5.—Commencement exercises of Randolph-Macon College begin tomorrow night and run through Tuesday evening. Addresses of invited speakers and formal college functions will feature the morning programs while the various evening programs are representative of various student activities.

The Rev. Thomas A. Smoot, D. D., pastor of Epworth Church, Norfolk, will be the baccalaureate preacher on Sunday morning at the services in Duncan Memorial Church on the college campus.

The program of commencement opens with a concert by the Randolph-Macon Glee Club under the direction of T. Eugene West, presenting as guest artists Grace Cosby Hudgins, contralto; Charles Troxell, tenor, and Charles Shopland, violinist, of Richmond. This concert is open to the public without charge. Monday is alumni day. The annual address to the society will be made at noon by Albert L. Moise, '91, formerly of South Carolina, now a prominent attorney of Philadelphia.

KIWANIS CLUB HOST TO SCHOOL CLASSES

Graduates of Alexandria and George Mason Are Luncheon Guests.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria, 523.

The Alexandria Kiwanis Club was host at luncheon yesterday to 90 members of the graduating classes of the Alexandria High School and the George Mason High School. R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools, was in charge of the program, presided over by Roger C. Sullivan, club president.

Among entertainment features was a pantomime under direction of Miss Elizabeth Blalock, with pupils of the Alexandria High School as participants. The George Mason part of the entertainment, directed by Miss Edith Spalding, consisted of a solo by Martin Petersilia and an accordion selection by Hensell Harris.

Short talks were made by C. H. Strader, principal of the George Mason High School, and Henry T. Moncure, principal of Alexandria High. A short address was made by Charles Stump, president of the senior class of the Alexandria High School.

Miss Caroline Stanton and Miss Jane Norford introduced members of the cast of "Sweetwater Trail," presented last night by the students, which will be repeated tonight.

Beginning today the ordinance limiting parking on King street to one hour, which has been on the books for some time but has never been very strictly enforced, will be carried out, in accordance with action taken Thursday by the city council. Special police will be assigned for this work by Capt. W. W. Campbell. The parking limitation applies between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., between Fairfax and Patrick streets.

Parking is prohibited at any point where there is a double railroad track, which applies on upper King street from Harvard street to Temple Station.

The question of banning buses from King street also was discussed by the council, but no definite action was taken.

Ordination services were held yesterday at the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia, marking the close of the 108th annual commencement exercises. Those ordined were Robert C. Beverley, of Richmond; W. C. Brooke, of Washington; Alfred L. Griffiths, of Methuen, Mass.; Albert C. Muller, of Berryville, Va.; James B. Roe, of Sudlersville, Md.; William R. D. Turkington, of Trenton, N. J., and William Wyille, of Charlottesville. The ordination ceremonies were conducted by Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, of Virginia; Bishop W. L. Gravatt, of West Virginia, and Bishop Frederick D. Goodwin, of Virginia.

The ordination sermon was preached by the Rev. Lewis Gibbs, of Staunton, Va.

A meeting of the Tribune Fresh Air Fund, of which Mrs. Harry Kirk is chairman, was held yesterday in the George Mason Hotel to make preparations to receive here July 9 as many children as homes can be found for. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Edwin Davidson, Mrs. Irvin Diener, Mrs. Richard L. Carne, Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, Mrs. George W. Roop, the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, Mrs. J. Frank Carlin, Mrs. D. Manchlin Elvin and Mrs. W. A. Thomas.

L. S. Evans, a member of Rescue Squad No. 1, of the Alexandria Fire Department, yesterday was appointed driver of the new ambulance just placed in service at No. 2 Engine House, Potomac. The appointment was made by City Manager Wallace Lawrence.

The ambulance and rescue squad will be ready to answer calls at all times, when notified through police headquarters, anywhere within the corporate limits of Alexandria, and outside the city limits in emergency cases. The ambulance also will answer all fire alarms when summoned by the officer in charge.

The ambulance was recently purchased at a cost of $3,000, raised by popular subscription.

The will of Mrs. Sarah M. Baggett, who died recently, admitted to probate in circuit court here, disposes of an estate valued at $62,000. The will, dated September 19, 1927, names the Citizens National Bank as executor.

The baseball park adjoining the Baggett residence on King street is left to a son, Benjamin Baggett, and the remainder of the estate is to be divided equally between three of the children — Mrs. Roberta Watkins, Charles F. Baggett and Benjamin Baggett. It is stated in the will that provision already had been made for a daughter, Miss Viah W. Baggett. Mrs. Baggett also bequeathed $250 to each of her six grandchildren.

Mrs. Ada Warfield Kurtz, widow of Byrd Kurtz, and daughter of the late Abel Davis and Sarah Warfield, died yesterday at the Alexandria Hospital, at an advanced age. She is survived by a brother, Gen. Edgar Warfield, of Alexandria.

The body was taken to Demaine's undertaking establishment, whence the funeral will be held probably Monday, although definite arrangements have not been made.

The city council has reversed its decision not to allow dumping of trash from outside the city on the site at Four Mile Run, and this dump, which was established by the Town of Potomac before that became a part of Alexandria, will be operated on a large scale, probably being substituted for the two dumps south of the Highway Bridge, used for years by Washington contractors and others.

Signs had been erected on the two dumps near Washington, directing drivers to Four Mile Run, but the city council declined to allow the use of the site, and police were instructed to prevent dumping there. However, Representative Howard W. Smith appeared before the council and stated that 70 acres of marsh land forming the south border of Four Mile Run is owned by himself, C. C. Carlin, sr., and others, and, on motion of Councilman Dwyer, the dumping on the site will be permitted.

Judge Smith stated that a high board fence would be erected to screen the dump from sight; that it would be burned only at night, and that a man would be employed to direct the dumping operations.

GARDEN DELEGATES MEET WEDNESDAY

Prominent Virginia Women Will Entertain at Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—Prominent Virginia women are expected to attend the annual meeting of the Garden Clubs of Virginia to be held here next Wednesday and Thursday. The visitors will be guests of the Warm Springs Valley Garden Club.

Mrs. Andrew Christian, of Richmond, who has a summer place at Warm Springs, will be among the members of the hostess club who will entertain the visitors in their homes. Mrs. Christian, with Mrs. William McKee Dunn, president of the Warm Springs Valley Club, and Mrs. William Clark, of Princeton, N. J., will be hostesses at luncheon at the Cascades Club at noon Wednesday when the program of entertainment will be formally opened.

Following the luncheon the visitors will be driven through the valley on a tour of inspection of the gardens owned by members of the hostess club. Later in the afternoon the party will separate into groups for tea at various residences. Among the hostesses will be Mrs. Fay Ingalls, at the Yard; Baroness Rosenkrantz, at Roseloe; Mrs. Dunn, at Gramercy Farm; Mrs. Susan Parks, at Boxwood Farm; Miss Florence Johnson, at Three Hills, and others.

In the evening the members will go to the Homestead for the annual dinner party of the Garden Clubs of Virginia.

Thursday the visitors will be taken on a motor trip to Ingalls Field—the Hot Springs Airport on the top of Warm Springs Mountain, where a picnic luncheon will be served. The drive will be continued after luncheon along the mountain.

Thursday evening the visiting club members will separate into three groups for dinner parties.

Following the dinner parties the visitors will go to the Homstead Theater, where a speaker of prominence will give an illustrated lecture on "Gardens," concluding the program of the meeting.

Class at Woodberry Forest Hears Address by Dr. Edwards.

Woodberry Forest, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—Twenty-eight seniors of the Woodberry Forest School are being graduated here, with Dr. Boyd Edwards, head master of Mercersburg Academy, as commencement speaker at exercises tonight.

Annual graduating class banquet was held last night. L. W. Dick, jr., athletic director, awarded track letters to Capt. Louis Haggin, Capt.-elect Jimmy Gwinn, John Weaver, William Myers, Joe Webb, Tayloe Perry, Walter Taylor, Wallace Sanford, Tom Evins, Fred Lassiter, Harry Earman and Frank Kenan.

H. T. Saxton presented baseball letters to Capt. Dick Lewis, Capt.-elect Billy Woollen, Emmet Joyner, Sullivan Bond, Simmonds Patterson, John Weaver, Jack May, Alfred Williams and Huber Hanes. Golf championship prize was presented to Robert Monstead, of New Orleans, while Duncan MacDougal, jr., of Brevard, N. C., won the tennis award. The Crafton and Sparks medal given annually to the best all-around athlete went to John Weaver, of Charleston, W. Va.

TIME LIMIT FIXED FOR SIGN LICENSING

Owners of Billboards Are Given 30 Days to Get State Sanction.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Billboards along Maryland highways must be licensed within 30 days or they will be removed by the State Roads Commission, according to a letter forwarded to billboard owners and advertisers by Maj. H. D. Williar, jr., chief engineer of the roads commission.

A small aluminus plate will be issued to the licensee to be displayed on the signboard as evidence of its legality. Unless this plate is displayed at the end of the 30 days' grace period the roads commission will remove the sign.

According to Chief Engineer Irving C. Root, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, this will result in elimination of a number of signs in the metropolitan areas of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. Once the sign is torn down, the owners can not rebuild because of an ordinance which prohibits erection of signboards in that area. He said he had been informed that a number of signs on State rights of way will be torn down shortly by the roads commission.

Suburban Montgomery County's new telephone rates and service go into effect today, according to officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Subscribers must make application to the company for the new service before their phones will be included, however, company officials warned.

All subscribers on the Silver Spring exchange who make application will be placed on the Shepherd exchange at a lower rate than heretofore and will be given service to Washington and Silver Spring toll free. Bradley exchange subscribers in Bethesda and contiguous territory will be transferred to the Wisconsin exchange, which will have the same privileges.

Those who wish to retain the purely local Silver Spring and Bradley service will be permitted to do so and will be permitted calls to the Shepherd and Bradley exchanges without toll charges. The new service has been approved by the Maryland Public Service Commission and the Montgomery County Civic Federation, as well as by smaller civic and business organizations.

Applications for transfer to the new service must be made at the company's office in Washington.
